Baker Named To Bench By Gov. Curley

Boston, Nov. 6 (AP)—Gov. James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councillor J. Arthur Baker (Republican) of Pittsfield, as justice of the superior court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the executive council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The executive council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell, of Fall River.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high state office by Gov. Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River finance commission when the legislature ended its session last summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Reports were current that Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to succeed Baker.

G. O. P. Elect Candidates In Many Bay State Cities

Elections Hit Roosevelt And Curley Policies In This State. Close Contest In Kentucky.

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—A State police guard today was placed over ballots in the mayoralty election in Cambridge pending petition for a recount by John W. Lyons, defeated by 267 votes by John D. Lynch.

In what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Governor James M. Curley, Worcester was back in the Republican column, Walter J. Cookson (R), having defeated Democratic floor leader Edward J. Kelley by 2124 votes.

Dewey G. Archambeault, (R), defeated Charles R. Flood (D), in Lowell. Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of President Roosevelt in Everett, was defeated by Alderman Frank E. Lewis (R), exalderman Leslie E Knox (R), defeated Mayor James Hagan (D), in Somerville.

Four women including Miss Edna Granitsas, 22, Radcliffe student, elected to Marlboro school committee, were victorious in minor contests.

Unseating of three city councillors and re-election of two school committee members featured Boston voting.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6 (INS)—Swelled by bitter national issues, internal strife within the Democratic party, and an old fashioned wet and dry fight, tabulation of the greatest vote in Kentucky's history began today.

Approximately 1,100,000 voters trudged to the polls yesterday, political leaders estimated, to decide the heated gubernatorial contest between A. B. Chandler, Democrat, and Judge King Swope, Republican.

Two men were killed and two others wounded in brawls following arguments over candidates.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6 (INS)—President Roosevelt adhered steadfastly today to the rule he made back in 1928 and declined to make any public comment on the New York State assembly and Philadelphia mayoralty elections.

It was predicted that when the Empire State's total vote of yesterday has been counted and analyzed, the Democrats will be found with a popular plurality of from 400,000 to 500,000.

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Viewing results of elections in various sections of the State and nation, Governor James M. Curley today declared the "outcome was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration of Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying."

The statement of the governor—the original Roosevelt for President leader in Massachusetts—was seen by poltical observers as an indication that the governor was not going to climb off the band wagon as had been predicted by other political prognosticators.

Curley Rebuke Seen in Result At Worcester

Springfield, Lowell and Other Cities in Control of G. O. P.--Manning Wins in Lynn

Boston, Nov. 6—(AP)—Republican victories were celebrated in several Massachusetts cities today as Democratic candidates were defeated in three partisan contests at yesterday's municipal elections and Republicans were elected in several cities ostensibly non-partisan.

The Worcester mayoralty, which was regarded by some political observers as a test of the strength of Governor James M. Curley (D) was won by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, who defeated State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the house. The vote was: Cookson 36,219, Kelley 34,095.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was re-elected by a margin of 5,197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The Somerville election was non-partisan, but was considered a Republican victory, with Leslie E. Knox, registered as a Republican defeated Mayor James Hagan Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1,400 votes. Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, U. S. marshal in Boston, who appealed for Hagan votes in support of the new deal.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, won two to one over Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was unable to complete his campaign and Dr. Carriere halted his own battle when informed of Greenwood's condition.

The Fitchburg election was non-partisan, but Mayor Greenwoood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in national politics.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic city treasurer, by 3759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "put the city on a business basis" led John W. Lyons, president of the city council, by only 267 votes in the first count. Both are Democrats.

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford (R) defeated John H. Burke (D); in Everett with one precinct missing, Frank E. Lewis, Republican was leading Mayor James A Roche, Democrat; Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was re-elected over State Representative Thomas Flannery in Waltham's non-partisan contest.

In Pittsfield, Mayor Allen H. Bagg was re-elected over Alfred C. Daniels, receiving 9,580 votes to 8,705 for Daniels.

Lynn voters also returned their mayor to office. J. Fred Manning, running for the fourth term as mayor, was given 18,972 votes to 9,061 for his opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

Baker Appointed New Superior Court Judge

BOSTON, Nov. 6—Governor James M. Curley, D, this afternoon submitted to the executive council for confirmaton the appointment of Councilor J. Under the council rules the appointment goes over one week for confirmation.

CURLEY TACTICS ARE LAMBASTED IN TALK BY SPEAKER SALTONSTALL

GOVERNOR IS A DICTATOR, SAYS HOUSE LEADER

Republican Candidate for Governor Addresses Beverly Women

CONDEMNS NAMING BAKER AS JUDGE

Compares Present Regime In Bay State With Huey Long Rule

Condemnation of the dictatorship tactics of Governor James M. Curley and his ruthless evasion and devaluating of the constitution was denounced by the Honorable Leverett Saltonstall, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and Republican candidate for Governor, who indicated in an address before the Beverly Women's Republican club yesterday afternoon that the present trend is for the usurping of Curleyism and a return to sane government.

"When Governor Curley returned from his trip to Hawaii, one of his first statements to the press, was that he was not a Dictator, but his actions on Beacon Hill belie the accuracy of his statement," Speaker Saltonstall explained.

Aiming his artillery at the present administration, Mr. Saltonstall continued: "Curley has indicated that he is going to appoint Arthur Baker, a member of the Governor's council, a Superior Court judge." There are now 5 Democrats in the council and 4 Republicans. If Baker is elevated to the bench, the Governor by his appointive power will put another Democrat in the council making 6 Democrats as against 3 Republicans. Such action will pave the way for using the council as a whip over the legislators.

Close adherence to the sacred traditions of the Constitution was emphatically sanctioned by Mr. Saltonstall. "Today we hear so much about scrapping the Constitution. It should not be scrapped, but should be lived up to, and not be evaded or devaluated."

Competent and efficient department heads in the employ of the State have been ousted to make way for Curley forces maintained Mr. Saltonstall with a disregard to faithful and loyal service.

Governor Curley's regime was compared with the conditions existing in Louisiana prior to Huey Long's assassination, with Curley and his forces assuming entire control of the government of this Commonwealth much in the same manner as the fiery Long whose colorful career was so abruptly halted.

Deplorable conditions of this state were disclosed by the speaker as he told of workers in the employ of the state fearing to exercise their personal opinion for fear of losing their jobs. Mr. Leverett, who has close contact with the activities in the State House, dating back to 1923 when he was elected to the State Legislature, told of the radical changes in the old policies of government because of the present day Curleyism.

"In the pioneer days the adage was "Go West young man—go West" Mr. Saltonstall stated. Today the statement is obsolete. Efforts to minimize the critical economic conditions of the country are futile, Mr. Saltonstall indicated. He cited an example of a cattle tender from Montana who came to Massachusetts to seek employment in the mills here and was forced to solicit aid from strangers.

A trend back to the Republican administration was foreseen by Speaker Saltonstall which started in the Second Essex Senatorial District when Senator William McSweeney was elected with a vast majority over his Democratic opponent.

Speaker Leverett Saltonstall announced that he would seek the Republican nomination for Governor on December 17. His decision was based on a personal investigation throughout the State, supported by the replies to the questionnaire sent by Honorable Horace T. Cahill to past and present Republican members of the State House of Represetatives with whom he had served during the past 13 years.

Speaker Saltonstall is 43 years of age and began his public career as a member of the Newton Board of Aldermen in 1920. The next year he was also Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County and in 1923 was first elected to the State Legislature. He has served since that time and has been speaker of the House since 1929.

He is a World War veteran, having served overseas, with the 301st Field Artillery, a Greater Boston unit. He is an active member of the American Legion. He is married and the father of five children.

The meeting of the Beverly Republican club was opened by the president, Miss Madeleine R. Torrey. Following the routine business, and the report of the secretary, Mrs. Joseph Donovan, the guest speaker was presented.

Following Speaker Saltonstall's address, tea was served. Mrs. Robert Wood was the hostess and Mrs. Austin Glidden and Mrs. George Thornton were pourers.

KELLEY DEFEATED IN BITTER FIGHT AT WORCESTER

Incumbents Hold Upper Hand Generally in Massachusetts, New Hampshire.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(AP) Incumbents held the upper hand, generally, in numerous municipal elections today in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the outstanding upset being in Somerville, Mass., where Mayor James Hagan lost.

The New Deal and local taxation were the chief issues.

Many Mayors Reelected

Mayors were re-elected in Pittsfield, Springfield, Fitchburg and Lynn, in Massachusetts and in Concord, Nashua and Keene, in New Hampshire. In Marlboro, Mass., the result was close and returns at Manchester, N. H. indicated the probable return of the incumbent.

State Representative Edward J. Kelley, accused by his opponents of receiving active support from Gov. James M. Curley, went down to defeat before Walter J. Cookson, a Republican, in a bitter fight for the Worcester mayoralty post. In 58 out of 66 precincts, the vote was Cookson, 31,910 and Kelly, 27,646.

The chief issue of their fight was "Curleyism," with the New Deal being touched on by some Democratic speakers.

Martens Has Lead

Re-election of Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, in Springfield appeared certain. Here labor questions dominated the campaign. Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat, had the support of the local Central Labor union.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, won two to one over his opponent, Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week and was not able to complete his campaign. His opponent, however, stopped his own fight when informed of Greenwood's serious condition.

Somerville Mayor Loses

Mayor Hagan of Somerville, went down before Leslie E. Knox, former alderman, who registered an unofficial plurality of 1,224 votes.

J. Fred Manning, incumbent, in Lynn, walked away with the non-partisan contest there, defeating Harlan A. MacPhetres, former mayor, 18,972 to 9,061. He was re-elected to serve his fifth term.

Mayor Allen H. Bagg was re-elected in Pittsfield by the narrow margin of 875 votes. Bagg received 9,580 votes to 8,705 for Alfred C. Daniels.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons was running slightly ahead of Paul F. Shaughnessy in Marlboro.

Concord Returns Storrs

In New Hampshire, Mayor John W. Storrs was re-elected in Concord; Alvin A. Lucier in Nashua, and George T. Trask (unopposed) in Keene. Mayor Damse Caron appeared reelected for the third term in Manchester.

No serious disorders marked the day in either state, although two men were arrested in Everett, Mass. for illegal voting.

APPOINTMENT TO BE CONFIRMED

Boston, Nov. 6—Governor James M. Curley (D) this afternoon submitted to the Executive Council for confirmation the appointment of Councilor J. Arthur Baker, of Pittsfield, Republican, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Superior Court Judge Frederick J. MacLeod. Under the Council rules the appointment goes over one week for confirmation.

The Governor, it was reported at the State House, intends to name Morton H. Burdick (D), of Easthampton, to the Council in Baker's place as soon as the Pittsfield man is confirmed as judge. Confirmation of Burdick would give the Democrats a six to three margin in the Executive Council.

Boston, Nov. 6—Governor James M. Curley this afternoon submitted to the Executive Council the name of Senator Charles T. Cavanagh, of Cambridge, Clerk of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex, to take the place of William A. Forbes.

Boston, Nov. 6—In the presence of the Executive Council, Governor James M. Curley this afternoon administered the oath of office to Rep. William Stockwell of Maynard, Republican recently elected from that district.

Governor to Maintain Hands Off Policy in Voke-Melley Campaign

HIS SECRETARY SO INFORMS THE EVENING RECORD

Melley and Not Curley the Candidate, Says 'Dick' Grant

Gov. James M. Curley will not take any part in the political campaign of Rep. William H. Melley, candidate for mayor in this city. This was definitely learned late yesterday afternoon by The Evening Record from the Governor's secretary, Richard D. Grant.

MELLEY ALONE

If Melley meets with defeat on next Tuesday at the polls, it will be Candidate Melley alone that will be defeated, the Governor's secretary inferred.

The Governor has adopted a policy of hands off in all municipal elections. He is of the belief that his position as chief executive demands that he not attempt to interfere, according to Secretary Grant.

When the Governor arrived from Chicago, Secretary Grant informed The Evening Record, he made it clear as to his position and any statements to the contrary are not true, Grant maintains.

Rumors about the city were to the effect that Rep. Melley was to receive the support of the Governor and that the latter would make a personal appearance here in his behalf.

Of Own Volition

Secretary Grant said that Theodore A. Glynn, close friend of Gov. Curley and now clerk of the Roxbury District Court, came to Chelsea to speak for Rep. Melley of his own volition. He was not sent here by the Governor.

An effort to discredit the Governor's political strength in Massachusetts is being made by his political enemies, according to Secretary Grant, and every time a Democrat who is known to be on friendly terms with the Governor is defeated, it is claimed that it was Curley who was defeated and not the candidate.

The secretary was emphatic in his remarks concerning the hands off policy of the Governor.

CURLEY CALLS ELECTION RESULTS MOST PLEASING FROM PARTY VIEWPOINT

Governor's Statement Indicates He Will Remain on Roosevelt Band Wagon Contrary to Other Predictions

BALLOTS IN CAMBRIDGE GUARDED BY POLICE

Boston, Nov 6—Viewing results of elections in various sections of the state and nation, Gov. James M. Curley today declared the "Outcome was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration of Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying." The governor said that with the policies of President Roosevelt in operation and with prosperity in the nation in 1936 there was "little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

The statement of the Governor—the original Roosevelt for President leader in Massachusetts—was seen by political observers as an indication that the Governor was not going to climb off the Roosevelt band wagon as had been predicted by other political prognosticators.

Boston, Nov. 6—A State Police guard today was placed over ballots in the mayoralty election in Cambridge pending petition for a recount by John W. Lyons, defeated by 267 votes by John D. Lynch.

In what political observers regarded as an upset for the New Deal and Governor James M. Curley, Worcester was back in the Republican column, Walter J. Four women, including Miss Edna Granitsas, 22, Radcliffe student, elected to Marlboro School Committee, were victorious in minor contests. Unseating of three City Councillors and reelection of two School Committee members featured Boston voting.

Thornton were polled.

HE GOES TOO FAR

The revolt against Gov. Curley's brand of politics is not rooted in any squeamish distaste for the common bargaining traditionally associated with the mechanics of our party system of government. We all know that the victorious party must have power to dispense patronage. The practice is useful and inevitable. But it must be carried out with discretion and with due regard for the public welfare. The public revolts when the slap-bang, uncouth methods of the ward heeler are injected into the conduct of high office.

When a judgeship is awarded, for example, as the outright result of an open political bargain, the general welfare is sacrificed for party or personal gain. Confidence of the people in the judiciary is shaken, regardless of the qualifications of the appointee, when the appointment is the brazen consummation of a political deal.

When the political heads of one faithful and efficient public servant after another are lopped off by the lord high executioner, and public service is demoralized, the people naturally conclude that the spoils system has been carried too far.

When attempts to wreck the opposing political party are carried to such extremes that party responsibility is destroyed and vindictiveness is carried into the performance of official duty, then the people also conclude that the governor has not properly distinguished between his obligations as chief magistrate and his obligations as chief of his party.

The former transcend the latter at all times, and acts of the governor as party leader can be condoned only in so far as they contribute toward the better performances of his office as chief magistrate and toward the general welfare.

Governor Curley Names Baker To the Superior Court Bench

Republican Member of Executive Council Rewarded for His Loyalty to Democratic Chieftain— Confirmation Deferred for One Week.

[By United Press]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Executive Councillor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, a Republican, was appointed to the Superior court bench by Governor Curley today.

If the appointment is confirmed, Mr. Baker will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod.

The appointment is considered in political circles Mr. Baker's reward for assisting Governor Curley in placing former Governor's Councillor Edmond Cote as head of the Fall River Finance Commission and Philip J. Russell, Sr., as a member of the Executive Council.

Under the rules, confirmation of the appointment was deferred until next week by the Executive Council.

To Name Burdick

It is understood that the Governor plans to fill the Baker vacancy on the Council with a Democrat, Morton H. Burdick of Easthampton. Burdick, a former State representative, was defeated by Mr. Baker for councillor in the 1934 election.

Through Mr. Burdick's appointment, Democrats would gain a six to three control of the Council.

Representative Bowker (R) Brookline described the nomination as "a favor to the Republican party."

Says Favor Done G. O. P.

"Governor Curley in nominating Councillor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party," he said. "The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their raising to the bait offered by the governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables his excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats his excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

Senator Cavanagh (D), Cambridge was nominated as Clerk of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex to succeed William A. Forbes.

Cavanagh's appointment was confirmed immediately.

Cavanagh's salary as clerk of the East Cambridge court will be $4,150. The appointment is for five years. His salary as a member of the Senate is $2,000 a year.

He declined to state whether he would accept his salary next year as a member of the Senate.

Dr. Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton was appointed as medical examiner of the First Hampshire district to succeed the late Dr. Edward Brown.

Dr. Corriden's appointment also was confirmed.

The council postponed until next week action on the report of State Public Safety Commissioner Paul G. Kirk, containing recommendations on the distribution of the $22,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the Millen brothers and Abe Faber. There are 21 claimants.

Cause for Concern.

The leaders of the Democratic party, national as well as state, have every reason to be concerned over the outcome of some of the mayoralty elections yesterday. In Massachusetts the Republican party swept back into control largely as the result of interference by the Democratic state committee.

To offset the damaging influences of the state Democratic machine, which invaded Worcester to coach and counsel the voters as to what they should do, the Republicans presented a united front. They were aided by thousands of voters of independent thought politically, who were determined that if their votes could help the situation, Worcester would not be turned over to the control of Curley and his henchmen.

concluded

The result was what may well be regarded as an overwhelming Republican victory, considering the political backing of the candidate against Walter J. Cookson. When it is taken into consideration that Worcester normally can point to a 7,000 Democratic majority and suffers defeat by several thousand, it shows the temper of the people as well as the contempt they have for the Democratic state leaders who may be full-fledged politicians but mighty poor strategists.

In view of the outcome in the Essex senatorial contest and the spanking the party took in the recent Hudson-Maynard district fight, where the Curleyites played their cards, it would possibly have been more profitable to have kept hands off. The Boston Democratic influence in the Worcester fight was disgusting to the average voter. Money, machines and every facility handy were at the disposal of candidate Kelly, an out and out Curley man.

The success of the Republican candidate in Worcester, the outcome of the fight in New York, the Republican landslide in Cleveland, the G. O. P. poll in Philadelphia should be indicative of the way the wind is blowing politically. The Democratic leaders may find it difficult to overcome some of the startling upsets of yesterday. Republican gains in the President's own state and the heavy Republican majorities elsewhere must convince the Democratic chieftains and administration followers that all is not well. One thing is certain, in Massachusetts the voters have shown that they will not tolerate national issues or Democratic state influence in municipal contests.

Curley Declared Cause Of Democratic Defeats

Regime of Democratic Governor Is Given Severe Rebuke As Republicans Are Victorious Where Curleyism Was the Issue.

While Republicans rejoiced today over decisive victories in three partisan mayoralty elections in Massachusetts, Democrats admitted that Curleyism had caused the tides of political fortune to change.

Not only did the Republicans sweep to victory in Worcester, Springfield and Lowell, where the contests were on a partisan basis, but they carried several cities where the elections were ostensibly non-partisan.

Worcester Bad Blow

The Worcester election was a severe blow to Curleysim.

Representative Edward J. Kelley, the Democratic candidate for Mayor of that city, was defeated by Walter J. Cookson, Republican, by a vote of 36,219 to 34,095.

That election had been set up as the real test of Governor Curley's strength in the State, for Mr. Kelley has been his mouthpiece in the State Legislature, and went into the contest with the full backing of the Curleyites.

Curley in Fight

Not only did the Governor back Mr. Kelley, but he also had the support of the man who was defeated by the Curley candidate in the primaries—Mayor John C. Mahoney.

Men and machines allied with Governor Curley in the last campaign were rushed to Worcester during the past week to enter into the fight and "win for Kelley and Curley."

The Republicans accepted the challenge and set up a platform of home rule. They demanded Worcester be run from the City Hall and not the State House.

The G. O. P. trend throughout the State was more noticeable than even the most rabid of Republican leaders had anticipated.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was reelected by a margin of 5,197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The Somerville election was nonpartisan, but was considered a Republican victory, with Leslie E. Knox, registered as a Republican, defeating Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1,400 votes. Mayor Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, U. S. Marshal in Boston, who appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, won two to one over Dr. Joseph Carriere. Mayor Greenwood was unable to complete his campaign and Dr. Carriere halted his own battle when informed of his rival's condition.

The Fitchburg election was nonpartisan, but Mayor Greenwood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in National politics.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic city treasurer, by 3,759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "put the city on a business basis," led John W. Lyons, President of the City Council, by only 267 votes. Both are Democrats.

Curleyism

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford, (R) defeated John H. Burke (D), in Everett, with one precinct missing, Frank E. Lewis, Republican, was leading Mayor James A. Roche, Democrat; Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was reelected over State Representative Thomas Flannery in Waltham's non-partisan contest.

In Pittsfield, Mayor Allen H. Bagg was reelected over Alfred C. Daniels, receiving 9,580 votes to 8,705 for Daniels.

Lynn voters also returned their Mayor to office. J. Fred Manning, running for his fourth term as Mayor, was given 18,972 votes to 9,061 for his opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

GREENWOOD IS REELECTED BY 4101 MAJORITY

Injured Fitchburg Mayor Given Big Vote; Curley Forces Lose In Worcester

The wildest demonstration of a political nature ever seen in Fitchburg marked last night the overwhelming victory of Mayor Robert E. Greenwood over former-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere. The majority was 4101. Two years ago the mayor, who is now in Boston City hospital suffering from critical injuries sustained in an automobile accident a week ago, was elected in a three-cornered battle by a plurality of only 134. The Independent Progressive party, of which the mayor was standard bearer, scored a smashing victory, winning seven of the 11 council seats.

The municipal election in Worcester resulted in the election of Walter J. Cookson, Republican, by the astonishing majority of 2124 over Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House and a staunch representative and advocate of the interests of Governor James M. Curley. Not only was the largest vote cast of any municipal election, 72,124, but the Republicans for the first time in six years regained control of every branch of the city government.

ELECTION DEDUCTIONS

Two deductions appear to be legitimate after reading the results of the municipal elections in Massachusetts and New York. Governor James M. Curley's influence is distinctly on the wane, if the election in Worcester of Walter J. Cookson, Republican, over Representative Edward J. Kelley, floor leader for the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, can be taken as a guide. And it should be. When Mr. Kelley entered the primary fight against Mayor John H. Mahoney the fact that he had the support of the Governor was no state secret. He was a Curley man seeking a public office. The Governor wants such in power. He failed to land Mr. Kelley.

The other apparent indication is that the New Deal is slipping fast in the opinion of the voters both in this state and in New York. In New York the Republicans regained control of the Assembly. Philadelphia elected a Republican mayor.

The mayoralty election in Fitchburg, conducted on non-partisan lines, resulted in Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, critically injured in a Boston hospital, being returned to office by the largest majority ever given a candidate in that city—4116. In this case, neither Governor Curley nor the New Deal had the slightest influence but undoubtedly sympathy played some part in the size of the majority.

The most hopeful sign is seen in the size of the vote cast in nearly every city.

WORCESTER — Walter J. Cookson, Republican candidate for mayor, was elected yesterday by 2124 votes, over Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic nominee.

In ward 7 the sweep took the aldermanic seat away from the Democrats, and won for the G. O. P. a working majority in both branches of the city council and the school committee.

The Republican candidates' victories were considered a direct repudiation of the efforts of Gov. Curley's forces to dominate the city.

Names Baker To $12,000 Post As Superior Judge

Republicans Say Curley Pays Debt---Democrats May Revolt

BOSTON—(AP)—Gov. James M. Curley today nominated executive councillor J. Arthur Baker, Republican of Pittsfield, as justice of the superior court to succeed the late justice, Frederick MacLeod.

That the majority of the governor's council might refuse to vote to confirm Curley's nomination of Baker to the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod, was learned last night when reports were widely circulated that two Democratic councillors, William G. Hennessey of Lynn and James J. Brennan of Somerville, would refuse to vote for Baker. This, with the three Republican members, would cause a five to four vote against him.

The position pays $12,000 a year and expenses when the judge is away from home, with no limit to such expenses. The Democrats are said to believe this appointment should go to a Democrat. The appointment of Baker has been termed by Republicans a political reward for deserting the party in council votes.

New Deal Gets Setback In Worcester Voting

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The New Deal appeared to have suffered a setback in the municipal election here today, early returns favoring Walter J. Cookson, Republican, for mayor, over State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader in the House.

Thirty-two out of 66 precincts gave Cookson 17,029 and Kelley 13,373.

All these were in Republican wards, but Cookson's supporters claimed the returns indicated a gain for their candidate of about 130 votes per precinct over figures in the municipal election two years ago.

Kelley promised lower taxes. Cookson claimed Kelley was supported by Governor James J. Curley and that the real issue was "home rule" for the city.

CURLEY NAMES BAKER JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT

Republican Councilor to Be Succeeded by Democrat, It Is Said

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker (Republican), of Pittsfield, as justice of the Superior court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. MacLeod.

Baker's name was submitted to the executive council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The executive council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the Governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell, of Fall River.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high state office by Governor Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River finance commission when the Legislature ended its session last Summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Reports were current that Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to succeed Baker.

We have miles of laurel planting that should show up as the years go on. But lilacs are loved by all men and fifty miles of them would be great, provided some modern equivalent of the Corsome road widener of the future wouldn't come along and root them up. The earliest founders of New England thought a lot of wayside planting. With al our modern talk we really have fallen below their standards.

Gov. Curley Scoffs At G. O. P. Victories In Tuesday's Voting

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Governor Curley scoffed at Republican victories today and termed the election results "most gratifying" to the Democrats.

"The outcome, both in the nation and state, was not unexpected," Curley said: "Contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, (the results) should be regarded as most gratifying from a Democratic standpoint.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at present and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people, there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago, the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's election, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies.

"With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

Election Warnings

The votes in Kentucky have not been counted. Therefore, the major results of yesterday's election are still not matters for a general consideration of what the people set out to do yesterday.

Here in Massachusetts, the Republicans made substantial gains. Whether they were tired of their New Deal support of last year, or whether they were in revolt at their own actions as they went hot-foot for "work and wages," or whether the Democrats resent the Curley domination of both parties, the result shows a decided change from the stand of last year.

It is likely that all these factors are figured in. The national New Deal leaders see New England fallen anyway, and they are quite ready to go ahead with their punishment of this tax-paying section of the country.

There is a great ground swell of opposition to the Curley philosophy among the Democrats of the State. For example they cannot see the fairness on any work and wages theory of giving $12,000 a year life jobs, with great attendant honors, to renegade Republicans, when there are brilliantly equipped Democrats to fill the high places. The Curley reasoning that he was elected to his office by Republicans is sound. But the Democrats were quite unified in supporting him, and it is from them that he might fairly expect support in the future, where he knows he has alienated Republican votes by his strategy with the Council.

Whatever elections have taken place of late might fairly be counted as rebukes to Gov. Curley's way of being Governor —that in Worcester is positively so.

In New York State, the Republicans have regained the Assembly by a small, but convincing margin, and there, the issue was straight and out New Deal. New York City, on the other hand, went back on its record of the last election, when they were trying to clean out what was left of Walkerism. Tammany is again on its own.

The New Dealers used every power they possessed to get Philadelphia. Nothing that the high technique of James A. Farley has at command was left unused. Philadelphia did not go New Deal.

Ohio has been certain to go anti-New Deal, for there, not the mayor to be elected, but the whole New Deal issue was up.

What happened in Kentucky we shall not know for several days—but there was a tremendous vote out.

We are seeing thruout the country something that makes us have new faith in our system of democratic government. That is the continued fluidity of the vote. The people go to the polls and tell the men in power that they have that power only by will of the people.

In the years since the World War we have seen one political turnover after another. When President Hoover was elected by the largest vote in history, they said his party would be in power for a generation. It didn't last two years. When Franklin D. Roosevelt got his record-breaking endorsement from the people last year, they said he would be in control for a generation. In two years favor had grown for him so that there could be no popular discontent for years.

In the course of twelve months, public opinion has had a tremendous drift, although by and large, not enough now to unseat President Roosevelt, but sufficient to give emphatic statement that the New Dealers would better get along to the fundamental essentials of democraic government, as planned for the American people down thru the years—and do that as fast as they can.

Washington, as well as Beacon Hill, was warned yesterday.

Repeated Folly

The Boston Post today points to what it considers to have been a major mistake in policy by the Democratic leadership in the State, saying:

"The Republican victory in Worcester, where a Democratic majority of more than 7000 was turned into a Republican majority of around 5000 was due in great part to the foolish strategy of Democratic State Committee leaders in invading the city to tell Worcester voters what they should do. There was no sense in turning a purely local contest into a fight over the State administration.

"The Essex senatorial contest and the recent election in the Hudson-Maynard district, where the State Committee intervened with disastrous results, should have taught a lesson.

"But the folly was repeated in Worcester with outside speakers, outside advertising, all calculated to irritate local voters.

"This gave the Republican forces the excuse that the election was a referendum on the administration of Governor Curley.

"Had they allowed the Democratic candidate to make his own fight on his own issues he would have made a better showing.

"The success of Republican candidates in other cities is something that should cause the Democratic leaders considerable concern."

ELECTION NEWS CHEERS THE G.O.P. IN BAY STATE

Triumphs in Number of Cities Seem Like Good Omens for 1936 — Kelly, Curley's Candidate for Mayor of Worcester, Defeated — Martens and Bagg Re-Elected in Springfield and Pittsfield.

BOSTON, Nov. 6—Massachusetts Republicans were cheered today by municipal election triumphs which seemed like good omens for 1936.

Complete returns showed that G. O. P. candidates were victorious in all three cities—Worcester, Springfield and Lowell—where the mayoral battles were on a partisan basis.

Another heartening harbinger, Republican leaders felt, was the fact that in three other cities where the mayoral contests were non-partisan, Republicans defeated Democrats.

Here are the city-by-city election results:

Worcester—Walter J. Cookson (R.), 58-year-old sales manager for a stove company, scored a surprise victory over Edward J. Kelley (D.), 38-year-old veteran legislator. Although Kelley carried the endorsement of retiring Mayor John C. Mahoney, Cookson won by 2124 votes.

Springfield—Mayor Henry Martens (R.), who also is a florist, said it with flowers, defeating Dr. James A. Redden (D.), dentist and one-time police commissioner, by 5197 votes. It was Martens' second term.

Lowell—The new mayor is Dewey G. Archambault (R.), who was born soon after the Battle of Manila Bay and named for its hero. Archambault, a lawyer and undertaker, bested City Treasurer Charles R. Flood (D.) by about 2500 votes.

Somerville—Leslie E. Knox (R.) insurance man, who was defeated two years ago by Mayor James F Hagan (D.), turned the tables and unseated the mayor. Knox's margin was 1344 in a non-partisan contest.

Medford—Mayor John J. Irwin (R.), who defeated John H. Burke (D.), two years ago, did it again. Irwin's handsome margin was 6154 votes in a non-partisan battle.

Waltham—Doctor-Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald (R.) won a second term by defeating State Representative Thomas J. Flannery (D.) by 2242 cotes. It was a non-partisan election.

Lynn—Mayor J. Fred Manning (D.), who didn't bother to campaign, easily beat former-Mayor Harland A. McPhetres (R.) in a non-partisan contest. Manning's margin was 9911 votes.

Cambridge—There may be a recount. John D. Lynch, banker-druggist, supported by retiring Mayor Richard M. Russell, had a majority of only 267 votes over City Councilor John W. Lyons.

Everett—Alderman Frank E. Lewis, 32-year-old broker, defeated Mayor James A. Roche, who was seeking a third term, by 2082 votes.

Fitchburg — Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, in a serious condition at a Boston hospital following an automobile accident, was re-elected with a 4213 majority over former-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere. Greenwood is a son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge.

Pittsfield—Mayor Allen H. Bagg, 68-year-old banker, won a fifth term, defeating Alfred C. Daniels, insurance agent, by 875 votes.

Marlboro—Mayor Charles A. Lyons, who has reduced Marlboro's tax rate from fourth highest to sixth lowest in the State, won a third term, defeating Paul F. Shaughnessy, lawyer, by 345 votes.

BOSTON, Nov. 6 — Rep. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Beverly, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senatorship formerly held by his grandfather and namesake, today heralded Republican victories in Massachusetts and New York as "a clear sign that people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of smug inaction."

"They (the results) show a strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results," Lodge said

Councilor Baker Appointed Judge Of Superior Court By Gov. Curley

Confirmation Delayed For a Week; Burdick Is Slated for Council

BOSTON, Nov. 6. (U.P.)—Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker, a Republican, was appointed to the Superior Court bench by Governor Curley today.

J. Arthur Baker

If the appointment is confirmed, Baker will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod.

Under the rules, confirmation of the appointment was deferred until next week by the Executive Council.

It is understood that the Governor plans to fill the Baker vacancy on the Council with a Democrat, Morton H. Burdick of Easthampton. Burdick, a former state representative, was defeated by Baker for councilor in the 1934 election.

Thru Burdick's appointment, Democrats would gain a 6 to 3 control of the Council.

Rep. Bowker (R) Brookline described the nomination as "a favor to the Republican party."

"Governor Curley in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party," he said. "The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their raising to the bait offered by the governor. STATE HOUSE NEWS IN BRIEF

Executive Council to Decide Who Gets State Reward.

BOSTON, Nov. 6—It was expected that the executive council would decide at its meeting today to whom the $22,000 reward, offered by the state for information that would lead to the arrest and conviction of the Millen-Faber gang, should be paid. Lieut.-Col Paul G. Kirk, commissioner of public safety, had been requested by the council to investigate the 21 claimants for the reward He has done this and handed in his report to the council yesterday.

"I earnestly request that citizens and parents take advantage of this opportunity to bring about a more widespread understanding and encouragement of one of the most fundamental enterpises of a free people, that of the education of its future generations," wrote Gov. Curley yesterday in his proclamation calling the attention of people of the state to observance of Education Week next week.

With a bid of $147,951.10 the H. L. Hauser Building Co., Inc., of Dorchester was the lowest bidder for the contract for a grade crossing elimination project in Waltham, which calls for the construction of a stringer bridge over the Boston & Maine R. R. tracks at Beaver Brook. The Boston Bridge Works, Inc., Cambridge, with a bid of $36,017.43, will supply, fabricate and erect the steel work on the underpass.

Yesterday Gov. Curley was asked by Joseph Nunes of Salem, a 46-year old leather worker who lost both hands while at work on a leather machine, to seek an opinion from the state industrial accident board on whether he should receive compensation under the new law which makes mandatory life compensation for workers who are permanently incapacitated. The governor has indicated he will seek the desired ruling.

Gov. Curley yesterday instructed Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan not to allow strike-breakers to use the state pier at New Bedford as the result of a protest made by Daniel J. Donovan, president of the Longshoremen's Union, who alleged that WPA and PWA workers had been quitting Federal relief rolls to become strike-breakers.

P. A. O'Connell is to head the Massachusetts Will Rogers' Memorial committee, according to an announcement made by Gov. Curley yesterday. His associates will be John Shepard, 3rd., Alexander Brin, Allan Forbes, Frank I. Dorr, Edward Mitton, Clifton Carberry, Joseph A. Tomasello and Lieut.-Gov. Joseph L. Hurley.

Americanism Coming Back

If city after city in the country had gone Democratic yesterday; if this town and that city in Massachusetts had elected Democratic Mayors, or reelected them; had the Democrats swept New York state and President Roosevelt's district and Postmaster-General Farley's district had each gone Democratic and the New York Legislature had a strong Democratic majority in its personnel, as a result of yesterday's election, what would have been the conclusions and the comment throughout the country?

There would have been chuckling in the White House, the Presidential grin would have been broader than ever, and proposed legislation in the making would begin to assume more radical aspects than ever. The "breathing spell," that President Roosevelt spoke of a few months ago would be decidedly ended, and the "abundant life," would give unmistakable signs of being more abundant than hitherto.

Postmaster-General Farley would have issued one of his characteristic pronouncements, and have informed the country that the New Deal was vindicated, upheld, and the people hither and yon were in a frame of mind receptive to continuance of the radical Socialism they have had to swallow for nearly three years, though it has not been termed Socialism in high places.

But President Roosevelt, Postmaster-General Farley, Gov. Curley and others that remain in the Democratic camp are in no frame of mind to chuckle over the results of yesterday's election.

The voters of Massachusetts, New York, and elsewhere have spoken, and have more than ever given indication that the beginning of the end of Roosevelt-Farley Socialism has been registered, and that the country intends to swing back toward sound Americanism as soon as possible. The voters registered their desires yesterday, and there were apparently good reasons for the results of the election. Those results can be interpreted as nothing else than rebuke of the New Deal, and only scorn for the radical Socialism that has squandered billions, with but scant returns. If the country was getting somewhere; if actual progress was being made; if there was less favoritism, less buying of patronage and votes, the results of yesterday's election might have been different.

But when New York state throws Democrats out of office; when President Roosevelt's and Postmaster-General Farley's districts both go Republican; when city after city in Massachusetts goes Republican, though they went Democratic a year ago, and two years ago, the only conclusion is that the voters are dissatisfied with the trends.

Worcester was a striking illustration of how the voters looked upon the ballyhoo help sent in from Boston. Worcester voters showed emphatically that they can run their own affairs, and do not intend to have boss politics and political buffoonery, which characterize so much of Boston and Beacon Hill affairs, carried into Worcester.

Even The Boston Post, Democratic newspaper, said that the results in Worcester might have been different, if Boston politicians had remained out of Worcester. But the Boston regime thought they could run affairs in the Heart of the Commonwealth, and sent their automobiles by the hundreds into Worcester; their campaign workers, their circulars, their everything that might place in the Mayor's office the candidate that was most acceptable to the higher up bosses. It did not work, and Worcester voters, with common sense, gumption, and a desire for clean politics instead of the opposite expressed their choice.

Other cities did the same thing and the Roosevelt, Farley, Curley regime have something to ponder over today, as well as do the Republican renegades in the Bay State who have deserted their party and its principles so disgracefully during the last year.

The air is being cleared somewhat today, and he who runs should be able to read in the elections of yesterday the unmistakable foregleams of a change in the public mind, and a desire for orderly ways of Government procedure that have stood the test of time.

The large vote indicated that people are interested in Governmental matters, and are determined to say how the country shall be maintained and what kind of Government they desire.

Yesterday's elections, for the most part, were a victory for good judgment, for sober thinking, in contrast to the colossal farce that has too long held sway.

BAKER IS APPOINTED TO SUPERIOR COURT

Views Clash Here

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Democratic and Republican political leaders clashed today in their interpretation of yesterday's results in which Democrat, said the results, from a many gains were registered by Republicans.

Governor James M. Curley, a Democratic standpoint, should be regarded as "most gratifying," that Republican margins were neither disturbing nor distressing, and that with increasing prosperity the people would not be stampeded into Republican ranks in 1936.

Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of former United States Senator Lodge and candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat held by his grandfather, said:

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that the people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

CURLEY RIDICULES G.O.P. WIN

Terms Election Results Gratifying to Democrats

Says There Will Be No Occasion For Fear On the Part of Democrats As To the Outcome In 1936

BOSTON, Nov. 6, (UP)—Governor Curley scoffed at Republican victories today and termed the election results "most gratifying to the Democrats.

"The outcome, both in the nation and state, was not unexpected," Curley said. "Contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders (the results) should be regarded as most gratifying from a Democratic standpoint.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at present and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people, there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago, the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterdays election, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies.

"With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

PROCLAMATION ON ARMISTICE DAY

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 5—Governor James M. Curley in a proclamation today called upon the people of the state to fittingly observe November 11, Armistice Day.

The proclamation read in part:

"November eleventh, the anniversary of the ending of the World War is a day of memories and brings with its observance a solemn obligation. It is a day on which it is fitting that we should give thought to the past, consideration to the present, and plan for the future.

"November eleventh in the year 1918 brought relief to a war stricken world and lifted a heavy burden from sorrowing humanity. We owe to our soldiers who died in the service of our country a debt of honor. The ideals which possessed their souls must not perish with their young lives. It is our duty to bear the torch; to see that the ideal for which they fought go ever marching on.

"Massachusetts is ever grateful to her soldiers. She is proud of their value. She knows that because of them our institutions have been preserved for us and for posterity. She never can forget the debt she owes to those who have made the supreme sacrifice.

CURLEY ACTS TO AID NEW BEDFORD PIER STRIKERS

ORDERS SUBSTITUTE WORKERS BANNED FROM STATE PIER EMPLOYMENT

Boston, Nov. 5—(AP)—Governor Curley acted tonight on charges made by Daniel J. Donovan, a vice-president, of the International Longshoremen's Association, that the New Bedford State pier had become a headquarters for strike-breakers.

He instructed William F. Callahan, State Commissioner of Public Works, not to allow the pier to be used by substitute workers.

The Governor, after a conference with Donovan, said the latter's chief complaint was that WPA-ERA workers were leaving the Federal relief rolls to take up the jobs of the strikers.

His instructions to Callahan, the Governor believed, would settle the matter.

Union longshoremen have been on strike in New Bedofrd more than three weeks, seeking higher wages and better working conditions.

Donovan made his charges after returning from New Bedford where he said he attempted to arrange for berthing a ship and discharging the cargo. He said he was told a man in charge of the State pier had prohibited use of Union labor if the boat docked there.

REPUBLICAN WINS WORCESTER SEAT IN CLOSE BATTLE

WORCESTER, Nov. 5. (AP).—Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was elected mayor of Worcester tonight over State Representative Edward J. Kelley on the basis of figures in 58 out of 66 precincts. The figures were Cookson 31,910 and Kelley 27,646.

The return of Worcester to the Republican column was interpreted by Republican spokesman as a slap at Curleyism, which became the chief note of the campaign.

Curley Supports Loser.

Cookson supporters had maintained that Kelley was receiving substantial backing from Governor James M. Curley, Democrat, for whom Kelley is legislative floor leader.

Republicans maintained that Governor Curley and his friends were attempting to step into local fights as they were accused of doing in the Essex Senatorial and 10th Middlesex representative elections.

Cookson also charged that the Curley friends were aiding Kelley, both in the primary and election, by the use of automobiles and workers.

FITCHBURG, Nov. 5. (AP).—His name still on the danger list in Boston City hospital as a result of an automobile accident last week, Mayor Robert E. Greenwod was re-elected to office today by an overwhelming margin.

He defeated Dr. Joseph Carriere, former mayor. The complete but unofficial vote was: Greenwood [illegible] Carriere 4733.

Greenwood, aged 31, the youngest mayor in the state was described as slightly improved.

Dr. Carriere ceased his campaign when notified of the accident. The election was non-partisan.

Curley Sees No Cause for Alarm in Poll Results

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Viewing results of elections in various sections of the state and nation, Governor James M. Curley today declared the "outcome was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration of Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be declared as most gratifying."

The governor said that with the policies of President Roosevelt in operation and with prosperity in the nation in 1936 there was "little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

The governor's statement follows:

"The outcome, both in the nation and state was not unexpected, and contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at the present time and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critic and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

The statement of the governor—the original Roosevelt for president leader in Massachusetts—was seen by political observers as an indication that the governor was not going to climb off the Roosevelt band wagon as had been predicted by other political prognosticators.

Lowell Welfare Matters Subject of Hearing Before Group

Presiding officer and others at city hall hearing by legislative commission on public welfare V. McCarthy of Boston, named to the commission by Gov. James M. Curley; Senator Theodore R. Plunkett, presiding officer, and Rep. John W. Lasell of Northbridge.

At a public hearing held yesterday afternoon at city hall before the state commission on welfare, relative to local welfare problems, Walter B. French, vice chairman of the local board of welfare, voiced disapproval of the proposal to give the state full jurisdiction over city and town welfare boards. The session was in charge of Hon. Theodore R. Plunkett of Adams, senator from the Berkshire district.

At the opening of the hearing Mr. French said that the proposed amendment to go before the legislature does not appear to be for the best interests of the city. He said that to leave the exercise of discretion on all matters pertaining to relief in the hands of local officials, might result in something beneficial. He said that under the proposed law, failure to comply with the rules and regulations of the department would be grounds for disapproval of any account.

Under section 1 of the General Laws he said that it is to be observed that reference is made to "assistance in the home." Under section 1 of Lowell settled cases, all aid is not furnished in the home. The word "support" in this section, he said, embraces everything necessary for the maintenance and subsistence of an individual. He said that there are many cases where hospital treatment is required, where one is temporarily removed from the home, which could not be construed as applying to the home.

To put the control of welfare under state supervision, would greatly hinder the quick handling of cases here, in addition to having the board under control of a "czar" at the state house.

Referring to old age assistance, Mr. French favored a reduction in the age limit from 70 to 65 years. He said that at the present time old age assistance is mounting rapidly in this city, with an average monthly increase of 30 persons. The new law would mean the pensioning off of more men and women than ever, thus giving the younger generation more chance for employment.

James Labelle, president of the Leather Workers union, addressed the commission on matters of an old retirement fund, whereby a certain sum is kept from an employee's wages each week, in later years to be returned as an old age pension. Mr. Labelle also favored the age limit on old age assistance being reduced from 70 to 65 years of age.

A report of cases of the local board was made. It was announced that at the present time there are approximately 1600 welfare cases, 700 old age assistance, and 147 cases on mother's aid.

Mr. French later told the board that the local department is obliged to live within its appropriation, although cases are increasing in number.

The session was attended by a large gathering of representatives from local organizations.

In addition to chairman Plunkett, the commission is composed of: John W. Lasell of Northbridge, James A. Gunn of Turner's Falls, Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, Walter V. McCarthy of Boston, Wendell P. Thore of Quincy and William H. McMasters of Cambridge.

CURLEY NAMES BAKER TODAY

Governor Curley announced last night that he will submit to the executive council today the appointment of Councilor J. Arthur Baker to be judge of the superior court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod.

The governor said he has had no conference with Mr. Baker since his return from the trip to Hawaii, but that he has been given to understand that Mr. Baker will accept the appointment, that he will resign from the council at once and that he will be confirmed at next week's council meeting. Appointments of judges cannot be confirmed under suspension of the rules, but must wait over a week.

The governor will then appoint Morton Burdick, now of Springfield and formerly a member of the house of representatives, to succeed Mr. Baker in the executive council. Mr. Burdick was the Democratic candidate for the council who was defeated by Mr. Baker in the election of 1934. His appointment will make the political complexion of the council six Democrats and three Republicans, thus giving Governor Curley complete control and making it practically certain that any action of his toward removal of state department heads or replacement of them with appointees of his own choosing as their present terms expire will be confirmed without much question.

REPUBLICANS WIN SEVERAL CITY CONTESTS

Worcester Elects a GOP Mayor Over Opponent Who Had the Backing of Curley.

SPRINGFIELD IN LINE

Lowell and Medford Also Elect Republicans, While Fitchburg Returns Greenwood.

BOSTON, Nov. 6, 1935—(AP)—Republican victories were celebrated in several Massachusetts cities today as Democratic candidates were defeated in three partisan contests at yesterday's municipal elections and Republicans were elected in several cities ostensibly non-partisan.

The Worcester mayoralty, which was regarded by some political observers as a test of the strength of Gov. James M. Curley (D.), was won by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, who defeated State Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House. The vote was: Cookson 36,219, Kelley 34,095.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was reelected by a margin of 5197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The Somerville election was nonpartisan, but was considered a Republican victory, with Leslie E. Knox, registered as a Republican, defeating Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1400 votes. Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, U. S. marshal in Boston, who appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, won two to one over Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was unable to complete his campaign and Dr. Carriere halted his own battle when informed of Greenwood's condition. The Fitchburg election was non-partisan, but Mayor Greenwood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in national politics.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic city treasurer, by about 5759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "put the city on a business basis," led John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, by only 49 votes in the first count. Both are Democrats.

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford (R) defeated John H. Burke (D); in Everett, with one precinct missing, Frank E. Lewis, Republican, was leading Mayor James A. Roche, Democrat; Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was reelected over State Rep. Thomas Flannery in Waltham's non-partisan contest.

SEES UPSETS AS BLOW AT GOV. CURLEY

G O P Stages Come-Back in Many Local Elections

BOSTON, Nov. 6—In what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Gov. Curley, Roosevelt leader, the city of Worcester today was swept back into the Republican column while G. O. P. victories were recorded in Somerville and Lowell, two other surprises in mayoralty elections in twelve Bay State cities. Republicans continued to hold seats in several cities.

In Worcester, where the New Deal and Governor Curley were the issues, Walter J. Cookson, (R), defeated Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives and spokesman for Curley, by a majority of 2124.

Somerville returned to the Republican fold after six years when Mayor James E. Hagan, a Democrat, was defeated by ex-Alderman Leslie E. Knox. [illegible] backing of U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, a former [illegible] and Roosevelt appointee.

Dewey G. Archambault, (R), defeated City Treasurer Charles R. Flood, (D), in Lowell and became the first G. O. P. mayor in five years. The G. O. P. also took three city council seats from the Democrats and elected two Republicans out of three candidates for the school committee.

Mayor James A. Roche, Democratic supporter of Roosevelt, was defeated in Everett by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, a Republican.

Forty-five votes separated John D. Lynch, former school committeeman, over John W. Lyons, president of the city council, in the Cambridge Democratic mayoralty contest. A recount was demanded.

Mayor Robert E. Greewood, of Fitchburg, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, received news of his reelection at Boston City hospital where he is recovering from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident. He was reelected by an unprecedented majority over ex-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, (R), easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden and two other candidates.

Pittsfield sent former Mayor Allen H. Bagg (R) back into office. He defeated Alfred C. Daniels.

In Medford's nonpartisan election, Mayor John J. Irwin, (R), was reelected over former Mayor John J. Burke, (D).

Mayor Charles A. Lyons was sent back to office over Paul F. Shaughnessy in Marlboro.

In Waltham, Dr. Frederick L. MacDonald was reelected mayor defeating Thomas J. Flannery.

G. O. P. VIEWS ELECTION WITH SATISFACTION

By International News Service

Washington, Nov. 6—Republicans were cheerful today and Democrats could find little to cheer about over the results of yesterday's scattered balloting in half a dozen states. The Republicans regained control of the New York state assembly, on President Roosevelt's home grounds, and they won a bitterly contested mayoralty election in Philadelphia, upon which the Democrats had set high hopes as a preliminary to carry Pennsylvania next year. Insofar as these results may show the "trend" which politicians were looking for, it is away from the Roosevelt New Deal.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6—Swelled by bitter national issues, internal strife within the Democratic party, and an old fashioned wet and dry fight, tabulation of the greatest vote in Kentucky's history began today. Approximately 1,100,000 voters trudged to the polls yesterday, political leaders estimated, to decide the heated gubernatorial contest between A. B. Chandler, Democrat, and Judge King Swope, Republican. Two men were killed and two others wounded in brawls following arguments over candidates.

Boston, Nov. 6—A state police guard today was placed over ballots in the mayoralty election in Cambridge pending petition for a recount by John W. Lyons, defeated by 267 votes by John D. Lynch. In what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Gov. James M. Curley, Worcester was back in the Republican column. Walter J. Cookson, Republican, having defeated Democratic Floor Leader Edward J. Kelley by 2124 votes. Dewey G. Archambeault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democrat, in Lowell. Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of President Roosevelt in Everett was defeated by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, Republican. Ex Alderman Leslie E. Knox, Republican, defeated Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, in Somerville. In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat. Four women including Miss Edna Granitsas, 22, Radcliffe student, elected to Marlboro School Committee, were victorious in minor contests. Unseating of three city councillors and re-election of two School Committee members featured Boston voting.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6—President Roosevelt refused today to concede any national significance to the Republican victories in New York state and Philadelphia off-year elections. He had, however, made arrangements for personal appearances in various sections of the country clear into next June which will have a marked bearing on his personal fortunes a year hence when he stands for re-election.

Fin Com Favors $460,000 to Fix Quincy Market

Quincy Market—Plan For Repairs Is Approved

The Boston Finance Commission today advised the City Council of its approval of $460,000 in repairs to Quincy Market. Previously the commission had objected to the appropriation on the grounds that when work was undertaken it would be found that a great deal more money would be required.

The Finance Commission qualified its recommendation, however, by suggesting that a new roof costing $100,000 and certain marble and maple floors costing $25,000 be omitted.

Quincy Market is the actual food merchandising extension of historic Faneuil Hall, known as the "Cradle of American Liberty" because of the meetings held there prior to the issuance of the Declaration of Independence by the American colonies. It is one of the most historically famous buildings in the United States. The first sale of market produce in the building was made 109 years ago last August. It takes its name from Josiah Quincy, first Mayor of Boston. During his regime the gray granite structure, modeled after the Greek idea, was erected.

In recent years, the market has shown serious signs of deterioration. The city building department has notified the Mayor of the immediate need for repairs to the foundations, while merchants have clamored for modern improvements upstairs.

The Finance Commission pointed out that the building has paid for itself many times over. It brings the city an annual income of $80,000.

Baker—Curley Names Him for Superior Bench

Nomination of Joshua Arthur Baker, Republican member of the Executive Council from Pittsfield, to the Superior Court bench was sent by Governor Curley to the Council today. Mr. Baker announced he would accept the $12,000 post. The nomination cannot be confirmed for a week.

Curley—Finds Nothing To Fret About in Elections

If President Roosevelt felt somewhat disconcerted today because of Republican success at the polls yesterday, he might have obtained solace from Governor Curley. The outcome, the Governor said today with his usual optimism, was not entirely unexpected and may be explained by the fact that the Roosevelt program is not in operation yet.

"When the objective is understood by the people," the Governor opined today, "there need be no occasion for fear among the Democratis in 1936."

The Governor characterized the majorities as "neither disturbing nor distressing."

In the opinion of the Governor, prosperity is already here, and as it progresses and increases during the coming year public gratitude to the President will mount until his election is effected by an outstanding majority.

He blamed the Republicans today for the "darkest years of depression the nation has known."

Democratic Losses in Massachusetts Put Curley 'on Spot'

Worcester Leads War on Curleyism

Elects Republican Mayor in Face of Governor's Help to Opponent

Massachusetts Republicans, victorious in every 1935 off-year contest to date, are already predicting a smashing defeat for the Curley machine in 1936, although the regular election is one year away.

Republican confidence is soaring as the result of the political overturns obtained yesterday in Worcester, Lowell, and Somerville, where Republican candidates swept into mayoral offices.

The defeat of Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader and a No. 1 Curley man, in the Worcester mayoral election, was the most stunning to the Curley forces. Walter J. Cookson, Republican, defeated Mr. Kelley by 2124 votes. This represents an overturn of approximately 9300 votes, inasmuch as two years ago Mayor John C. Mahoney, Democrat, was re-elected Mayor by 7200 votes.

Curley the Real Issue

Governor Curley was actually the major issue in the Worcester campaign, Mr. Cookson arguing that a vote for him would mean a vote against Curley domination of Worcester.

Numerous Curley workers participated in the campaign for Representative Kelley, and Joseph McGrath, Democratic State Committee chairman, worked intensively to unite the Democratic forces behind Mr. Kelley.

The overturn in Lowell undoubtedly can be characterized at least in part as a direct blow at the Governor, although he was not made a distinct issue. While Mr. Curley carried Lowell by 11,000 votes in 1934, yesterday the Democratic mayoral candidate, Charles R. Flood, was beaten by the Republican, Dewey G. Archambault, by approximately 2000 votes.

G.O.P. Gets Assembly in N. Y.—Due to Gerrymander, Farley Says

Republican Mayor Wins Philadelphia

Cleveland, Columbus, Detroit Swing Over—Reading, Penna., Socialist

By the Associated Press

Republicans gained control of the New York State Assembly and elected their candidates for mayor in many large American cities yesterday, scoring victories in Philadelphia, Cleveland and Columbus Ohio and Detroit.

In some contests the New Deal figured prominently as an issue. In others purely local issues were at stake.

In Philadelphia, S. Davis Wilson, Republican, won a decisive victory over John B. Kelly, Democrat. The Quaker City has not elected a Democratic mayor since 1881, but Wilson argued his election "presaged a united party for the election of a Republican President in 1936."

Ohio Democrats Warned

The G. O. P. in Ohio roared a warning to Democracy today that it intended to make a determined bid for party control at the 1936 state election.

Paced by Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, and Myron B. Gessaman of Columbus, Republicans captured a majority of the mayorships in Tuesday's municipal elections.

Their standard bearers raced to victory in 49 cities and 90 villages with reports from the latter far from complete. Democrats won in 24 cities and 65 villages. Nonpartisans or independents carried off the honors in four cities and 44 villages.

Burton, former city manager and acting mayor, won a decisive victory in Cleveland's mayoral fight. He defeated Ray T. Miller, former mayor, who had the support of Governor Davey. He won without the support of the incumbent Republican mayor, Harry L. Davis, who is the nominal head of the Republican Party in Cuyahoga County.

Socialists Sweep Reading

Late returns showed that Socialists were sweeping all city and school board offices in Reading, Penna. Former Mayor J. Henry Stump, again seeking that office had a two-to-one lead over his nearest opponent.

Judge Jesse E. B. Cunningham (R), retained his seat on the Superior Court bench.

Incomplete returns showed 48 cities and towns in Pennsylvania voted to open the doors of their movie houses on Sunday afternoons and evenings, while 59 voted against.

Question Long Debated

The question, long a bitterly debated issue, was fought out in 276 communities in the general election yesterday.

Aside from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, where the vote was approximately three to one for the movies, the question appeared to split the State geographically.

Roughly, western Pennsylvania, particularly the northwestern sector, approved the Sabbath entertainment, while many of the towns and cities of the East rejected it. Harrisburg, the capital, turned the measure down 2 to 1.

At the same time, dry forces were victorious in the fight against beer in 47 communities and liquor was barred in 33 others. Fifty-three municipalities continued retail beer sales and 21 balloted in favor of liquor and beer.

Elect Many Republican Mayors

Republican mayoralty candidates were elected in Elmira, Binghamton, Dunkirk, Schenectady, Itak, Norwich, Batavia, Lockport, Geneva, Canandaigua, Middletown, Newburgh, Oswego, Oneida, Lackawanna and Hornell, all in New York. Democrats, however, won victories in Little Falls and Utica, N. Y.

Socialists re-elected a mayor in Bridgeport, Conn., while Democrats were returned to power in Hartford and New Haven. Elsewhere in New England, incumbents generally were re-elected. Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, Democrat, was again chosen in Fitchburg, Mass.

G. O. P. Gains in Massachusetts

Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts and the Democratic machine suffered several reversals, the most important of which occurred in Worcester, the second largest city in the State. There, Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader in the State House of Representatives, was defeated for Mayor by a Republican, Walter J. Cookson, by 2300 votes.

In Somerville, Democratic for six years, the Republican candidate, Leslie E. Knox, defeated the Democratic Mayor, James E. Hagan, by 1400 votes. Lowell, a textile city, elected a Republican Mayor to succeed the Democratic incumbent. Everett also replaced a Democratic Mayor with a Republican. In addition, five other cities re-elected Republican Mayors.

Changes in the West

Mayor Louis Marcus of Salt Lake City, Utah, apparently was defeated for re-election on the basis of incomplete returns in a nonpartisan election. In San Francisco, Mayor Angelo J. Rossi was re-elected by the largest plurality ever given a San Francisco mayoralty candidate in that city's nonpartisan voting.

Four of the five incumbent San Francisco supervisors were returned to office. One of the two new men elected was Dewey Mead, labor official and candidate of the new Order of Cincinnatus, which made its California debut in the election.

Somerville's Surprise Flop

Somerville, which has been Democratic for six years, yesterday voted Mayor James E. Hagan out of office. Leslie E. Knox, Republican, marched in with a 1344-vote margin. This Republican victory was somewhat of a surprise, for the Democrats openly predicted success until the last minute.

The New Deal played some part in this overturn, for John J. Murphy, United States Marshal and former Mayor, urged Mayor Hagan's reelection as a New Deal man.

Everett turned down Mayor James A. Roche, a Republican who supported Mr. Curley in the 1934 election. In his place steps Frank E. Lewis, who won by a 2082 vote.

The Republican mayoral victories, following hard on the heels of two special election triumphs over the Democrats in the Second Essex District and the Tenth Middlesex District, definitely have the Democrats on the run at the moment.

Year of Fence-Mending

Yet, the party has a year in which to recuperate from these defeats. Therefore, the Republicans cannot bank too much on yesterday's results. However, even members of the Democratic Party are openly convinced that they have plenty of fences to mend between now and next November.

Republicans were victorious in every election where G. O. P. mayoral incumbents were seeking reelection. In Springfield, where part of the vote could be considered anti-Curley, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, defeated Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat, by 5197 votes.

Frederick L. MacDonald was reelected Mayor of Waltham, defeating Representative Thomas F. Flannery, Democrat, by 2242 votes. Mayor Allen H. Bagg of Pittsfield, won his re-election fight against fellow Republican, Alfred C. Daniels. Mayor John J. Irwin of Medford experienced no difficulty in defeating John H. Burke, by 6154 votes. Mayor Charles A. Lyons of Marlboro was also re-elected.

Fitchburg voters piled up a record plurality of 4213 votes for Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, son-in-law of Senator Marcus A. Coolidge. Mayor Greenwood's opponent was Dr. Joseph N. Carriere.

Close Result in Cambridge

Perhaps the most interesting victory during the day was that of Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn, who has made no campaign speeches since he was re-elected two years ago. His margin over Harlan A. McPhetres, a former Mayor, totaled 9911 votes, a two-to-one victory.

In Cambridge the election results for Mayor were so close that a recount is certain. John D. Lynch defeated John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, by only 267 votes. The Lyons strength was a shock to the forces of Mayor Richard M. Russell, who threw his strength behind Mr. Lynch. Some political onlookers, as a result, predict that Mayor Russell will have a hard fight when he seeks re-election to the United States House of Representatives.

On the basis of returns from 600 of Detroit's 909 precincts, Mayor Frank Couzens, Republican incumbent, was leading his opponent, Joseph Schemansky, by a majority of 6 to 1.

Gain in President's Own State

The Republican Party, which failed to re-elect Hoover in 1932, registered numerous scattered victories in state and municipal elections yesterday in addition to regaining control of the Assembly in President Roosevelt's home State of New York, electing mayors in Philadelphia and Cleveland, increasing its majority in the New Jersey Assembly and retaining control of the State Senate there.

On the other hand, Democrats retained two seats in Congress from New York City, ran up a record majority in the Assembly balloting in their stronghold of Hudson County, New Jersey, won overwhelming approval of Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman's $55,000,000 state relief bond issue in New York, and looked toward Kentucky today to count the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, A. B. Chandler, the winner, although the State's slow counting method delays results.

G. O. P. Regains Assembly

Republicans elected 82 of the New York State Assembly's 150 members and changed a previous Democratic margin of four into a Republican majority of 14. Democrats were ousted from three seats in Erie County, three in Monroe, one each in Greene and Renesselaer, upstate, and one in the Sixth District of Kings.

Virginia Republicans, showing unexpected strength, exceeded their present representation by electing eight members of the Virginia General Assembly and looked to additional returns today to swell the number. The Democrats also appeared likely to lose additional seats to independents.

Democrats had won 13 of 18 Senate seats in the 14 contested districts. Republicans had been elected in two and three contests were still in doubt —one of the doubtful represented by a Republican in the last session.

G. O. P. Gets Five Seats

Democrats had also taken 26 of the 40 House seats at stake in 28 districts while Republicans won five. Ten were in doubt. One Republican nominee, Dr. H. T. Smith, of Grayson County, was unopposed, thus assuring the Republicans of five seats.

In South Carolina, R. E. McCaslan, insurance man and a former chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, was elected to the House of Representatives from Greenwood County in a special election to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Representative W. O. Coleman.

Special elections were held in six counties to fill House seats. Mississippi went through the formality of electing Hugh White, Democrat, its new governor, and its Democratic legislature.

VOTE ON FINANCES WILL BE STRESSED

In Contests for House of Representatives

NEXT ELECTION

Curley Bond Issue Will be Important Factor During Campaign in This State.

(Special to the Transcript)

Boston, Nov. 6—With state elections more than a year away, definite indication looms that the main bout for seats in the House of Representatives will be featured with attacks on legislative votes affecting state finance.

Regardless of the sanity of the votes of legislators in favor of or opposition to the Curley $13,000,000 "work and wages" bond issue, bitter criticism will be levelled at the present office holders on this one score, when opponents enter the arena.

Already the field is beginning to take shape, and throughout the state almost every representative district will be the battlefield of vigorous assaults on legislators—with financial matters the main topic of dissatisfaction.

The bond issue has provided the "outs" with much subject matter to lay at the doorsteps of the "ins". A vote in behalf of the "work and wages" bond issue will be assailed because of the increased state debt resultant from such action.

Opposition to the bond issue will be ready made snowballs to throw at the present incumbent alleging a lack of interest in providing relief for the unemployed.

One of the largest fields of candidates in recent years is anticipated this coming year.

Every city government or town meeting official is today looking over his recently recorded strength and in almost every city and hamlet is comparing figures with with the election returns of the sitting House member.

In all fairness to present members of the House of Representatives it must be said that with the abundance of controversial matters laid before them during the past session, added to the discomforting problems to be faced in 1936 one vote is all they may cast—and there is always the other side of the question opposition must champion, which strangely enough is the only course to be followed.

Present House members will undoubtedly tone down their loudly heralded approval of vast expenditures, but nevertheless, the financial condition of the commonwealth, reflecting directly on the municipal assessment to meet state deficits, will be the main point of contention in every district and in both parties.

Within the next few months announcements, will be made by the forthcoming flood of potential candidates who will battle current office holders on the 1935-36 legislative record.

CURLEY AND LODGE, JR., DISAGREE ON PORTENT OF ELECTION IN STATE

Boston, Nov. 6—(AP)—Democratic and Republican political leaders clashed today in their interpretation of yesterday's results in which many gains were registered by Republicans.

Gov. James M. Curley, a Democrat, said the results, from a Democratic standpoint, should be regarded as "most gratifying," that Republican margins were neither disturbing nor distressing, and that with increasing prosperity the people would not be stampeded into Republican ranks in 1936.

Representative Henry Cabot Lidge, Jr., grandson of former United States Senator Lodge and candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat held by his grandfather, said:

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that the people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

Is Nominated as Medical Examiner

DR. THOMAS F. CORRIDEN

DR. CORRIDEN NAMED MEDICAL EXAMINER

Nominated by Gov. Curley to Succeed Dr. Brown for This District

Boston, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton was nominated by Governor James M. Curley today as medical examiner for the first Hampshire district, to succeed the late Dr. Edward W. Brown.

Born in South Hadley, Dr. Thomas F. Corriden attended the public schools of that town, studied for two years at Cushing academy, took the pre-medical course at Fordham university and was graduated from the School of Medicine at the University of Vermont.

For a time he served as assistant to Dr. John Taylor Bottomley in the Carney hospital, Boston, and has since continued his medical education with courses at the Post Graduate hospital in New York city, Mayo's clinic in Rochester and the Massachusetts General hospital at Boston.

Dr. Corriden for the past 12 years has been a member of the Dickinson hospital staff. He is the only doctor in Northampton, it is stated, who is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He is a member of the Hampshire County Medical association and of the American Legion. Dr. Corriden is married and has a home on Roe avenue and offices in Central Chambers.

Gov. Curley Nominates Baker, (Republican) To Superior Bench

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Governor James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councillor J. Arthur Baker, (Republican) of Pittsfield, as justice of the superior court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the executive council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The executive council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell, of Fall River.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high state office by Gov. Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River finance commission when the legislature ended its session last summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Burdick Slated for Council

Reports were current that Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to succeed Baker.

COOKSON'S ELECTION IS BLOW TO "CURLEYISM"

Several Republican mayors were elected in Massachusetts cities yesterday.

The victory of Walter J. Cookson in Worcester, is regarded as a blow to "Curleyism," and the contest there was regarded as a clear test of the strength of Governor Curley in central Massachusetts. Cookson defeated Edward J. Kelley who was aided by the Curley forces in his campaign.

Mayor James A. Roche of Everett was defeated by Frank E. Lewis by 2082 votes.

Mayor J. Fred Manning was an easy winner in Lynn, defeating former Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres.

In Cambridge John D. Lynch defeated John W. Lyons for mayor by only 49 votes and a recount will be held.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, who is in a critical condition in the Boston City hospital with injuries received in an auto accident, easily defeated Dr. Joseph N. Carriere.

Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, of Springfield, won from three opponents.

Medford re-elected Mayor John J. Irvin, with former Mayor John H. Burke losing out.

Dewey G. Archambeault, Lowell Republican, was the victor in the mayoralty fight there over Charles R. Flood, Democrat.

Somerville ended the Democratic rule by electing Leslie E. Knox over Mayor James E. Hagan.

In Marlboro, Mayor Charles A. Lyons defeated Paul F. Shaughnessey.

Mayor Allen H. Bagg was re-elected in Pittsfield.

Curley Nominates Baker For Superior Court Post

Executive Council Will Act on Nomination Next Week and Reports Are Current That Two Democrats Will Join With Republicans, Giving Majority Against Confirmation, as They Feel $12,000 a Year Plum Should go to Democrat—Burdick Slated for Councilor if Baker is Confirmed—Commissioner York Will Probably be Displaced.

Boston, Nov. 6—(A.P.)—Governor James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker, (Republican) of Pittsfield, as justice of the Superior court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the Executive Council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The Executive Council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell, of Fall River.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high state office by Governor Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River Finance Commission when the legislature ended its session last summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Reports were current that Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of West Springfield, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to succeed Baker.

Reports have been current that a majority of the executive council may refuse to confirm Gov. Curley's nomination of Councilor Baker as justice of the Superior court. The Republican members will undoubtedly oppose the nomination and it is said that two Democratic councilors, William G. Hennessey of Lynn and James J. Brennan of Somerville, will vote with them, giving a 5 to 4 majority against confirmation. These Democrats, it is said, feel that this fine plum, which pays $12,000 a year and expenses, should go to a Democrat. The appointment is for life. When a judge is away from home there is no limit to his expense account. The Democrats are also said to be desirous of having the governor choose a member of the Boston municipal bench for elevation. Councilors Hennessey and Brennan have kicked over the traces before when the governor attempted to oust Eugene C. Hultman as chairman of the Metropolitan District commission.

Morton H. Burdick, whom, it is expected, the governor will nominate as councilor to succeed Baker if his nomination as superior court justice is confirmed, is a former resident of Adams.

It is also reported that Gov. Curley will displace Samuel A. York of Chesterfield as commissioner of conservation and give the post to Ernest J. Dean, Republican House member, from Chilmark, who supported the governor's bond issue. York is known as father of "The Massachusetts plan" of state forest and reservation development and directs the work of CCC companies in the state.

Helps G. O. P. Says Bowker

(Special to the Transcript)

Boston, Nov. 6—Commenting on Gov. Curley's nomination of Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield as a justice of the Superior court, Rep. Philip G. Bowker of Brookline said: "Gov. Curley, in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party. The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables, His Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves. For those who takes the 'thirty pieces of silver' we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and shown their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels. In slamming the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats, His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root. The governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

"I'll accept," said Councilor Baker when asked to comment on his nomination. "I deeply appreciate the action of the governor."

If confirmed next Wednesday, Baker will resign from the council.

STATE PROBES DOCK CHARGES

Longshoremen's Union Tells Governor Men Quit WPA to Take Jobs

William F. Callahan, State Commissioner of Public Works with authority over State Pier here, was under orders today to investigate charges by the International Longshoremen's Association that WPA and E.R.A. workers were leaving relief rolls here to take jobs of union longshoremen who are on strike for recognition of their organization.

The orders were issued after Daniel J. Donovan, vice president of I.L.A., told Governor Curley the State Pier had become headquarters for strike breakers.

An Associated Press dispatch said Governor Curley himself had ordered the investigation, but a secretary in the Governor's office told The Standard-Times he (the secretary) knew nothing of the matter and that the Governor was not available.

The charge that men were leaving the relief rolls for stevedoring jobs was denied by authorities in charge of relief agencies in New Bedford. Llewellyn Roberts, president of the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation, also denied his firm had employed men from relief. He said that since his firm had been in existence only two cases had been complained of and in each case the man had been told that he would have to quit either the E.R.A. or the employ of the stevedoring concern. He also said that a clause in an agreement he held with a local union called the State Pier Stevedores' Association had stated definitely that no man could hold the two jobs.

Callahan said he had sent an investigator to New Bedford and expected a conference with Roberts to clear up the complaint of Donovan.

Meantime, Roberts said that as far as his company was concerned there was no strike and that he did not recognize the I.L.A. in New Bedford. Two freighters, the El Dia and the Commercial Guide, were unloaded today by Roberts' men.

Leaders here in the International Longshoremen's Association said they had no comment upon the situation. No estimate was available of the number of men who might accurately be termed "on strike."

WORCESTER ELECTION IS 'SLAP AT CURLEYISM'

WORCESTER, Nov. 5. (AP)—Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was elected mayor of Worcester tonight over State Representative Edward J. Kelley on the basis of figures in 58 out of 66 precincts. The figures were Cookson 31,190 and Kelley 27,646.

The return of Worcester to the Republican column was interpreted by Republican spokesmen as a slap at Curleyism, which became the chief note of the campaign.

Cookson supporters had maintained that Kelley was receiving substantial backing from Governor James M. Curley, Democrat, for whom Kelley is legislative floor leader.

Republicans maintained that Governor Curley and his friends were attempting to step into local fights as they were accused of doing in the Essex senatorial and Tenth Middlesex representative elections.

Cookson also charged that the Curley friends were aiding Kelley, both in the primary and election, by the use of automobiles and workers.

Governor Is Coming for Dinner to Diniz Committee Assured

The committee that has arranged the testimonial dinner for Jacinto F. Diniz, Dartmouth, recently appointed a state insurance examiner, has received the assurance that Governor Curley will be present to pay tribute to Mr. Diniz Governor Curley has shown his esteem for Mr. Diniz on various occasions since the incident at the Worcester convention in 1934, when Mr. Diniz, in the face of a hostile convention, aroused the governor's supporters to a high pitch of enthusiasm when he declared for the present governor. In addition to Governor Curley, the arrangements committee has issued invitations to distinguished Democrats throughout the state.

The dinner is to be at the New Bedford Hotel, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The executive committee of the general committee of arrangements includes Justino Perry, chairman; John L. Curley Orders Ban On Substitute Help At State Pier Here

Action Follows Conference with Longshoremen's Spokesman

FREIGHTER IS DUE HERE EARLY TODAY

Roberts Charges Attempt to Oust Present Dock Workers

There is promise of some sort of a show down today in the three weeks' feud between the International Longshoremen's Association and the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation that handles the discharge of ships docking at the New Bedford State Pier.

The Moore & McCormack steamship Commercial Guide, due at daylight this morning, arrives just after a statement issued last night following a conference in Boston yesterday between Daniel J. Donovan, vice president of the I. L. A. and Governor Curley. The object of the conference was to give Donovan a chance to state his case in which he charges that relief workers are being employed at the State Pier here, replacing union longshoremen who have been on strike for three weeks.

No Substitutes

Following this conference Governor Curley said he had issued instructions to William F. Callahan, State Commissioner of Public Works, with authority over the State Pier, not to allow the pier to be used by substitute workers. The Governor said he believed his instructions would settle the matter.

Captain Llewellyn Roberts, head of the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation, issued a statement last night denying that relief workers were employed at the State Pier. He charged that assertions made by Donovan, who, he states is supplied with information by I. L. A. delegates in New Bedford are exaggerated and without foundation. Captain Roberts states that Donovan is attempting to oust the present dock workers in New Bedford and install a different group of workers.

Donovan's statement to the Governor was that the New Bedford State Pier had become a headquarters for strike breakers. The Governor said Donovan's chief complaint was that WPA and E. R. A. workers were leaving the Federal relief rolls to take up the jobs of the strikers, who have been out three weeks seeking higher wages and better working conditions. Donovan made the statement that he had been in this city and had attempted to arrange for the berthing of a ship and the discharging of cargo, when he said he was told by a man in charge of the State Pier that the use of union labor had been prohibited.

Roberts' Statement

Captain Roberts, entering a general denial to the assertions made by Donovan, issued the following statement last night:

"In order to clarify the longshore labor condition at New Bedford, the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation issues the following statement:

"When the trouble at the Gulf commenced about three weeks ago we were working as we always have worked, that is, on an open shop basis. Daniel J. Donovan, Boston, vice president of the I. L. A., came to New Bedford and attempted to gain control of local labor by holding a secret meeting. He enrolled about 15 of our men and some hundred odd others who never were or have been longshoremen.

"Without any warning or meeting with us he declared a strike for what demands no one knows yet. However, the majority of New Bedford longshoremen remain loyal and work has continued uninterrupted. Mr. Donovan now at the request of a few local agitators wishes our loyal men who have worked for years be blacklisted, and his men, many of whom are not longshoremen, be substituted. This is direct discrimination.

No Relief Workers

"In reply to Mr. Donovan of Boston, and the local delegates supplying him with information, we wish it to be understood that relief workers are not employed at the State Pier, as they have asserted. In the past men have left our employ due to the infrequency of the work to accept relief jobs, and have returned at the termination of the projects. Whenever it was called to our attention a man worked elsewhere he was dropped from the eligible list. A clause in our agreement with the State Pier Stevedores' Association demanded that a man should not hold two jobs, and this agreement was broken by some of the present complainants. The statements issued by the local I. L. A. delegates are exaggerated and without foundation, many members of that same organization being employed in local and Federal relief work. An attempt is being made by fair means or otherwise to oust the present dock workers and set up a different group, refusing to work unless all the men now employed are dispensed with. Stating that our men are relief workers is only a contemptible way of attempting to bolster their position.

"These assertions of Mr. Donovan are an outgrowth of failure to put over an outlaw strike at this port. Although he induced some of our men into joining the I. L. A., thereby breaking their agreement with us, many refused to join him. Against these men who have been loyal to us his campaign seems to be directed."

REPUBLICANS CAPTURE HONORS IN BAY STATE

Take Mayoralty Elections in Worcester, Lowell

VICTORY LOOMS IN SPRINGFIELD RACE

'Curleyism' Foe Wins; Cambridge Recount Seen

BOSTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Republicans took the major honors in several municipal elections in Massachusetts today, defeating Democrats in two partisan contests and winning in several cities ostensibly non partisan. Victory in a third partisan fight appeared certain for the Republicans.

The most surprising upset, from a local viewpoint, was in Somerville, where Leslie E. Knox, Republican, defeated Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1,400. The fight was non partisan but Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, who was appointed U. S. marshal in Boston by President Roosevelt. Murphy had appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

'Curleyism' Issue

In Worcester, where the issue of "Curleyism" had been raised by the Republican candidate, Walter J. Cookson, Cookson defeated State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House. Complete returns gave Cookson 36,219; Kelley, 34,095.

Lowell voters swept Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, into office over Charles R. Flood, Democrat. Archambault, an attorney, won by about 2,000. Flood is city treasurer.

In Springfield, the Republican candidate, Mayor Henry Martens, appeared certain of reelection over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The fight in Cambridge, between John D. Lynch and John W. Lyons, president of the City Council was so close a recount was started immediately. Lynch led in the first count by only 49 votes. Both are Democrats.

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford, on incomplete returns, was leading John H. Burke by 5,000 votes.

Everett returns were virtually not counted late tonight.

Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was reelected by 2,000 over State Representative Thomas Flannery in a non-partisan contest in Waltham. Local issues only were involved.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, won two to one over his opponent, Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week and was not able to complete his campaign. His opponent, however, stopped his own fight when informed of Greenwood's serious condition.

Mayor Hagan of Somerville went down before Leslie E. Knox, former alderman, who registered an unofficial plurality of 1,224 votes.

J. Fred Manning, incumbent, in Lynn, walked away with the nonpartisan contest there, defeating Harlan A. MacPhetres, former mayor, 18,972 to 9,061.

Mayor Allen H. Bagg was reelected in Pittsfield by the narrow margin of 566 votes. Bagg received 8,652 votes to 8,086 for Alfred C. Daniels.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons was running slightly ahead of Paul F. Shaughnessy in Marlboro.

New Hampshire

In New Hampshire, Mayor John W. Storrs was reelected in Concord; Alvin A. Lucier in Nashua; George F. Trask (unopposed) in Keene; and Mayor Damase Caron was reelected for his third term in Manchester by a vote of 13,265 to 10,193 over Joseph H. Geisel, Republican, and former postmaster.

No serious disorders marked the day in either state, although two men were arrested in Everett, Mass., for illegal voting.

By the Way

by C. G.

A classic newspaper story, one that used to be told by city editors to cubs just breaking in, was about the reporter who was sent to cover a peace meeting. In due time, he returned to the office, but it was observed that he was not writing anything. "How about the peace meeting story?" he was asked. "Oh," he said, "there's nothing to write." "Didn't they have it?" "Well," he replied, "they started, but the meeting broke up in a fight."

STILL FIGHTING

The fighting is still going on. Paradoxically, peace is something that provokes intense acrimony. The outsider who has not given the matter much thought is at a loss to understand what all the shootin' is about. If A proclaimed his love of peace and his abhorrence of war, and B proclaimed his abhorrence of peace and his love of war, one would not be surprised to see them go to the mat. But when A, having said that he abhors war as much as anybody, and that he is strong for peace, takes an axe to B because he advocates peace and denounces war, one wonders what's the matter.

CONFLICT ON OTHER ISSUES

The other day an invitation to a minister to speak on peace at the High School was withdrawn on the ground that it was unwise to introduce a controversial topic into that institution. It seems incredible that this should be precisely what was meant. So far as I can see, there is no controversy about peace. I don't know of any group that champions war. The controversy, rather, centers in military preparedness, and conflicting attitudes toward the existing politico-social order. One group believes that peace can best be ensured through disarming, or through a reduction of armaments. The other perceives a great national peril in such a course, and believes that the most effectual safeguard against war is an adequate military establishment. One group is opposed to military service. The other conceives it to be the duty of the citizen to fight for his country if needed. It really isn't peace the two quarrel over. So far as their professions go—and their sincerity may be conceded—they agree that war is a horrible business and that everything possible should be done to prevent it. The quarrel is over other things—the best means of prevention, the question of whether it can with any certainty be prevented, and—deeper than that—conceptions of the duties of citizenship and of the social and economic order. On the surface it looks as if one group advocating peace was dead set against another group because it advocates peace, but that is not the case, the issues that make for conflict between them being concerned with other matters.

LILACS ON THE ROADSIDE

Governor Curley proposes that lilacs be planted along the Boston-Providence highway as a part of the roadside beautification project. It would not be surprising if other flowering shrubs might be urged in preference to lilacs, or if some plan were put forward that would give a succession of blooms throughout the Summer. But with the basic idea of making the highways more attractive there will be general approval. Highway engineers, in easing grades and reducing curves, find it necessary to scar the landscape. Their roads are perfection, but the surroundings are often rather ghastly. An old country way may be grown up with brush to the very edge of the roadway, but even so its appearance is more pleasing than that of a new highway with fresh cuts and fills. The ideal treatment would be trees that will sometime grow to great size and arch the road, alternating with shrubs of various kinds that will ensure a succession of blooms from Spring to Autumn.

A WAR MYTH EXPLAINED

An outstanding war myth was that of the Russian soldiers who passed through England on their way to the western front. The story broke at a time when things were going badly for the Allies. It was told with great circumstantial detail, even to the snow on the Russians' coats. The fact that troop movements were properly shrouded with great secrecy inclined people to doubt official denials of the story. People of the Allied countries probably wanted to believe it because it promised them increased man power on the western front, and some time elapsed before the belief in the Russian reinforcements was definitely abandoned.

As to how the story ever got started many explanations have been given. The latest appears in Sir Francis Lindley's biography of Lord Lovat, who had charge of the British mobilization. Among the troops that moved southward through England was a brigade of Highlanders who spoke their own Gaelic and whose uniforms were unfamiliar to the southerners. When asked where they came from they muttered Ross-shire, and were understood to have said Russia.

BAKER GETS HIS REWARD AS GOVERNOR NAMES HIM TO SUPERIOR COURT BENCH

Name of Local Member of Governor's Council Goes to Council for Confirmation—Action Expected To Be Delayed Week — Meanwhile Opposition From Democrats and Legal Profession Looms.

(Special to THE EAGLE)

BOSTON, Nov. 6—Attorney J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, councillor for the Berkshire district, today received his reward from Gov. James M. Curley when the Governor submitted his name to the Council to be justice of the superior court, succeeding the late Judge Frederick J. MacLeod, of Brookline.

Baker has been a good friend of the governor and by non-voting has made the governor's council a Democratic body.

The governor also appointed Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton as medical examiner of the First Hampshire District in place of the late Dr. Edward Brown.

While the appointment of Mr. Baker to the superior court bench could be confirmed by the council today under suspension of the rules, it is expected that it will go over for another week. Meanwhile there was talk at Boston that it might not be confirmed, that Democrats were asking for some of their own for the job, and that opposition to the Baker appointment was already forming among the bar members of the State.

Rep. Bowker's Statement

Representative Philip G. Bowker of Brookline made the following statement today in Governor Curley's nomination of Baker of Pittsfield to the Superior Court bench:

"Governor Curley in nominating Councillor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party. The renegades in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the Governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables His Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"For these we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and show their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissention in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The Governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

COMMENT

REWARDING MR. BAKER

(Springfield Union)

Governor Curley's announcement of his purpose to appoint J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, elected as a Republican member of the Governor's Council, to the Superior Court bench has been expected and publicly predicted since, by Mr. Baker's votes, the Governor gained control of the Council.

It will be rather difficult for the public to disassociate Mr. Baker's aid in enabling the Governor to have a free hand in the Council from the Governor's announcement of this proposed appointment, even though Mr. Baker has meantime spoken somewhat unctuously about the requirements of his "oath of office."

Probably nothing better could be expected from Governor Curley but it does not follow that nothing worse is to be expected. If the Governor is without scruples in his political methods he is quite frank and even brazen in the use of them. Having gained control of his Council, rather plainly by the aid of Mr. Baker, the Governor now has a free hand to do his worst, or what he may consider his best, for he says, "after I have made a few more appointments such as this there will be little left of real Republican leaders in Massachusetts."

On the other hand, we can conceive of nothing that would so tend to rally a strong party of opposition to Governor Curley and his methods under a strong and honest leadership as such appointments as this of one to sit in judgment on the frailties or offenses of others.

Mass. Republicans Elect Mayors In Three Partisan Contests; Also Winners in Several Other Cities

Governor Curley's Candidate Goes Down To Defeat in Worcester—Floor Leader of House of Representatives Beaten—Mayor McLevy, Socialist, Re-elected in Bridgeport, Conn.

BOSTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—Republican victories were celebrated in several Massachusetts cities today as Democratic candidates were defeated in three partisan contests at yesterday's municipal elections and Republicans were elected in several cities ostensibly non-partisan.

The Worcester mayoralty, which was regarded by some political observers as a test of the strength of Governor James M. Curley (D.), was won by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, who defeated State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House. The vote was: Cookson 36,219, Kelley 34,095.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was reelected by a margin of 5197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The Somerville election was nonpartisan, but was considered a Republican victory, with Leslie E. Knox, registered as a Republican, defeating Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1400 votes. Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, U. S. Marshal in Boston, who appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

Injured Mayor Re-elected

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, won two to one over Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was unable to complete his campaign and Dr. Carriere halted his own battle when informed of Greenwoods condition.

The Fitchburg election was nonpartisan, but Mayor Greenwood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in national politics.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic City Treasurer, by 3759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "Put the city on a business basis," led John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, by only 267 votes in the first count. Both are Democrats.

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford (R), refeated John H. Burke (D) in Everett, with one precinct missing, Frank E. Lewis, Republican, was leading Mayor James A. Roche, Democrat; Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was reelected over State Representative Thomas Flannery in Waltham's non-partisan contest.

In Pittsfield, Mayor Allen H. Bagg was reelected over Alfred C. Daniels, receiving 9580 votes to 8705 for Daniels.

Lynn voters also returned their Mayor to office. J. Fred Manning, running for his fourth term as Mayor, was given 18,972 votes to 9061 for his opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

CURLEY ACTS ON STRIKE

New Bedford Strike-Breakers Refused Use of State Pier

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Gov. Curley acted last night on charges made by Daniel J. Donovan, a vice president of the International Longshoremen's Association, that the New Bedford State pier had become a headquarters for strike-breakers.

He instructed William F. Callahan, State Commissioner of Public Works, not to allow strike-breakers use of the pier.

The Governor, after a conference with Donovan, said the latter's chief complaint was that WPA-ERA workers were leaving the Federal relief rolls to become strike-breakers. His instructions to Callahan, the Governor believed, would settle the matter.

Union Longshoremen have been on strike in New Bedford more than three weeks, seeking higher wages and changes in working conditions. Donovan made his charges after returning from New Bedford where he said he attempted to arrange for berthing a ship and discharging the cargo. He said he was told a man in charge of the State pier had prohibited use of union labor if the boat docked there.

REBELLION

There were some rather significant facts in the elections. Worcester rebelled at the Curley issue, unfortunately lugged in from Boston where it originated as a form of command. Representative E. J. Kelley who, a short time ago, attracted attention by defeating for nomination the incumbent, Mayor John C. Mahoney, was beaten by the Republican contender, Walter J. Cookson, by some 5000 votes. The normal Democratic majority is around 7000. Kelley is the Democratic floor leader in the House and the Governor's spokesman there. Much was made by the opposition to him of the cry that, to elect Kelley, would mean Curley control of the city. President Roosevelt's home town, Hyde Park, went Republican when Emerson D. Fite, G. O. P. candidate for the Assembly, bested John E. Mack Jr. by 276 majority. Mack is the son of the man who placed in nomination the name of Roosevelt at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1932. The elder Mack is a former justice of the New York Supreme Court.

CURLEY NOMINATES REPUBLICAN FOR VACANCY ON BENCH

Boston, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Gov. James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councillor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield as justice of Superior Court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the Executive Council at its meeting today, and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The Executive Council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the Governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell of Fall River as a member of the council.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high State office by Curley, the other being Edmond Cote of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River finance commission when the legislature ended its session last summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

BRIDGE REPAIRS, SAFETY ISLANDS ARE ADVOCATED

City Council Committee to Urge Approval of Both Projects.

MAYOR IS CRITICISED

Councillor Wood Opposes Action Until After Curley's Parley Is Held

Acceptance of the bill providing for the repair of the Slade's Ferry bridge and approval of plans for the construction of safety isles on Plymouth avenue from Warren street to Rodman street were recommended by the City Council, sitting as a committee on highways last night.

Debate preceding approval of the bridge repair bill recommended by seven of the Councillors with Harry Wood, lone dissenter, not voting, was featured by the statement by Councillor Allen J. McDermott that "The Mayor has dumped this matter right into our laps. I heard him blame the Council for the delay on the back steps of City Hall after the hearing." His assertion was corroborated by Leo H. Berube who declared, "I'm glad you said it. I heard him say the same thing." Several Councillors noted that the Mayor's approval would be required in addition to the Council's sanction.

Councillor Wood, who as chairman of the committee on highways, presided at the recnt public hearing, vigorously opposed acting on the matter until the results of the conference called by Governor James M. Curley to discuss the new bridge possibility be known. He argued that the proposed new bridge would relieve the Brightman street bridge of 35 per cent. of the present traffic and would bring Fall River as near as New Bedford to the trade area of Cape Cod. He asserted that if the Slade's Ferry bridge were repaired and another heavily loaded tanker should strike it a dangerous conflagration might result.

Eight Feet Wide

The 11 safety isles to be constructed will be eight feet wide and nine inches high with vertical sides of poured concrete and located at the intersections between the designated limits. One isle located between Manton and Warren streets will be 150 feet long with another 100 feet long situated in front of the Connell school. The remaining isles will be 25 feet in length. The approximate cost for materials was estimated by Commissioner of Public Works Thomas J. Logan at $2500 with an additional cost of $1000 for underground lighting from Warren to Fifth streets.

John M. Young, State Motor Vehicle Inspector Supervisor, invited to attend the meeting as a representative of the traffic commission, outlined isle construction he had noticed in other cities and declared that anything at all that was done to construct safety isles along that stretch of Plymouth avenue would be some help.

The committee recommended that the report of the sub-committee on ordinances establishing fees of $3 daily or $25 annually for sound truck licenses be accepted with a hospital zone ban stipuated. The recommendation further provides that such licenses be granted by the City Clerk with the approval of the chief of police.

The daily fee of $3 was accepted by the sub-committee as an amendment to its original recommendation of $1 after Councillor McDermott stated that there were not 25 days in the year in which an outside advertiser would avail himself of the privilege. The setting of such a daily fee would be an injustice to local sound truck operators who would pay an annual fee of $25 and still be subject to competition, he asserted.

The committee directed the Commissioner of Public Works prepare plans for acceptance of Florence, Hemlock and Lawton streets.

REPUBLICAN CAPTURES ELECTION IN WORCESTER

Cookson Elected Mayor Over State Representative Kelley.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was elected Mayor of Worcester tonight over State Representative Edward J. Kelley.

Complete returns showed for Cookson 36,219; for Kelley 34,095 votes. Kelley is a Democrat.

The return of Worcester to the Republican column was interpreted by Republican spokesman as a slap at Curleyism which became the chief note of the campaign.

Cookson supporters had maintained that Kelley was receiving substantial backing from Governor James M. Curley, Democrat, for whom Kelley is legislative floor leader. Cookson demanded that Worcester retain "home rule." While the accomplishments of the national New Deal were touched upon by some Democratic campaigners the issue was far overshadowed by State and local questions.

Republicans maintained that Governor Curley and his friends were attempting to step into local fights as they were accused of doing in the Essex senatorial and Tenth Middlesex Representative elections.

Cookson also charged that the Curley friends were aiding Kelley, both in the primary and election, by the use of automobiles and workers.

No "Lilac Boulevard" Plan for WPA in Rhode Island

Cheney Dismisses Curley Proposal with "I'm Not Planting Dandelions on Main Street."—Explains About Block Island

"I'm not planting dandelions on Main street."

J. Burleigh Cheney, State WPA administrator, thus dismissed the "lilac boulevard" project advanced by Governor James M. Curley of Massachusetts, the highway to connect Providence and Boston with lilacs planted along its borders.

Mr. Cheney made the remark in the course of a 30-minute interview with the Evening Bulletin this morning, in which he went into a great number of conditions existing under WPA.

Seated at his desk in his shirt sleeves, Mr. Cheney talked almost incessantly about WPA, stopping only long enough to hear the next question asked by his interviewers.

New Instructions

The first question asked him was whether he has received new instructions which permit him to employ persons who have applied for relief since May 31. Previously, only those on relief rolls during May were eligible.

Mr. Cheney explained he had received such an order, but that it permits him to employ these new cases only as replacements for WPA workers who have gone back to private industry. He is not permitted, he said, to go above his allotment of 12,900 persons.

"What about Block Island?" he was asked. R. A. Negus, town council president of that town, has said that WPA wants the town to provide trucks for use by the transient camp personnel, but would not guarantee that any local people would be employed by WPA, and that the town refused.

Cheney's Version

Mr. Cheney's version:

"I went to bat for Block Island. I went more than 50-50 with those people. They didn't have anyone on relief last May and therefore didn't have anyone eligible.

"I told those people I would get Washington to permit me to employ a case load up to 100 persons, and that I would employ all who were certified as needy people on projects on the island, provided Washington approved the projects.

"In return, I asked them to supply the trucks for the airport job. I offered to cut the transient camp personnel from 76 to 50, and use only those 50 on the projects. There would be more than that number of local people employed if they were needy.

Four Projects Approved

"Well, Washington gave me permission to do so. The administration approved four projects for the town, including the airport, an incinerator, grading at the high school and the town cemetery.

"You can see I went more than 50-50 with the town. But did they accept? No. They absolutely refuse to pay for anything to be used by the transient labor, and I can't start the airport project with only transient labor because there are not enough of them to finish the job by March 1—the deadline."

"That kind of leaves you on a spot, doesn't it?" Mr. Cheney was asked.

"Me? On a spot? Not at all, buddy. Don't think I would put my neck out far enough for that. You see, I haven't taken over the transient camp as part of WPA yet. It still belongs to the transient relief bureau and all I have to do with it is sign the checks. I will take them over eventually, but I haven't yet, so you see, I'm not on the spot. The town thought they had me but they didn't."

General Program

Discussing things in general, Mr. Cheney said that he aims to put people to work in their regular occupations. "Ditchdiggers will dig ditches and violin players will play violins," he said. "Ditchdiggers won't be playing violins and violinists won't be digging ditches.

"Of course, we got a lot of people assigned to jobs that they don't fit into. Probably as high as 25 per cent. of the total has to be shifted. The reason for that is that when these people registered, they put down everything they could think of.

"A bird may have said he could play a fiddle because his son once took violin lessons. Another may have said he was a bookkeeper because he kept books in his father's grocery store. As fast as we find out that a man doesn't fit, we transfer him to another project.

Promotions Planned

"Our supervisors and engineers have been told to instil in the workers the idea that they have a chance to get promoted. It is just like a regular industry. We want these people to work and we will see that they will work and those that do a good job will be promoted.

"We have a lot of projects and some of them aren't so hot, maybe. But we are trying to do our best and we are trying to do a 100 per cent. job. But, I'm not planting dandelions on Main street. That lilac highway—we can't do things like that."

Worcester Election Blow at New Deal and Curley

Cookson, Republican, Defeats Kelley, Democrat, By 2124 Votes.—Springfield Gives G. O. P. Smashing Victory

Boston, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Republican victories were celebrated in several Massachusetts cities today as Democratic candidates were defeated in three partisan contests at yesterday's municipal elections and Republicans were elected in several cities ostensibly non-partisan.

The Worcester mayoralty, which was regarded by some political observers as a test of the strength of Governor James M. Curley (D), was won by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, who defeated State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House. The vote was: Cookson 36,219, Kelley 34,095.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was re-elected by a margin of 5197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The Fitchburg election was non-partisan, but Mayor Greenwood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in national politics.

Springfield, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was re-elected by a margin of 5197 votes over his nearest opponent in the municipal election here today. The balloting was a sweeping Republican victory, all the G. O. P. incumbents being re-elected and several Democratic officials being ousted by Republican new-comers. The election increased the overwhelming Republican control of the city administration, which was gained at the last election, two years ago.

Martens polled 22,762 votes, against 17,656 for Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat. Matthew Campbell, United Labor Party, got 2152 votes and Rodolph Angers, Independent, polled 1950.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic City Treasurer, by 3759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "Put the city on a business basis," led John W. Lyons, President of the City Council, by only 49 votes in the first count. Both are Democrats.

REPUBLICANS WIN

A Republican sweep of the East and repudiation of the New Deal were seen in the early returns from yesterday's election results in Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and elsewhere. This had been predicted by Republican leaders, but results are better than predictions and the results more than confirm the forecasts.

Most significant of all perhaps was the return of the New York Assembly to the control of the Republicans, despite the strenuous efforts of Mr. Farley and the President himself to rally the voters to the support of the Administration. In New York, the Assembly, where there is now a Democratic majority will be Republican by five or six votes and in addition the cities of the Empire State generally returned to the Republican column.

Philadelphia had a mayoralty election and that city is restored to normalcy by the election of a Republican.

In Massachusetts the Republican sweep is even more impressive. Party was the issue in only a few municipalities but where there was a straight party vote the Republicans won. The party won an almost unhoped for victory in Worcester where a Democratic majority of a year ago of 7,200 was converted to a Republican margin of three or four thousand. In that city Governor Curley was more the issue than the National Administration. The Governor had accepted this and had sent his workers to the city in the effort to save the day, but it was in vain. In one or two other Massachusetts cities where Curleyism was the bone of contention the results were the same. The turn-over is pretty likely to discourage the Governor from running again as it was said he had considered doing and may mean his passing as a political power in the Bay State. This is as it should be, for the Governor's methods have not been such as a self-respecting state could tolerate. Curley has been repudiated but the turn-over in the Bay State cannot wholly be ascribed to his administration. Massachusetts is against the New Deal and has shown it whenever the opportunity has been offered.

Concluded
Concluded

Kentucky, where a governor and one Congressman were to be chosen had not been heard from as this was written, as evidently it is the idea there not to count the votes until the day after election.

In so far as the opportunity offered the East has repudiated the New Deal and it is apparent that the tremendous debts piled up by the Administration for people to pay was the paramount issue. Voters realize that the burden of the prodigal spending of the Roosevelt regime will be placed on their shoulders and that they will be called upon to pay by greatly increased taxation.

It is still to be borne in mind that the vote of the East will not be sufficient to oust the New Dealers, with their debts and socialistic policies. The middle West must be converted. But the people there don't like to be taxed any better than they do in the East and there is hope there, although not yet assurance.

CURLEY SUBMITS BAKER'S NAME FOR MACLEOD VACANCY

BOSTON—Gov. James M. Curley, (D), this afternoon submitted to the executive council for confirmation the appointment of Councilor J. The governor, it was reported at the State House, intends to name Morton H. Burdick, (D), of Easthampton to the council in Baker's place as soon as the Pittsfield man is confirmed as judge. Confirmation of Burdick would give the Democrats a six to three margin in the executive council.

SEE VOTE AS CURLEY BLOW

Republicans Make Strong Showing Through Massachusetts

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—In what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Gov. James M. Curley, Roosevelt leader, the city of Worcester today was swept back into the Republican column, while G. O. P. victories were recorded in Somerville and Lowell, two other surprises in mayoralty elections in 12 Bay State cities. Republicans continued to hold seats in several cities.

In Worcester, where the New Deal and Governor Curley were the issues, Walter J. Cookson, (R), defeated Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives and spokesman for Governor Curley, by a majority of 2124.

Somerville returned to the Republican fold after six years when Mayor James E. Hagan, a Democrat, was defeated by Ex-Alderman Leslie E. Knox. Hagan had the backing of U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, a former mayor and Roosevelt appointee.

Dewey G. Archambault, (R), defeated City Treasurer Charles R. Flood, (D), in Lowell and became the first G. O. P. mayor in five years. The G. O. P. also took three city council seats from the Democrats and elected two Republicans out of three candidates for the school committee.

Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of Roosevelt, was defeated in Everett by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, a Republican.

Forty-five votes separated John D. Lynch, former school committeeman, over John W. Lyons, president of the city council, in the Cambridge Democratic mayoralty contest. A recount was under way.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, of Fitchburg, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, received news of his re-election at Boston city hospital where he is recovering from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident. He was re-elected by an unprecedent majority over Ex-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, (R), easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden and two other candidates.

Pittsfield sent Former Mayor Allen H. Bagg (R) back into office. He defeated Alfred C. Daniels.

In Medford's non-partisan election, Mayor John J. Irwin, (R), was re-elected over Former Mayor John J. Burke, (D).

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn was elected to his fourth successive term over Ex-Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons was sent back to office over Paul F. Shaughnessy.

In Waltham, Dr. Frederick L. MacDonald was re-elected mayor defeating Thomas J. Flannery.

GOVERNOR CURLEY SAYS POLL RESULTS 'NOT UNEXPECTED'

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Viewing results of elections in various sections of the state and nation, Governor James M. Curley today declared the "outcome was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration of the Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying."

The Governor said that with the policies of President Roosevelt in operation and with prosperity in the nation in 1936 there was "little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

Candidates in Tuesday's Primaries Making a Big Drive for Nomination; Cody Named as Post Office Carrier; Two Peabodyites Arrested on Larceny Charges; Health Meeting

Peabody, Nov. 6—Candidates seeking nomination in next Tuesday's primary for positions in the city council, school committee and the Peabody Institute are making a concentrated drive and will continue to do so until Tuesday. No public rallies have been planned and it is likely that none will be held as the so-called off-year elections seldom have the same interest as in a year when the mayor is elected. Most of the campaigning is being done from door to door in the wards where there are contests; in fact this has been going on for several weeks in some of the wards. But one of the six ward councillors will be without opposition and he will be Martin P. Doyle of Ward One. It would have been a hard job to find anyone in that ward to oppose Councillor Doyle in his try for a second term as his administration has been a most successful one and he is highly respected by the residents of the South Peabody community where he has resided all his life.

The Ward Two situation is going to be a difficult one for the local pols to predict the outcome as Councillor Edward Sexton is not seeking a third term. The first name on the list in this ward contest will be that of Maurice Hallinan of 33 Mason street. The three other candidates listed respectively on the ballot are John P. McCarthy of 110 Washington street; George J. Eagan of 132 Washington street; James E. Flynn of 2 Washington place.

The candidates in the Ward Three fight will be listed as follows: Thomas J. Mullane of 8 Beacon street; George A. Lawrence of 15 Sutton street; Joseph B. Keefe of 47 Aborn street. In Ward Four Councillor Joseph F. Luz will lead the list and he will be followed by George N. Skallotis of 59 Tremont street and Henry F. Crowley of 6 Winthrop street.

The Ward Five fight is attracting some attention with six candidates in the field with Councillor John F. Carlin failing to seek reelection due to ill health. The candidates will appear in the following order on the ballot: Myles O. Sheridan of 6 Endicott street; Sylvene Bettencourt of 25 Kenwood road; James A. O'Shea of 17 Stevens street; William H. McGinn of 93 Gardner street; James R. Walsh of 76 Northend street; Ralph L. Blake of 3 Englewood road. Laurence T. Lane will lead the list in Ward Six, and he is opposing Councillor Edwin A. Durkee.

Dr. Walter D. Higgins will lead the field of eight school committee candidates. The other candidates will appear in the following order: Henry P. Roche of 6 Newcastle road; Leonard B. Cassidy of 11 Sutton street; William A. Duffy of 7 Clement avenue; Joseph F. Dolan of 46 Holten street; Frank A. Narbis of 31 Lenox road; George A. Ankeles of 102 Lowell street; John J. Keenan of 112 Main street. The only two candidates for the office of trustees of the Peabody Institute are John F. Ellis of 21 Franklin street and Nathan F. Masterson of 9 Pierpont street. As there are two positions open, both are assured of nomination and election.

APPOINTED CARRIER

Charles M. Cody, 28, of Central street, was yesterday appointed a regular carrier at the Peabody post office. Cody, who has been a reserve carrier since July 19, 1929, was appointed two weeks ago by Postmaster Walter L. Williams and confirmation of the appointment came through yesterday. The appointment came as the result of the number of hours of carriers being dropped from 44 hours per week to 40 hours. There are now 14 carriers attached to the local office. Cody's appointment will undoubtedly be a popular one as he has impressed those to whom he has rendered service as a sincere and dependable young man.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY

George V. Royal, 40, of 42 Holten street, was arrested on a warrant charging him with larceny on two counts yesterday by Motorcycle Officer Thomas J. Dolan. The complaint was made by officials of the electric light department who complained that Royal is alleged to have tapped electric light wires leading into his home after the department shut his electric current off for non-payment. Royal stated that the welfare department told him they would pay the bill and that apparently the trouble was between the welfare department and the electric light department and in the meantime he needed electrical current. One of the complaints alleges that Royal diverted current and the other alleges that he used current after the electric light department had ordered him not to do so.

CAR LARCENY CHARGED

John Mahoney, 19, of 6 Colfax street, this city, was arrested on a warrant charging him with the larceny of an automobile, by Sergt. Frank Collins last evening. Mahoney, the alleged driver of a stolen automobile owned by a Lynn man, crashed into a truck owned by Louis

Either reduce this ruthless disbursement of money or the public will put men in office who will follow the financial dictates of rent payers and tax payers. This is one of a few cities in the commonwealth which will accept the burdensome tax rate of $40 with $45 staring them in the face unless they muster up courage enough to call a halt to this orgy of spending.

"Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation for the commonwealth of Massachusetts, states that real estate taxes ought not to exceed $30 per thousand and further states that if the tax rate is higher than that something should be done about it. Such a statement coming from an expert in this particular line of taxation readily confirms the argument in past articles of the writer. It is one thing to write on a matter of taxation and its rates and another thing to set forth methods for a reduction from a $40 to a $30 tax rate, which meets the approach of a high taxation official in this state.

"The city's budget in the course of eight years has jumped from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Should not the taxpayers ask what causes such an exorbitant increase, a half a million dollars? While Peabody's valuations are suffering, being the most direct means of revenue, to offset this exorbitant tax expense, little is being done to bring about additional valuation revenue from newly constructed values or reopening closed property values.

"Dating back to the time that Peabody became a city, up to the year of 1935, the average tax rate was $29.40. The tax rate for 1935 of $39.40 shows something to be under ex-Mayor Donnel the average tax rate was $17.68; under ex-Mayor Shea the average tax rate was $31.55; under ex-Mayor Bakeman it was $32.33, and under ex-Mayor Sullivan the tax average shows $33.87. By a careful inspection of these tax averages one can readily determine the following statistical differences against the $39.40 tax rate figures of Mayor McVann. Tax average comparisons against Mayor McVann's $39.40 show the following all in favor of our ex-mayors as per comparative listings: Donnell, $21.72; Shea, $7.85; Bakeman, $7.07, and Sullivan, $5.53. Each one of the ex-mayors have shown a better tax average than Mayor McVann, as per above average tax figures.

"Considerable criticism has been made of ex-Mayor Sullivan's administration, but the public should know that he accepted old bill burdens from former mayors, just as Mayor McVann states he has shouldered bills from ex-Mayor Sullivan, which has been prevalent throughout since the change from town form of government. Little fault can be found of ex-Mayor Sullivan's tax average of $33.87 as against $39.40 of Mayor McVann. Mayor McVann accepted ex-Mayor Sullivan and his forces in full, with the exception perhaps of one or two. This cannot be attributed to ex-Mayor Sullivan, but can be charged up to Mayor McVann. The political actors with their leads, Sullivan and McVann set the stage at Hog hill, arranging political details (in a closed private way) and the present leading man-mayor agreed to play the role as of this day. If complete acceptances were not forthcoming by Mayor McVann, the political picture financially might have taken on a much different aspect. Sullivan and McVann pulled the strings behind the scenes and the public approved the farce comedy.

"No mayor, particularly Mayor McVann, who has served in the house of representatives as well as councillor-at-large and head of the municipal finance committee in this city, can plead ignorance of Peabody's financial condition, in so far as he was also in direct communication with ex-Mayor Sullivan. The people of Peabody believed and his forces worked hard for him, also believing that they were putting an independent mayor in office, who was not tied up with promises before entering the office of mayor. Ex-Mayor Bakeman had a thorough knowledg of Tammany and when he was opposing Mayor McVann. It was believed by the taxpayers and rent payers that he would perhaps take a leaf from the financial book of Mayor Bates of Salem, or confer with Tax Commissioner Long, or Mr. Waddell of the state division of accounts.

"When two mayoralty political forces merge under one administrative and field operating head, the taxpayers and rent payers must expect to shoulder an exorbitant tax burden, as $40 and the possibility of a $45 tax rate later.

"Something is radically wrong with the administration of this city when many departments already have used up their money allotments and now are compelled through I. O. U. promises to carry on. This is a very lax and unwise way to conduct the financial affairs of this city.

"Councillors have assailed ex-Mayor Sullivan on the council floor during votes, it will afford other independent men reason to aspire. In that way will Peabody perhaps realize a change in the conduct of its affairs, financial and otherwise. Change the caliber of your elective officials and your appointive forces will be improved. High grade, independent officials may lead the way to a practical and just tax rate of $30 for this city.

"Henry J. Brown."

HERE AND THERE

It is rumored that Mayor McVann is keenly interested in seeing that a certain candidate for the office of school committeeman is elected in order to obtain the support of this member to carry through a few measures which would please the chief executive but would displease many others. One prospective candidate refused the proposition.

Many Peabodyites were present at the rodeo at Boston last evening when Richard Grant, fiery secretary to Gov. James M. Curley was "driven" from a microphone by the stamping of feet and the clapping of hands. He did not appear to be so well liked by the several hundred present to view one of the finest rodeos given in these parts for some time.

Local Demies are quite peeved at the fact that some members of another party are securing federal and state positions under the present Democratic administration and this is apt to cause many to "jump" the fence in the next state or federal election.

Roger W. MacDonald, former city engineer has obtained a position in the Salem ERA office as an engineer at a salary of $42 per week and expenses.

A Peabodyite, well versed in state and national politics, yesterday predicted that the Republican party has made hundreds of votes in this strongly Democratic city during the past few months, because of the lack of interest and the failure to carry out pledges they promised a few months ago. The light of day may be seen by yesterday's election, returns from other cities that had gone strongly Democratic in past elections, but have made a change of mind. In some cities the Demies carried through in other years with large majorities but yesterday's re-

Consider Nomination Of Burdick Final Step In Controlling Council

Political Observers See Dismissal of Department Heads Slated for Next Month; Will Be 6 to 3 Democratic Majority

Boston, Nov. 6—Gov. Curley's anticipated nomination of Morton H. Burdick of West Springfield to succeed J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield as member of the executive council is generally regarded by political observers as the final step in the governor's plan to exercise complete domination over the council in the general dismissal of department heads slated for next month. The governor already has indicated publicly that he will nominate Councillor Baker today for the seat on the superior court bench that was vacated by the recent death of Judge Frederick J. Macleod of Brookline.

The tenures of 19 important officeholders will expire within the next few weeks. With the confirmation of Burdick as Baker's successor, the political line-up of the council will be shifted from a 5-to-4 Republican majority early this year to a 6-to-3 Democratic majority.

There was wide speculation yesterday that the new lineup not only will result in the refusal to reappoint numerous present department heads, but also that it will result in the ousting of a few present commissioners, chiefly Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the metropolitan district commission.

Officeholders

Whose Tenures Expire

between now and Dec. 15 follow:

Edward Fisher of Lowell, associate commissioner of labor and industries.

James M. Hurley of Marlboro, commissioner of civil service.

Arthur T. Lyman of Westwood, commissioner of correction.

Tony A. Garofano of Saugus, board of registration of barbers.

J. Fred Becket of Fall River, state housing board.

Fred W. Jenness of Lowell, commissioner on firemen's relief.

Edgar L. Gillett of Canton, agriculture commissioner.

Lieut.-Col. Paul G. Kirk of Newton, public safety commissioner.

Samuel A. York of Chesterfield, conservation commissioner.

Raymond J. Kenney of Belmont, fish and game director.

Dr. Payson Smith of Brookline, education commissioner.

Joseph B. Jacobs of Brookline, metropolitan district commissioner.

Henry G. Wells of Haverhill, public utilities commissioner.

Brig.-Gen. Richard K. Hale of Brookline, associate public works commissioner.

Charles F. Connors of Boston, state racing commission chairman.

Richard K. Conant of Lincoln, public welfare commissioner.

Maj. George J. Cronin of Boston, state purchasing agent.

Henry F. Long of Topsfield tax commissioner.

The term of William D. Desmond of Stoneham as state supervisor of marine fisheries expired three weeks ago and action on his status may be taken at today's session of the executive council.

When the governor attempted to remove Hultman from the metropolitan district commission chairmanship last spring, he encountered the solid opposition of the five Republicans serving at that time and also lacked the support of two Democrats, Councillors James J. Brennan of Somerville and William G. Hennessey of Lynn.

With the three Republicans still remaining in the council—Winfield A. Schuster of East Douglas, Frank A. Brooks of Watertown and Joseph B. Grossman of Quincy—a majority could be organized against the governor provided they had the support of Councillors Hennessey and Brennan.

These two Democrats have displayed on occasion, but in general they have voted for the governor's proposals.

Today's council session will be the first at which the governor will have been present since late in September when he left for his trip to Honolulu.

Prospects that the governor might encounter some difficulty in obtaining confirmation for Councillor Baker as superior court justice loomed last night when it was indicated that Councillors Brennan and Hennessey were disposed to insist that the judicial vacancy go to a Democrat.

It was reported that they would voice their objections to the appointment of a Republican when they arrive at the State house this morning. They were prepared to urge the governor to consider the qualifications for the superior court of Special Justice Leo P. Doherty of the Boston municipal court before nominating a Republican.

Curley Proclaims American Education Week, Nov. 11-17

Urges All to Bring About Wider Understanding and Encouragement of Education of Future Generation

(Special to The News)

State House, Boston, Nov. 6—Gov. James M. Curley has proclaimed Nov. 11 to 17 as American Education week, in which he requests citizens and parents to take advantage of the opportunity to bring about a more widespread understanding and encouragement of the education of its future generation. The proclamation reads as follows:

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts
By His Excellency
James M. Curley
Governor
A PROCLAMATION

The schools of Massachusetts have been established by the people in order that there may be assured to the commonwealth and to the nation a citizenship well fitted to discharge adequately the responsibilities that are an inherent part of democratic government. It is most essential to the future welfare of the republic that the schools shall not only help our youth to acquire wisdom, but that they shall also develop within them complete layalty to the ideals and institutions of the United States of America.

Massachusetts was one of the first states to establish a free school and its people have a right to be proud of a school system which, for three centuries, has reflected their devotion to the cause of education. The highest efficiency of the schools will be promoted only through the continued interest of parents and citizens, and it is a solemn responsibility that rests upon all our people to give serious thought and study to every proposal that promises better education for the youth of our land.

Therefore, in order that we may focus our attention upon the interests and problems of our schools, I call to the attention of the citizens of the commonwealth the occurence of the 15th annual American Education week which will be observed throughout the nation from Nov. 11 to the 17th.

Chapter 96 of the Acts of 1935 provides that the governor shall annually issue a proclamation calling for the proper observance of American Education week as a period for special attention to the work of our schools, and in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, I, James M. Curley, governor of the commonwealth, do hereby designate and set apart the week Nov. 11 to 17 as and I earnestly request that citizens and parents take advantage of this opportunity to bring about a more widespread understanding and encouragement of one of the most fundamental enterprises of a free people, that of the education of its future generation. I also request that the week be observed throughout the Commonwealth by appropriate exercises in the schools and in the homes that this most important work may be carried out.

Given at the executive chamber in Boston, this fourth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixtieth.

James M. Curley.

By His Excellency the Governor,
Frederic W. Cook,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

THE SHY MR. CURLEY

The coy shyness which marks Governor Curley's every discussion of his political plans is so atypical that his fellow citizens can hardly be blamed if they wonder what is behind it all. Mr. Curley will do, the news reports have him saying, whatever the party leaders ask him to do. If they think he ought to run for governor, he'll run for governor. If they need him in the senatorial race, that is where he will be found when the next campaign rolls around.

Somehow or other, this does not sound like Mr. Curley. All his life he has been making his own decisions. When he has wanted an office, high or low, he has made a fight for it, not infrequently to the distinct embarrassment of those Democrats who regarded themselves as the men to whom all aspiring candidates should look before they leaped. And who are the leaders now mentioned by the governor? Certainly there is little evidence in the record of the past year or so to indicate that the Democratic party possessed any leaers except Mr. Curley himself. As long ago as 1932, when the "Henry F. Long, commissioner of [illegible], Mrs. Mary D. Hunt, and Mrs. George Baine trailed to Taunton last week to the Pak-ko-dah Council of Councils nd brought home a prize for the argest delegation.

Foster Anderson of Washington s a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Knowles of Quissett.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Knowles have returned from a vaation in Washington, D. C., Pennylvania and New York.

Patrolman Carlton B. Wright is njoying his annual vacation.

Officers of the Sophomore class lected last week at Lawrence High school are: Stephen Papp, resident; Bernice Jones, vice president; Phyllis Gould, secretary, nd John Nickerson, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Baker and amily, with Miss Batty Barton, pent the week end in Maryland.

Arnold W. Dyer of the Falmouth il Company is reported as having een marooned at Cortez, Central merica, but is expected to arive in New York city on board a nited Fruit liner.

Mrs. Grace Davis and son Merle, ormerly of Morse road, have gone Denlay, Fla., for the Winter onths.

Senator Coolidge says little but he has learned the political game surprisingly well. He is in a position to make a stubborn pre-primary campaign. Even if Mr. Curley should win here, he would still have to go before all the voters of the State in a contest where his record as governor would certainly be the main matter for discussion.

Everything considered, it is not so strange that Mr. Curley hesitates to make a decision all by himself. It may be sound strategy to "await the party's call."—Boston Transcript.

Republicans Win Several Elections in State; Curley Rebuke Seen in Worcester

G. O. P. Candidates Also Triumph in Several Cities Ostensiby Non-Partizan—Cookson Defeats Rep. Kelly in Contest Called Test of Governor's Strength

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Republican victories were celebrated in several Massachusetts cities today as Democratic candidates were defeated in three partisan contests at yesterday's municipal elections and Republicans were elected in several cities ostensibly non-partizan.

Worcester Goes Republican

The Worcester mayoralty, which was regarded by some political observers as a test of the strength of Gov. James M. Curley (D.), was won by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, who defeated State Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House. The vote was: Cookson 36,219, Kelley 34,095.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, (R.), was reelected by a margin of 5197 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, (D.).

The Somerville election was non-partizan, but was considered a Republican victory, with Leslie E. Knoox registered as a Republican, defeating Mayor James E. Hagan, (D.), by an unofficial margin of 1400 votes. Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, U. S. Marshal in Boston, who appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident last week, won two to one over Dr. Joseph Carriere. Greenwood was unable to complete his campaign and Dr. Carriere halter his own battle when informed of Greenwood's condition.

The Fitchburg election was non-partizan, but Mayor Greenwood is a registered Democrat and Dr. Carriere is a Republican in national politics."

Dewey G. Archambault, (R.), defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic city treasurer, by 3759 votes in Lowell.

A recount was started immediately in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, who campaigned to the cry of "put the city on a business basis," led John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, by only 267 votes in the first count. Both are Democrats.

Mayor J. J. Irwin of Medford, (R.) defeated John H. Burke (D.), in Everett, with one precinct missing, Frank E. Lewis, (R.), was leading Mayor James A. Roche, (D.); Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald, a physician, was reelected over State Rep. Thomas Flannery in Waltham's non-partisan contest.

The return of Worcester to the Republican column was interpreted by Republican spokesmen as a slap at Curleyism which became the chief note of the campaign.

Cookson supporters had maintained that Kelly was receiving substantial backing from Gov. James M. Curley, Democrat, for whom Kelley is legislative floor leader. Cookson demanded that Worcester retain "home rule." While the accomplishments of the National New Deal were touched upon by some Democratic campaigners the issue was far overshadowed by State and local questions.

Republicans maintained that Gov. Curley and his friends were attempting to step into local fights as they were accused of doing in the Essex senatorial and 10 Middlesex representative elections.

Cookson also charged that the Curley friends were aiding Kelley, both in the primary and election, by the use of automobiles and workers.

In Pittsfield, Mayor Allen H. Bagg was reelected over Alfred C. Daniels, receiving 9580 votes to 8705 for Daniels.

Lynn voters also returned their mayor to office. J. Fred Manning, running for his fourth term as mayor, was given 18,972 votes to 9061 for his opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

Both elections were non-partizan.

ELECTION RESULT NOT UNEXPECTED, SAYS GOV. CURLEY

Should Be Gratifying to Democrats, He Comments; Lodge Sees Rebuke to Administration.

(Special to The Springfield Union)

BOSTON, Nov. 6 — "The outcome both in the nation and state was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying." This was Gov. Curley's expressed opinion today following the elections yesterday which saw Republican mayors returned or reelected in all but one city.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of former United States Senator Lodge and candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat held by his grandfather, said:

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that the people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of smug inaction. They show strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

Continuing, the Governor said, "The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at the present time and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critic and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

Baker Is Nominated To Court; Bowker Brands Him Traitor

Confirmation of Pittsfield Man to Superior Bench Goes Over Week—Governor Doing G. O. P. Favor in Exposing Benedict Arnolds Who Show Contempt for Voters, Says Bowker

(Special to The Springfield Union)

BOSTON, Nov. 6—Gov. James M. Curley this afternoon nominated Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield for an oppointment to be judge of the Superior Court, succeeding the late Judge Frederick J. Macleod. The appointment is a reward for Baker's abandonment of the Republican party to give Gov. Curley full control of the Executive Council.

If Mr. Baker is confirmed by his fellow members next week, the governor will nominate Morton H. Burdick of Springfield as Baker's successor. Judicial appointments by constitutional requirements have to lie on the table for a week.

Mr. Burdick was the unsuccessful candidate against Mr. Baker in 1934. The job to which Gov. Curley seeks to appoint Mr. Baker pays $12,000 a year and expenses when away from home. Mr. Baker has indicated that he will accept the appointment.

Baker Called "Judas"

Implying that Councilor Baker is a "Judas to his fellow Republicans," and asserting that "for those to take the 30 pieces of silver we have nothing but scorn," Rep. Philip G. Bowker of Brookline this afternoon in a formal statement congratulated Gov. Curley for nominating the Pittsfield man to the Superior Court bench.

"Gov. Curley in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench, has done a favor to the Republican forces," Rep. Bowker's statement read. "The renegade and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one through their rising to the bait offered by the Governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables His Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"For those who take the 30 pieces of silver we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and shown their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats His Excellency has further helped the Republicans, to speed the dissension in his own party rapidly taking root.

"The Governor apparently has a free hand now, and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections are positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

PLANS COMPLETE FOR ACCEPTANCE OF STATE ARMORY

Gov. Curley to Be Present at Formal Ceremony and Program Monday in Westfield

WESTFIELD, Nov. 5—Final plans for the formal opening of the new State Armory in Franklin St., the evening of Armistice Day, Monday, have been completed according to word received from Capt. C. Dudley Shaw, commanding officer of H Co., local unit of the M. N. G., which unit will officially enter its new headquarters at that time.

The program calls for a public inspection between the hours of 2 and 4. The public is invited to inspect the building, which is considered to be one of the finest in the State.

The evening program will be featured by the presentation of the new building by E. J. Pinney, Springfield contractor, who had charge of construction, to the Commander-in chief, Gov. James M. Curley. The address of welcome will be made by Mayor Raymond H. Cowing. The 104th Infantry Orchestra of Springfield will furnish music for the dedication ceremony and also for general dancing later.

Tickets for the dedication and formal opening may be secured from any officer of the company, member or by telephoning Westfield 371 and making reservations.

The program follows:

March, "On the Hike" by Shaw; address of welcome by Mayor Cowing; selection, "Kammenai-Ostrow," Rubenstein, by the orchestra; presentation of armory, E. J. Pinney, contractor; acceptance of armory, Gov. Curley; selection by orchestra, novelty fox-trot, "Dizzy-fingers"; acceptance of building by Armory Commission, Gen. William L. Rose, chairman; cornet solo, "Honeysuckle Polka" by H. Leverault; presentation of keys to Capt. Shaw; medley, "Echoes of Ireland" by orchestra; selection, Indian Love Song, "Minnitonka" by orchestra; introduction of contractors; finale, Medley of war songs, by orchestra.

VOTE OUTCOME IN WORCESTER CALLED BLOW TO NEW DEAL

City Goes Back Into Republican Column in Victory of Cookson

Boston, Nov. 6—In what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Gov James M. Curley, Roosevelt leader, the city of Worcester today was swept back into the Republican column, while G. O. P. victories were recorded in Somerville and Lowell, two other surprises in mayoralty elections in 12 Bay State cities. Republicans continued to hold seats in several cities.

In Worcester, where the New Deal and Governor Curley were the issues, Walter J. Cookson, Republican, defeated Representative Edward J. Kelly, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives and spokesman for Governor Curley, by a majority of 2124.

Somerville returned to the Republican fold after six years when Mayor James E. Hagan, a Democrat, was defeated by ex-Alderman Leslie E. Knox. Hagan had the backing of U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, a former mayor and Roosevelt appointee.

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated City Treasurer Charles R. Flood, Democratic, in Lowell and became the first G. O. P. mayor in five years. The G. O. P. also took three city council seats from the Democrats and elected two Republicans out of three candidates for the school committee.

Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of Roosevelt, was defeated in Everett by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, a Republican.

Forty-five votes separated John D. Lynch, former school committeeman, over John W. Lyons, president of the city council, in the Cambridge Democratic mayoralty contest. A recount was underway.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, received news of his reelection at Boston city hospital where he is recovering from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident. He was reelected by an unprecedented majority over ex-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, easily defeated Dr James A. Redden and two other candidates.

Pittsfield sent former Mayor Allen H. Bagg, Republican, back into office. He defeated Alfred C. Daniels. In Medford's nonpartisan election, Mayor John J. Irwin, Republican, was reelected over former Mayor John J. Burke, Democrat.

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn was elected to his fourth successive term over ex-Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres. Mayor Charles A. Lyons was sent back to office over Paul F. Shaughnessy.

In Waltham, Dr Frederick L. MacDonald was reelected mayor defeating Thomas J. Flannery.

BAKER NAMED AS JUSTICE BY THE GOVERNOR

Confirmation of Judgeship Appointee Expected Next Week

Special Dispatch to The Daily News

Boston, Nov. 6—Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield was this afternoon appointed a justice of the superior court by Gov James M. Curley, fice Frederick J. MacLeod, deceased The nomination, being judicial, lies over for one week before the council acts upon it.

In the governor's appointment of Charles F. Cavanaugh of probably elimination of antagonism of councilors William G. Hennessey of Lynn and James J. Brennan of Somerville to confirmation of Baker. It had been reported they were ready to kick over the traces and join the three Republican councilors to prevent Baker's confirmation, but it is now believed that the appointment of Cavanaugh will assuage their feelings to a very great extent and put them in line for Baker next Wednesday.

The governor appointed Dr Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton to be medical examiner of the 1st Hampshire district, vice the late Dr Edward Brown. This appointment also went over for one week for confirmation or rejection.

CURLEY FINDS NO REASON FOR FEAR ON PART OF DEMOCRATS

Doubts People Will Turn to Republicanism During 1936 Prosperity

Special Dispatch to The Daily News

Boston, Nov. 6—The Democratic party has nothing to fear from the outcome of yesterday's national and state elections, said Gov James M. Curley in a statement this noon. It follows—

"The outcome, both in the nation and state, was not unexpected and contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint, should be regarded as most gratifying. The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly, have not been put in operation at the present time and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago, the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critic and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Beveraly, announced candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, made this comment:—

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show a strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

The Election Results

The determination of Republican strategists in the high command to make prominent the "new deal issue" in yesterday's scattering elections leaves one this morning wondering if the national administration has been actually repudiated. We must wait a few hours for the count in Kentucky, the only state that chose a governor. In the northeast and Atlantic states only some mayors and legislators were elected. Surely, not an impressive foundation on which to judge popular sentiment concerning President Roosevelt.

Aside from Kentucky, the New York Assembly was expected to reveal the political drift nationally speaking. The "swing of the pendulum" evidently is back to Republicanism there, although it is not a wide swing. The Assembly had been steadily Republican for 22 years prior to 1934; and the Republican majority in the next session, according to the earlier returns, promises to be 10 or a dozen as compared with a Democratic majority of four at the last session.

On the other hand, the Republicans lost all three cities of Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport, the tendency toward Republicanism in the recent Connecticut town elections being reversed. Actually there is little or no national political significance in these city elections, and every Connecticut Republican will say so this morning. As for the mayoralty result in our Massachusetts city of Worcester, it is hard to give it any broader significance —unless there was an antiCurley feeling in evidence—than one can give to the mayoralty result here in Springfield.

Yet, wherever there was voting yesterday for a mayor or an assemblyman, special studies will be made at great headquarters for signs of national drift a year from now. There is an element of unreality about it, and, on the whole, the national political situation would not seem much changed even if Philadelphia were to elect a Democratic mayor for the first time in over 50 years.

COUNCILORS MAY REFUSE TO CONFIRM BAKER FOR JUDGE

Two Democrats Reported as Opposed, Believing $12,000 Position Should Go to a Democrat

From Our Special Reporter

Boston, Nov. 5—That the majority of the governor's council may refuse to vote to confirm Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to be a member of the superior court bench, succeeding to the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod, was learned tonight, after Gov Curley had announced he would submit Baker's appointment to the council at its regular session tomorrow.

The news hinges around the report, widely circulated tonight, that two Democratic councilors, William G. Hennessey of Lynn and James J. Brennan of Somerville, will refuse to vote for Baker and thus, with the three Republican members, would cause a 5 to 4 vote against him.

Believe Democrat Should Get Place

The Democrats are said to believe that this fine plum should go to a Democrat. It pays $12,000 a year and expenses; when the judge is away from home with no limit to such expenses. They are also said to be desirous of having the governor choose a member of the Boston municipal bench for elevation, more specifically, as far as they are concerned, Leo P. Doherty. They are given credit for having had Doherty named a special justice of the Boston court and are known to be very friendly with him.

Have Kicked Over Traces Before

Councilors Hennessey and Brennan have kicked over the traces before in the Curley regime—when the governor attempted to oust Eugene C. Hultman as chairman of the metropolitan district commission on the ground of his record as police commissioner of Boston. It was their refusal to join with other Democrats and Curley Republican councilors at that time that caused Gov Curley to give up, for the time being, his attempt to "get" Hultman, who is under fire again relative to contracts made in connection with the Boston water supply project in Central Massachusetts. His poor health has caused repeated postponements of council hearings in connection with such contracts and agreements, among them that relative to the taking of the Athol branch of the Boston & Albany railroad, which probably will be held tomorrow.

The governor will name Atty Morton H. Burdick of West Springfield, defeated by Baker in the last election, to the vacancy in the council, as soon as Baker is confirmed and resigns.

The governor indicated today he would submit other appointments tomorrow. He has many positions to fill, some of them department commissioners, or associate commissioners, as of December 4, and his control of the council will go a long way to insuring approval of his appointees. Among those to be displaced will be Samuel A. York of Chesterfield, conservation commissioner and father of the "Massachusetts plan" of state forest and reservation development. It is stated that Ernest J. Dean, Republican House member from Chilmark, who supported Gov Curley's bond issue and other measures during the last legislative session, will be the one to succeed York.

CURLEY TO NAME BAKER TO COURT POST TOMORROW

Pittsfield Republican Will Be Rewarded for Action Giving Governor Control of Council.

BOSTON, Nov. 5—Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, Republican, gets his reward tomorrow for abandoning his party and permitting the Executive Council to go Democratic for the first time in three-quarters of a century. Gov. James M. Curley, who is in Mr. Baker's debt, for giving him control of the advisory body, will nominate the Pittsfield man to be a judge of the Superior Court, succeeding the late Judge Frederick J. Macleod. Under the Constitution the judicial appointment will have to lie over for one week for confirmation by the Executive Council.

Gov. Curley said that he had not talked with Baker about this appointment since his return to Massachusetts last Saturday, but expressed the belief that the Pittsfield man would accept the appointment. Baker already has indicated to The Union representative that he would not be adverse to a Superior Court judgeship. When and if the appointment is confirmed, it is expected that Curley will nominate Morton H. Burdick of Springfield as Baker's successor to represent the Eighth Councellor District.

MASS. PREFERS OWN RESIDENT IN NEW HAVEN CASE

Appointment to Be Urged on U. S. Court When Road's Petition Comes Up Today

(Special to The Springfield Union)

BOSTON, Nov. 5—Appointment of a resident of Massachusetts as one of the trustees of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will be urged upon the United States District Court in New Haven when that body takes up tomorrow the petition of the road for reorganization under the provisions of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

The company recently availed itself of the legislation passed by Congress in an effort to rehabilitate its finances.

Announced by Dever

Announcement of the Massachusetts angle of the case was made today by Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever, following a conference with Gov. Curley at which the Chief Executive directed him to intervene in the case.

Of the total shares of 1,571,186 common stock of the road 440,434, or 20 per cent, are owned in Massachusetts and of the 490,367 preferred 101,688 shares or 21¾ per cent are the property of investors in this State. A large proportion are held by savings banks here.

Of the $4,235,985 taxes paid by the company on its railroad property $1,422,563, or 33½ per cent, are contributed in Massachusetts.

In addition to the desire of the Massachusetts authorities to protect their interests financially in the reorganization of the company through the appointment of a trustee who is a resident of this State, it is felt that such a person would have in mind the continuance here of the present service given by the road.

Opposition Expressed By Spaulding

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 5 (AP)—Opposition to use of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad's interests in the Boston & Maine Railroad to place control of the Boston & Maine in a trunk line or other outside interest was today expressed by former Gov. Rolland H. Spaulding of Rochester.

Spaulding is chairman of both the New Hampshire and New England governors' committees on railroads. He expressed his views on the railroad situation as he started a conference with Gov. H. Styles Bridges and other State officials on a plan for official action to protect this State's interests in the railroad situation.

"The New Haven," the former Governor said, "has gone into receivership. There will be a hearing shortly in the Federal Court of the Connecticut district in which the question of trusteeship will be discussed and presumably trustees will be appointed ultimately.

"Northern New England feels that it has a very proper interest in who is to be appointed. The New Haven owns 27 per cent of the Boston & Maine. Northern New England is unalterably opposed to the stock being used to put control of the Boston & Maine into any trunk line or into any other outside control."

State officials indicated they interpreted Spaulding's views as an official expression of the sentiment of the three Northern States of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

G. O. P. VICTORY IN WORCESTER IS RAP AT CURLEY

Cookson Is Elected Mayor; State Democratic Administration Main Campaign Issue

WORCESTER, Nov. 5 (AP)—Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was elected mayor of Worcester tonight over State Representative Edward J. Kelley on the basis of figures in 58 out of 66 precincts. The figures were Cookson 31,910 and Kelley 27,646.

The return of Worcester to the Republican column was interpreted by Republican spokesmen as a slap at Curleyism which became the chief note of the campaign.

Cookson supporters had maintained that Kelley was receiveing substantial backing from Gov. James M. Curley, Democrat, for whom Kelley is legislative floor leader. Cookson demanded that Worcester retain "home rule." While the accomplishments of the National New Deal were touched upon by some Democratic campaigners the issue was far overshadowed by State and local questions.

Republicans maintained that Gov. Curley and his friends were attempting to step into local fights as they were accused of doing in the Essex senatorial and 10 Middlesex representative elections.

Cookson also charged that the Curley friends were aiding Kelley, both use of automobiles and workers.

Worcester Democrat Trailing

Worcester, Nov. 5—(AP)—The new deal appeared to have suffered a setback in the municipal election here today, early returns favoring Walter J. Cookson, Republican, for mayor, over State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader in the House.

Thirty-two out of 66 precincts gave Cookson 17,029 and Kelly 13,373.

All these were in Republican wards, but Cookson's supporters claimed the returns indicated a gain for their candidate of about 130 votes per precinct over figures in the municipal election two years ago.

Kelley promised lower taxes. Cookson claimed Kelley was supported by Gov James J. Curley and that the real issue was "home rule" for the city.

GOV CURLEY ACTS ON NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

Orders Use of State Pier There Refused to Strike-Breakers

Boston, Nov. 5—(AP)—Gov Curley acted tonight on charges made by Daniel J. Donovan, a vice president of the International Longshormen's association, that the New Bedford state pier had become a headquarters for strike-breakers.

He instructed William F. Callahan, state commissioner of public works, not to allow strike-breakers use of the pier.

The governor, after a conference with Donovan, said the latter's chief complaint was that WPA-ERA workers were leaving the federal relief rolls to become strike-breakers. His instructions to Callahan, the governor believed, would settle the matter.

Union Longshoremen have been on strike in New Bedford more than three weeks, seeking higher wages and changes in working condition. Donovan made his charges after returning from New Bedford where he said he attempted to arrange for berthing a ship and discharging the cargo. He said he was told a man in charge of the state pier had prohibited use of union labor if the boat docked there.

RACING PROFITS TO STATE $1,450,000

Boston, Nov. 5—A net profit of $1,450,000 was made by the state as a result of legalized pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog races, Chairman Charles F. Connors of the State Racing Commission reported yesterday to Gov Curley. That figure almost doubles the highest estimates.

Chairman Connors said the state actually collected $1,614,979.89, but was required to spend $164,000 in supervising the 290 days of horse and dog racing. The commission's figures show the Massachusetts tracks' "handle" reached $34,579,420, of which $19,028,793 was bet on the horses and $15,458,072 on the dogs.

The total attendance at the dog race meets far exceed those at the running horse meet, the report states. A total of 1,252,671 watched the dogs race over a period of 200 days, while only 876,967 attended the horse meets, which totaled 73 days.

The state's gross receipts of $1,614,979.89 were made up as follows: State's commission, $1,210,280.01; state's breakage, $278,952.88; association license fees, $111,675; employes' license fees, $14,072.

There were 13 days of harness racing, at which $73,472 was bet by the 8698 who attended, with the state's share $4601.62. For the four days of horse racing at the Marshfield Fair the state received $1038.22 as its share of the total of $18,813 bet by the 6000 who attended.

Baker Elevated To Bench In Bay State

Republican Councilor, Named By Gov. Curley, Will Succeed Macleod; His Failure To Vote Gave Democrats Control Of Council

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Governor James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker, Republican, of Pittsfield, as justice of the Superior Court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the executive council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The Executive Council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell, of Fall River.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high State office by Governor Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River Finance Commission when the legislature ended its session last summer. Russell a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Reports were current that Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to fill the council vacancy.

STIFF CURLEY SETBACK SEEN IN CITY'S VOTE

Worcester Repudiation of Hub Interests Major Campaign Issue

TREND SIGNIFICANT

Turnover of Nearly 10,000 Votes From Election In 1933 Cited

By CLINTON P. ROWE
Telegram State House Reporter

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The election of Walter J. Cookson, Republican, as mayor of Worcester today was regarded in political circles here tonight as the most decisive and significant setback yet administered to Gov. James M. Curley in the series of three defeats that have been hurled at him in recent weeks.

In the Worcester election the issue was Curleyism and its repudiation —an issue sounded in rallies, over the radio and in newspaper advertising. It was pounded home persistently and unceasingly, practically overshadowing every other consideration.

The result was the election of Mr. Cookson by a majority of 2124, representing a turnover of 9718 votes from the city election of two years ago. And by way of making the demonstration all the more emphatic, the city re-elected a Republican alderman-at-large, beat the Democratic candidate for school committee at large, and regained an aldermanic seat in Ward 7.

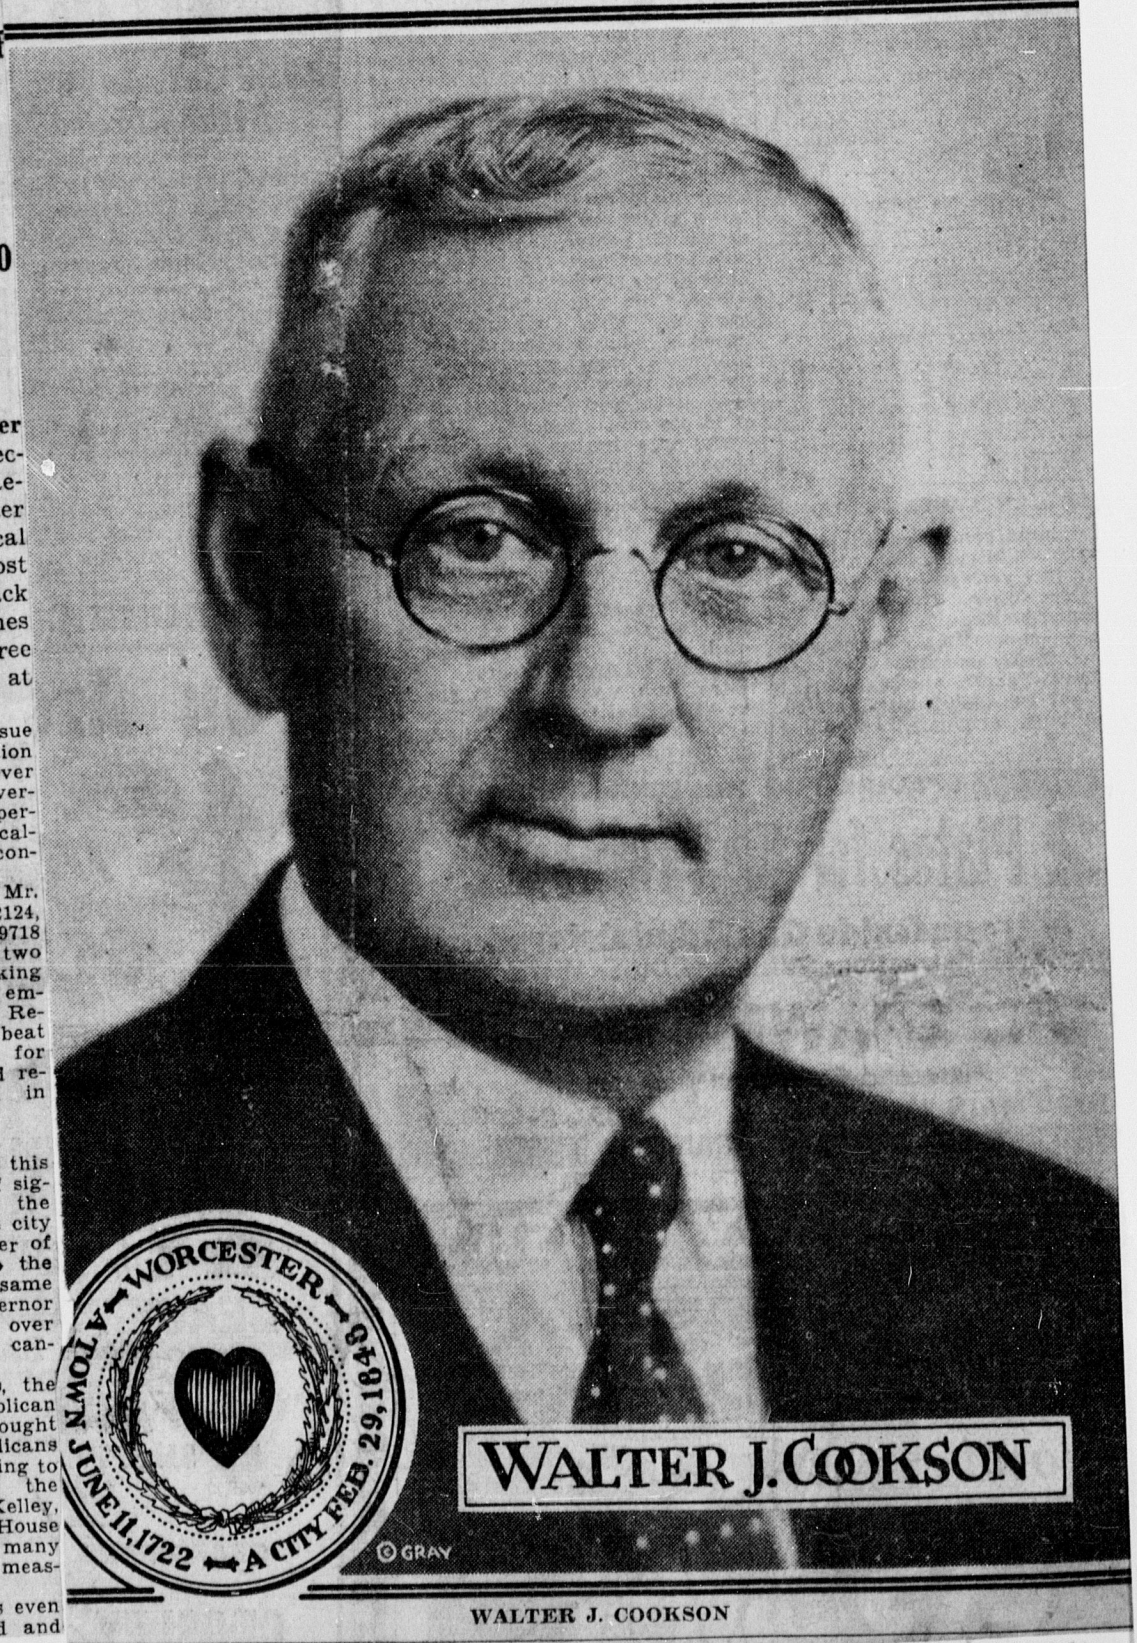

Significant Trend

Some observers will see in this Worcester turnover a trend of significance in connection with the national election in 1936. The city which today showed a turnover of 9718 votes as it returned to the Republican column was the same city that in 1934 gave Governor Curley a margin of 2239 votes over Gaspar G. Bacon, Republican candidate for Governor.

Democratic for four years, the city came back to the Republican column, after a bitterly fought campaign in which Republicans charged that Curley was seeking to control Worcester through the election of Rep. Edward J. Kelley, minority floor leader in the House and closely identified with many of the Governor's legislative measures.

The issue of Curleyism was even more emphatically presented and more emphatically passed upon by Worcester voters than in the special 2nd Essex District Senatorial election, hitherto regarded as a highlight of the Curley opposition, and the 10th Middlesex representative district election, both of which were Republican victories.

Elected Mayor of Worcester

WALTER J. COOKSON

Concluded

Democrats Dazed

The turnover of nearly 10,000 votes in the Worcester election was regarded here as seriously affecting the political future of the Governor because he was so firmly established as an issue. Republicans, looking to the state and national elections next year were jubilant. Democrats were dazed by the turn the election took and the Curley supporters late tonight were still pondering it.

While the Worcester result was more closely identified with Curley, it was nevertheless looked upon as testing, in a considerable measure, the New Deal strength—particularly in view of the special elections which had preceded it.

Stand Awaited

Since he was, in effect, put so severely to the test and with such decisive results, the stand Governor Curley may take tomorrow night at a reception to be given him by Democratic women is waited with interest. Some expect he will run for renomination or seek the U. S. Senatorial nomination.

CURLEY "GRATIFIED" BY ELECTION SWING

Governor Says He Is Not Surprised at Results as Roosevelt's Program Has Not Been Put Into Operation in Country

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Viewing results of elections in various sections of the state and nation, Gov. James M. Curley today declared the "outcome was not unexpected and, contrary to the declaration of Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying."

The Governor said that with the policies of President Roosevelt in operation and with prosperity in the nation in 1936 there was "little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

The Governor's statement follows:

"The outcome, both in the nation and State was not unexpected, and contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at the present time and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

Says Prosperity Here

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

The statement of the Governor—the original Roosevelt for President leader in Massachusetts—was seen by political observers as an indication that the Governor was not going to climb off the Roosevelt band wagon as had been predicted by other political prognosticators.

Seen New Deal Setback

In what political observers regarded as an upset for the New Deal and Governor Curley, the city of Worcester was swept back into the Republican column, while G. O. P. victories were recorded in Somerville and Lowell, two other surprises in mayoralty elections in 12 Bay State cities. Republicans continued to hold seats in several cities.

In Worcester, where the New Deal and Governor Curley were the issues, Walter J. Cookson (R), defeated Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives and spokesman for Governor Curley, by a majority of 2074.

Somerville returned to the Republican fold after six years when Mayor James E. Hagan, a Democrat, was defeated by ex-Alderman Leslie E. Knox. Hagan had the backing of U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, a former mayor and Roosevelt appointee.

Dewey G. Archambeault (R.), defeated City Treasurer Charles R. Flood (D), in Lowell and became the first G. O. P. mayor in five years. The G. O. P. also took three city council seats from the Democrats and elected two Republicans out of three candidates for the School Committee.

Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of Roosevelt, was defeated in Everett by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, a Republican.

Recound in Cambridge

Two hundred and sixty-seven votes separated John D. Lynch, former School Committeeman, over John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, in the Cambridge Democratic mayoralty contest. A recount was underway.

Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, of Fitchburg, son-in-law of United States Sen. Marcus A. Coolidge, received news of his re-election at Boston City Hospital where he is recovering from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident. He was reelected by an unprecedented majority over ex-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere.

In Springfield, Mayor Henry Martens, (R), easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden and two other candidates.

Pittsfield sent former Mayor Allen H. Bagg (R) back into office. He defeated Alfred C. Daniels.

In Medford's non-partisan election, Mayor John J. Irwin, (R), was reelected over former Mayor John J. Burke, (D).

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn was elected to his fourth successive term over ex-Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons of Marlboro was sent back to office over Paul F. Shaughnessy.

In Waltham, Dr. Frederick L. MacDonald was re-elected mayor, defeating Thomas J. Flannery.

Given Judgeship

J. ARTHUR BAKER

CURLEY APPOINTS BAKER TO BENCH

P. G. Bowker Glad to Get Renegades Out of G. O. P. Ranks

By Gazette State House Reporter

BOSTON, Nov. 6. — Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, Republican, was appointed a Superior Court Judge today by Gov. James M. Curley, thus fulfilling a prediction made weeks ago that Baker would eventually receive such an appointment.

The Governor sent the Baker nomination to the Governor's Council when it [redacted] is afternoon. He named Baker to succeed Judge Frederick J. Macleod, who died recently. Under council rules the appointment goes over one week on the question of confirmation.

Rep. Philip G. Bowker, Brookline Republican, issued the following statement concerning the Baker appointment:

"Governor Curley in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party. With the renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the Governor.

"In clearing our ranks of these undesirables His Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves. For those who take the 30 pieces of silver we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and shown their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. the seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The Governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

"I will accept the appointment, and I deeply appreciate what Governor Curley has done," Councillor Baker said this afternoon.

Some weeks ago Councilor Baker became the center of widespread discussion when he voted with Democrats to confirm the appointment of Councilor Edmond Cote of Fall River, nominal Republican but frequently Curley ally, to the Fall River Finance Commission.

With a vacancy thus created the Governor had the right, the Legislature having adjourned, to name a man to fill the Council vacancy. He named a Democrat who was confirmed on a four to three vote, with Baker refusing to vote.

The Council appointment converted the Council, an elected body, from a nominal Republican to a straight Democratic unit along party lines.

On his recent return to Boston from a vacation, the Governor said he would offer the judgeship to Councilor Baker, whom he termed an able man.

Lodge Declares People Weary Of Promises

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Rep. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, today issued the following statement:

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show a strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

HUB MAN IS STATE ROGERS FUND HEAD

Contributions Pour in as Campaign Advances

Governor Curley yesterday anannounced the appointment of P. A. O'Connell, Boston business man, to be chairman of the Massachusetts Will Rogers Memorial Committee.

Others on the state committee are:

John Shepard 3rd, Edward Mitten, Joseph Brennan, Clifton Carberry, Alexander Brin, Allan Forbes, Frank I. Dorr, Joseph A. Tomasello and Lieut. Gov. Joseph L. Hurley.

Contributions continued to come into the office of the Worcester Telegram and The Evening Gazette yesterday. The newspapers are the Worcester sponsors of the campaign. Donations will be accepted up to Thanksgiving eve.

The fund when collected will be used for a memorial to the memory of the beloved philosopher and comedian, the form of the memorial to be chosen by a committee consisting of Vice-President Garner, Herbert Hoover, Will H. Hays, Owen D. Young, Alfred E. Smith, and Jesse H. Jones.

Contributions to the fund [illegible] be left at the office of the Telegram and Gazette or may be mailed to the newspapers. Those who bring the contributions in personally may sign their names in the Will Rogers Memorial Fund ledger.

Majority for Cookson 2124
Majority for Inett 1354
Majority for Bjorkman 270

Walter J. Cookson, Republican candidate for mayor, was elected yesterday by 2124 votes, over Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic nominee.

The Republican sweep also carried into office Alderman-at-large C. Vernon Inett, candidate for re-election, and Mrs. Evelyn C. Bjorkman as School Committee-at-large.

In Ward 7 the same tide took the aldermanic seat away from the Democrats, and, city-wide, won for the G. O. P. a working majority in both branches of the City Council and the School Committee.

The Republican candidates' victories were considered a direct repudiation of the efforts of Governor Curley's forces to dominate the city, and added impetus to the Republican trend evident in other sections of the state and country.

Mr. Inett, who was opposed by Aldermanic President Harold D. Donohue as the Democratic nominee, won by 1354 votes.

Recount Expected

Mrs. Bjorkman, a newcomer as an officeseeker, unseated Cornelius S. Donoghue, Democratic incumbent, by 270 votes. Because of the closeness of the vote, a recount is expected.

In Ward 7, William A. Bennett, Republican candidate for alderman, won over William D. Fleming, Democrat, polling a majority of 296 votes to recapture the seat held the past two years by Eugene A. O'Rourke, the ward's first Democratic alderman.

7 to 5 Majority

His election and the re-election of Alderman-at-large Inett gave the Republicans a 7 to 4 majority in the Board of Aldermen. Two years ago the Democrats gained control through the election of Alderman O'Rourke and Alderman-at-large Elias Pofcher, but this was relinquished to the Republicans when Mr. Inett was elected alderman-at-large on the death of Mr. Pofcher.

The Republicans held their lines intact in the Common Council, retaining their majority of 18 to 12. In the School Committee, the election of Mrs. Bjorkman increased the party's majority from one to three.

For the first time in four years the Republicans captured complete control of the city government. Mr. Cookson will succeed Mayor Mahoney, defeated at the primaries for renomination by Representative Kelley.

Mr. Cookson gained in almost every precinct, and captured one in Ward 3, Democratic stronghold and home ward of the Democratic candidate. His victory was apparent shortly after the first returns. His heaviest gains were in the Republican precincts, although he forged ahead, in all but one or two of the Democratic precincts, over the vote cast two years ago for the Republican nominee. Mr. Cookson's largest and only sizeable loss was in Precinct 3 of Ward 3, Mr. Kelley's home precinct and center of the Italian-American vote.

The vote was the largest on record, for a municipal election, passing the 70,000 mark, and representing about 86 per cent of the 83,032 registered. At the city election two years ago, 62,613 voted.

A total of 70,309 was cast for the Mayoral contest plus a few blanks.

An indication of the strength of the Republican sweep was the election of William S. Henrikson, Republican, as School Committeeman in Ward 7. Mr. Henrikson has been abroad since before the primaries, when he was nominated without opposition to succeed Wiley H. Marble, Republican. His campaign was waged by friends and supporters without his personal assistance. He carried the ward by 435 votes over Francis X. Powers, professor at Holy Cross College.

"No Other Promise"

The Republican campaign was waged on no other promise than "a business administration and a larger return for the taxpayers' money." Its platform was, almost entirely, "retaining home rule" and an appeal to repulse the attempts of interests aligned with Governor Curley to obtain domination of the city's administration.

The Democratic candidates proposed a number of measures which already have been given the Republican stamp of approval by the City Council and promised steps "to bring new industries to Worcester." While the Democratic aspirants denied any tie-up with the Curley interests, the Republicans pointed to the mass of Boston-printed primary banners and Boston automobiles placed at Mr. Kelley's disposal as evidence substantiating their claims.

MESSINGER NAMED IN REWARD LIST

Council Receives Plans for Split of Millen-Faber Award

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—Saul Messinger of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Detectives Edmund O'Brien and John F. Fitzsimmons of New York City would come in for substantial shares of $22,000 in rewards for the arrest and conviction of Murton and Irving Millen and Abraham Faber, Needham Bank machine gun slayers, in two plans submitted to Gov. James M. Curley this afternoon by Col. Paul G. Kirk, commissioner of Public Safety.

Messinger, boyhood friend of the Millens, an important witness at their trial, would receive $2500 under the first plan and $3437.50 in the second.

In order to give councilors an opportunity to study the report, action was postponed until next week. There were 21 claimants.

The New York detectives, who captured the trio in a hotel in that city and Lieuts. Charles E. Eldridge and Charles H. Eason of the Boston Police Department would receive $1500 each. The New York officers were eliminated in the second plan.

Frank J. Levierge and Alfred W. Levierge of Boston, who identified the battery in the "murder car," would receive $5000; Henry Deloria, who helped identify the car, $2000; Philip M. King, Charles Parson and John Moloney, three Norwood boys who found sections of the car, $500 each.

In the second plan, the Levierges' would receive $6375 each, Deloria $2750 and the Norwood boys $687.50 each.

The conclusions of the Public Safety commissioner were: "With some misgivings, and yet impelled by an objective analysis of the facts, I recommend that he be awarded the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2500).

"Distribution if police officers are included.

Henry Deloria, $2000; Alfred W. Levierge, $5000; Frank J. Levierge, $5000; Philip M. King, $500; Charles Parsons, $500; John Moloney, $500; Lieut. Charles F. Eldridge, $1500; Lieut. Charles H. Eason, $1500; Det. Edmund O'Brien, $1500; Det. John F. Fitzsimmons, $1500; Saul Messinger, $2500; total, $22,000.

"Distribution if police officers are not included:

"Henry Deloria, $2750; Alfred W. Levierge, $6875; Frank J. Levierge, $6875; Philip M. King, $687.50; Charles Parsons, $687.50; John Moloney, $687.50; Saul Messinger, $3437.50; total $22,000.

"Referring again to the possibility that the recommendations herein may not be adopted, and considering the possibility also that your Excellency and the Honorable Executive Council may not reach an agreement as to the manner in which the reward should be distributed, may I invite your attention to the advisability, in such event, of requesting the attorney general of the Commonwealth to initiate appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for a judicial determination of the rights of the several claimants in and to the reward."

STATE HONORS TAKEN BY GOP

Knox Winner in Somerville, Archambault, Lowell; Cambridge Recount

MARTENS RE-ELECTED

Dr. Redden, Democrat, Is Beaten in Labor Fight At Springfield

BOSTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Republicans took the major honors in several municipal elections in Massachusetts today, defeating Democrats in two partisan contests and winning in several cities ostensibly non-partisan. Victory in a third partisan fight appeared certain for the Republicans.

The most surprising upset, from a local viewpoint, was in Somerville, where Leslie E. Knox, registered as a Republican, defeated Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial margin of 1400. The fight was non-partisan but Hagan had the active support of John J. Murphy, who was appointed United States marshal in Boston by President Roosevelt. Murphy had appealed for Hagan votes in support of the New Deal.

'Curleyism' Defeated

In Worcester, where the issue of "Curleyism" has been raised by Walter J. Cookson, the Republican candidate, Cookson defeated State Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader of the House.

Lowell voters swept Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, into office over Charles R. Flood, Democrat. Archambault, an attorney, won by about 2000. Flood is city treasurer.

In Springfield, the Republican candidate, Mayor Henry Martens, appeared certain of re-election over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

The fight in Cambridge between oJhn D. Lynch and John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, was so close a recount was started immediately. Lynch led in the first count by only 49 votes. Both are Democrats.

ter which he says he has been "leaving in the hands of party leaders."

One of the bits of news from Worcester particularly disquieting to the Democrats was the information that Democrats had apparently joined Republicans in voting repudiation of the Governor and his policies. Mr. Kelley had, in many precincts, fallen behind Mayor Mahoney's vote of two years ago—something from which little comfort could be gained.

While Boston interests, charged by Worcester Republicans with seeking control of their city, were still considering the setback of the Cookson vote, another jolt came when the unexpected victory of Leslie E. Knox over Mayor James E. Hagan of Somerville was assured.

It was a non-partisan election, with Hagan reputed to be willing to accept Curley support. Hagan is a Democrat and Knox a Republican. The Knox victory, indicative, Republican leaders said, of the sweeping trend shown in the Worcester election, was by an unofficial plurality of 1224 votes, where two years ago Hagan had won by 5071.

In Springfield

Still another significant election, followed with interest here and viewed with concern by Democrats because of the Worcester and Somerville victories, was that of Springfield where Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was re-elected by an indicated majority of 3000 to 5000 votes.

Some of those whispering oracles who had predicted that Kelley would beat Mayor Mahoney for the mayoralty nomination, which he did, had also said that Kelley "would take Cookson." It was apparently taken for granted that the forces which toppled Mahoney would do the same thing to Cookson.

They cheerfully accepted the issue presented by Republicans and the word went out that Worcester was Democratic and Kelley "was in." The aggressive, fighting attack of Republicans came as a surprise, and it was particularly a surprise when the Republicans put Representative Kelley more or less on the defensive and generally continued to keep him there.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY IS WON BY 9619 TURNOVER

VOTE RECOUNT WILL BE ASKED BY DONOGHUE

By JAMES H. GUILFOYLE,
Gazette Staff Reporter

Prof. Cornelius S. Donoghue, Democratic School Committee member-at-large, defeated for reelection by Mrs. Evelyn C. Bjorkman, Republican, by 271 votes in yesterday's municipal election, will ask for a recount. Although he was unable to see newspaper representatives today because he had just returned from the hospital, Professor Donoghue authorized the announcement of his intention to seek the retabulation. Petitions will be placed in circulation at once.

Mrs. Bjorkman's majority was the smallest of any of the candidates who won in the Republican sweep which elected Walter J. Cookson mayor and re-elected Alderman-at-Large C. Vernon Inett. Mr. Cookson, running ahead of his ticket, had a majority of 2074 votes. His vote represented a turnover of 9619 votes for the Republican candidate compared with the vote two years ago. Mr. Inett had a majority of 1454.

So complete was the Republican sweep that the party increased its control of the City Council and the School Committee. The Republican majority in the Common Council remains 18 to 12, but in the Board of Aldermen the Republicans gained a seat, giving them control 7 to 4. The gain was in Ward 7, where William A. Bennett, former president of the lower branch, lived up to his reputation as one of the strongest vote getters in the party and in the face of strong Democratic opposition came through a victor by 296 votes.

School Committee Gain

William D. Fleming, Democratic candidate, will not ask for a recount according to present intentions. He was one of the first to congratulate Mr. Bennett, who is an executive in the organization where Mr. Fleming is employed in a supervisory capacity.

The Republican majority in the School Committee, on the face of the returns, was increased from 6 to 5 to 7 to 4. All present Republican seats were retained, but the gain comes through Mrs. Bjorkman's victory for the at-large seat.

The total vote was the largest in the history of municipal elections in Worcester. The total was 71,927, compared with 62,614 two years ago. The increase of 9313 is less than 400 short of the overturn from Democrat to Republican. Mr. Cookson had a vote 9363 greater than Henry O. Tilton's two years ago. Rep. Edward J. Kelley ran 304 behind the vote given to Mayor John C. Mahoney, who was the victorious opponent of Mr. Tilton.

Revised tabulations reveal that the Socialists, who had a full slate of city-wide candidates, increased their total vote. William A. Ahern, nominee for mayor, got 929 votes, compared with 521 for the mayoralty candidate two years ago. There was a decrease in the number of blanks in the mayoralty vote of 154, although 634 voters did not vote for the head of a ticket.

Miss Kane Is Victor

For the first time in the history of the city a woman was elected a member of the City Council. Miss Anna E. Kane, Democrat, Ward 3, got the highest vote of the three Democrats elected there.

The most notable feature of the election from a ward standpoint is that Ward 7, regarded as the fighting ground for control of the City Council, went back solidly into the Republican column. Two years ago the Democrats won the aldermanic seat with Eugene A. O'Rourke, who was not a candidate for re-election. The Common Council and School Committee, however, remained in the Republican column two years ago, so that the aldermanic seat was needed to bring it back into the G. O. P. fold.

Hopes of Democrats in Ward 9 were dashed when they failed to gain the anticipated Common Council seat, for which they had waged an intensive campaign. Likewise the Republicans did not make the gain they anticipated in Ward 4, where they saw a possibility of winning a Common Council seat and a place on the School Committee.

Wards 1, 2, 6, 9 and 10, Republican strongholds, elected the full slate of their candidates. Democratic strongholds of Wards 3, 4 5 and 8 chose full slate of candidates of that political persuasion. There had been some doubt about Ward 6 remaining in the Republican column, but majorities for candidates of that party disclose there was no basis for the opinion.

Home Rule Was Issue

Analysis of the vote for mayor indicates that Worcester citizens were thoroughly aroused by indications that Boston influences would seek to dominate the local city government if the Democrats were successful. Because Representative Kelley has a close affiliation with Gov. James M. Curley the issue of Curleyism was definitely the dominant one in the campaign. It overshadowed other issues which Mr. Kelley presented. Mr. Cookson made his sole campaign issue good government and home rule.

Continued

more emphatically presented

Concluded

He asked the people to determine whether they wanted a business administration or a political administration.

There were a number of factors that worked to the advantage of Mr. Cookson. It has been many years since there was such unity in G. O. P. ranks and so much effective work done for a candidate. Mr. Cookson was favorably known as a public servant through his 26 years on the School Committee, half of which was chairman. The Swedish-American group, which is always a big factor in municipal elections, was almost solidly behind the Republican candidate for the first time in several years.

Another important factor in the victory was disaffection in the Democratic ranks due to the defeat of Mayor Mahoney in the primaries. The mayor endeavored to change the picture by going the limit in an endorsement of Mr. Kelley, but was not able to swing all of his followers.

Kelley Gained in Ward 3

This was particularly emphasized in Ward 3. Representative Kelley made a gain there over Mayor Mahoney's vote two years ago, but it was far from what Democratic leaders had expected. They had relied on Ward 3 to be a big factor in his vote. The "knifing" which he received in some of the precincts where the Italian-American voter predominates made evident the resentment of that racial group at failure of voters of the ward to give it recognition in the Common Council or on the School Committee, for which it had candidates in the primary.

The tremendous gain which Mr. Cookson made in Ward 5 over the vote for the Republican candidate two years ago disclosed an advantage accruing from his long residence in the ward and the high esteem his neghbors have for him. Where Mayor Mahoney carried the ward by 3553 votes two years ago Mr. Kelley's majority was slashed to 2870.

City Clerk Malcolm C. Midgley was being congratulated today on the smooth running of the election in the face of persistent reports that it was endangered by attempts at irregularities. Elaborate precautions were taken to guard against illegal voting or any irregular practices and there was not a serious difficulty during the day.

CURLEY'S CHOICE

Report Democrat Will Succeed Baker on Council

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP) — Gov. James M. Curley today nominated Executive Councillor J. Arthur Baker (Republican) of Pittsfield as justice of the Superior Court to succeed the late Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

Baker's name was submitted to the Executive Council at its meeting today and will be acted upon at the council meeting next Wednesday under council rules.

The Executive Council, controlled by Republicans in recent years, became Democratic several months ago when Baker did not cast the vote which would have blocked the Governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell of Fall River as a member of the council.

Baker is the second Republican to be named to a high state office by Curley, the other being Edmond Cote, of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Fall River Finance Commission when the Legislature ended its session last summer. Russell, a Democrat, was named to succeed Cote on the council.

Reports were current that Mortor Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker in the last council election, would be named to succeed Baker.

Results Gratifying Is Claim of Curley

Governor Says Republican Margins Are Neither Disturbing Nor Distressing

BOSTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Democratic and Republican political leaders clashed today in their interpretation of yesterday's results, in which many gains were registered by Republicans.

Gov. James M. Curley, a Democrat, said the results, from a Democratic standpoint, should be regarded as "most gratifying," that Republican margins were neither disturbing nor distressing, and that with increasing prosperity the people would not be stampeded into Republican ranks in 1936.

Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of former United States Senator Lodge and candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat held by his grandfather, said:

"The elections here and in New York are a clear sign that the people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

Curley explained his position further by saying, "The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt have not been put in operation at the present time and when their objective is rightly understood there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and margins are not so great as to be will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

STATE POLICE GUARDS PLACED OVER BALLOTS IN MAYORALTY ELECTION IN CAMBRIDGE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6 (INS)—State Police guards today were placed over ballots in the mayoralty election in Cambridge, pending a petition for a recount by John W. Lyons, defeated by 267 votes by John D. Lynch, in what political observers regarded an upset for the New Deal and Governor James M. Curley. Worcester was back in the Republican column, Walter J. Cookson, Republican having defeated Democratic floor leader, Edward J. Kelley by 2,124 votes. Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democrat, in Lowell. Mayor James A. Rocke, Republican, supporter of President Roosevelt in Everett was defeated by Alderman Frank E. Lewis, Republican. Ex-Auditor Leslie E. Knox, Republican, defeated Mayor James Hagan, Democrat in Somerville. In Springfield Mayor Henry Martens easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat. Four women, including Miss Edna Granitsas, 22, Radcliffe student, elected to Marlborough school committee, were victorious in minor contests.

Home Rule Triumphs

The Republican victory in Worcester yesterday is a tribute to the good sense of the voters. A study of recent city elections inclines us to the belief that Worcester is no longer a partisan city in local politics. It is not a Republican or a Democratic city. The balance of power is held by a sizable group of men and women who, in city affairs, have broken away from party ties. The development is to be regarded as a definite advance, making possible more intelligent decisions on municipal issues.

The Republicans won yesterday primarily because their platform appealed, as it inevitably must have appealed, to this independent element. It was a valid, simple, and straightforward platform—the continuance of home rule and good government in Worcester.

Ordinarily that also would have been the Democratic platform. For example, it would have been the platform of Mayor Mahoney, had he been renominated by the Democrats. But when the primary of that party chose Edward J. Kelley as the mayoral nominee, it threw the traditional platform into the discard and substituted in its stead a disturbing novelty—rule from Boston along the now all-too-familiar Curley-Boston lines. From the beginning these newspapers maintained that this city would not accept such an innovation, and the result yesterday has borne out our faith.

It was unthinkable that this city of ours, devoted throughout its history to the management of its own affairs without outside interference, should suddenly change character and submit meekly to the rule of an absentee dictator. We were convinced that, however potent the magic of James M. Curley's name—he carried Worcester in last year's state election—Worcester would never stand to have him dictating from Boston our city government.

And we said so immediately after the primaries when many of the Republican leaders in the city, awed into the jitters by the havoc which the Boston machine, operating here in Mr. Kelley's behalf, had wrought among the hapless followers of Mayor Mahoney, held up their hands in horror at the thought of challenging such seemingly devastating power. "Lay off that Boston stuff," "Go easy with Curleyism," were the terrified pleas.

Happily, however, more courageous counsels prevailed, and the Republicans came squarely to grips with the Curley issue and all that it implied. The outcome is one more gratifying bit of evidence that the might of the Curley machine is waning, that the people of Massachusetts are speedily acquiring a wholesome aversion for the kind of outrageous politics Governor Curley is perpetrating in the State House.

The election of Mr. Cookson, Mr. Inett and Mrs. Bjorkman, and of Republican majorities in both branches of the City Council assures to Worcester the continuance of home rule and good government. Now that the people have been aroused to the point of striking this signal blow in behalf of civic good health, it may not be too much to hope that they will direct their ardor to the revision of our antiquated city charter to the end that we may enjoy really efficient government as well as honest and well-intentioned government.

Worcester Will Govern Itself

The Gazette offers congratulations to the Republican campaign managers — it appears there were several of them—on the vigor and effectiveness of their efforts. Yesterday's Republican victory was an impressive achievement. The Mayoralty, both branches of the City Council, and the School Committee will be in Republican hands for the next two years. The Republicans saw their opportunity and made excellent use of it.

Yet yesterday's result was not so much a Republican victory as a Democratic defeat. The Democratic primary invited disaster when it repudiated Mayor Mahoney and took Representative Kelley as the nominee for Mayor. Thus the Democrats not only threw away their one substantial ground for appealing successfully to the electorate but they also injected into the contest an issue which was bound to challenge the civic pride of this community—the issue of outside domination as against home rule. Today they can count up the consequences of their folly. From a party quite notably on the make in Worcester, with every prospect of increasing their strength, they have been reduced practically to a casualty list. And they did it themselves. That is the point for them to ponder.

Yesterday's outcome can be interpreted in no other way than an emphatic setback for Curleyism. That was the one conspicuous issue throughout the campaign. Mr. Kelley entered the battle, back in the Democratic primary, as the proud lieutenant of the Governor, and in that role and with the very material aid of the Boston organization vanquished Mr. Mahoney. It was an empty triumph.

No self-respecting community could view such a threat of outside domination without resentment, and resentment was duly registered in Worcester. Mr. Kelley himself and his board of strategy early sensed the unfavorable reaction, but, try as they might to explain away the connection with the Curley-Boston machine, they could not shake themselves loose. Yesterday's figures tell the story eloquently. The size of the vote, the largest on record in a city election, indicates how deeply Worcester was stirred.

All this, to be sure, is water over the dam. But it is worth remembering for the lesson it teaches. Worcester will not stand to be made a satrapy of a political empire ruled from without. Accustomed from the start to governing itself, it still insists upon the right to govern itself. We believe—and certainly we hope—that it will always insist upon governing itself.

Mr. Cookson, when he is inaugurated Mayor next January, will have available every essential to make his administration a success. His party will control the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council. He will have the goodwill of his fellow-citizens. When he assumes the Mayor's chair, it will be up to Mr. Cookson, and to Mr. Cookson alone, to make or to break.

Our best wishes go to Mr. Cookson, Mr. Inett, Mrs. Bjorkman and all the others who were successful in this hard fought campaign and who, beginning with the inauguration in January, become a part of the Worcester city government.

Republicans Are Coming Back

In the thirteen cities of Massachusetts holding municipal elections yesterday, the Republicans registered an emphatic victory in a majority of the contests. With the exception of three or four recognized Democratic strongholds, Republicans were chosen wherever the party lines were clearly drawn. The meaning of these results cannot possibly be mistaken.

Where the voters had a fair chance to meet the issue of Curleyism, they expressed their opinion in most vigorous fashion. This assertion of political strength cannot be lost upon those Republican office holders who have been listening too complacently to the appeals of the Governor. The Republican party hereabouts is regaining its lost vigor and aggressiveness.

Elsewhere in the East the same change is indicated. In New York State the New Deal was given a straight political test in the election of 150 members of the Assembly. Republicans put the issue into the campaign from the start, and voters were not allowed to lose sight of it. The result was to change a Democratic majority of four into a Republican majority of fourteen.

That was a return toward the normal political condition in the lower branch of the Legislature, though the Republican majority is not yet what it has been in former years. A generous sprinkling of New York cities also turned to the Republicans in their mayorality elections.

New Jersey showed an emphatic Republican recovery in its election of members to the state legislature. In Pennsylvania interest centered on the Philadelphia campaign which had been bitterly contested. The city remained Republican, as it has been for half a century, but the victory of S. Davis Wilson, as a Republican mayor, was recognized as halting the New Deal advance, which had given the state a Democratic governor and a Democratic United States Senator. Ohio showed the same drift in the election of Republican mayors in Cleveland and in several other important cities.

The result throughout the East is unmistakable. There was nothing spectacular about the Republican gains. But the tide has turned. The political outlook has altered. Just as the economic condition of the country shows definite improvement, so the prospects of the Republican party are clearly looking up. All that is needed now is persistent work, and plenty of it. The Republican party, like the nation, is on the way to recovery.

Sweet Essence Of Lilac!

Motorists from various points who have occasion to use the fine four lane express highway between Providence and Boston, the Greater Boston end of which has just been opened to traffic, have found that they can travel with pleasure, speed and safety over such highways. At the same time, they recognize as both distasteful and possibly unhealthy the obnoxious fumes which they are obliged to inhale at times as they get behind some oil-burning pleasure car or a heavily laboring truck which coughs, spits and backfires and produces clouds of stinking fumes. But all of these smells are to be eliminated—at least in the glorious spring season of the year—if Governor James M. Curley of the neighboring State of Massachusetts has his way.

Governor Curley, again on the job, after another of his frequent jaunts in and about, as well as outside the borders of his State and Nation, frequently has some ambitious plans, some of which are carried out with success. His latest proposal is an avenue of lilacs between Boston and the Rhode Island State line on this express highway. He would, under a ten million roadside beautification project throughout his State, plant so many lilacs along that much traveled highway that billboards and hot dog stands and the like would be hidden from view and nothing but the sweet essence of lilac would permeate the air in the spring of the year.

This surely is an ambitious plan. Lilacs are good to look at and sweet to smell, but the life of the average lilac blossom is comparatively brief, which means that motorists, after inhaling the perfume of lilacs for a few weeks would be obliged to again breathe in odors of gasoline, oil and carbon monoxide for the remainder of the year.

One is inclined to believe that a better plan—one more lasting—would be banks of creeping roses such as are to be found in many stretches in Connecticut, especially along the highway between Manchester and Hartford, which attract considerable attention and cause much favorable comment each summer.

Highway beautification is desirable from a great many viewpoints. It is a matter which is being given considerable attention in New England States in recent years and is one which is being furthered with success along Rhode Island highways.

Air conditioning of highways, such as Governor Curley proposes for the Boston-Providence post road, by the use of lilacs is a splendid one, but not sufficiently lasting. Until such time as beautification plans progress further it may be well to leave the air conditioning plans in abeyance, but we have no doubt the time will come when motorists will demand that they be permitted to travel over all highways without being nauseated by the fumes given forth by cars ahead of them or by passing vehicles. Possibly Governor Curley's plan is a good one for a starter, but we must look to the future and see to it that when the highways are beautified they are, at some later date, air conditioned 24 hours a day 52 weeks in the year, not alone in the springtime.

PLACE STATE GUARD OVER CAMBRIDGE BALLOTS

BOSTON, Nov. 6, (INS)—A state police guard today was placed over ballots in the mayoralty election in Cambridge pending petition for a recount by John W. Lyons defeated by 267 votes by John D. Lynch. In what political observers regarded an upset for the new deal and Governor James M. Curley, Worcester was back in the Republican column, Walter J. Cookson, R., having defeated Democratic floor leader Edward J. Kelley by 2124 votes. Dewey G. Archambault R., defeated Charles R. Flood, D., in Lowell. Mayor James A. Roche, Republican supporter of President Roosevelt in Everett was defeated by Alderman Frank E. Lewis R., Ex Alderman Leslie E. Knox R., defeated Mayor James E. Hagan D., in Somerville. In Springfield Mayor Henry Martens R. easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden D., four women including Miss Edna Granitsas, 2, Radcliffe student, elected to Marlboro School Committee, were victorious in minor contests. Unseating of three city councillors and re election of two school committee members featured Boston voting.

"My 'Round-World Honeymoon"

Air Trip Over Malibu Beach Fire Is Exciting Feature

EXCLUSIVE

(This is the third installment of the Journal of Mary Curley Donnelly's 35,000-mile wedding trip. The fourth installment will be published in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

By ANN MARSTERS

Up the mountain side, through wide gateways that lead to the William Randolph Hearst ranch, in San Simeon, Calif., go Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly and Governor James M. Curley.

Mary Donnelly would like to dwell on this part of her wedding trip around the world, for all the ancient castles of the land did not impress her nearly as much as did the castle of Mr. Hearst.

"The house itself," she said, "is about 15 minutes from the airport. You drive up through three different gateways, and on either side of each is an enclosure filled with all sorts of wild animals.

Blooded Cattle

"Not exactly an enclosure, because the animals aren't closed in and there are no bars between you and the animals. It appears as though they are roaming freely around—and there are signs which read, 'Unsafe for Pedestrians.'

"But unfortunately, there IS protection in the form of a gulley which the animals have discovered is too wide for them to jump over.

"The first group of animals is made up of blooded cattle and deer and sheep. In the next section are buffalo, giraffe, zebra and gnus.

"A profusion of flowers is all around, and as you near the house, the gardens become more luxuriously cultivated.

"And just in back of the house, there are more animals—panthers and leopards, I think—but these are enclosed with bars.

"Mr. Hearst's castle is about in the center of the 30 square miles which the ranch covers, and the guest houses surround it.

"Soon after you arrive, you realize that here is every facility for entertaining guests; every sort of diversion you could think of. Tennis, golf, swimming, motoring, flying.

"The swimming pool, for one thing, is a marvel of beauty. It's a reproduction of an ancient Roman pool, and there's an intricate arrangement of lights that colors the water in rainbow shades.

Vast Museum

"As for the works of art—it would take weeks to see and appreciate them all. To wander around and look at them is like going through a compilation of all the museums of the world.

"I believe Mr. Hearst has the most beautiful collection of pictures outside of the Metropolitan museum.

"And you could spend days just going through rooms and admiring them. Each one is either an original or a reproduction of some famous room out of history.

"From the steps of the castle, you are able to look down on Mr. Hearst's private landing field where he keeps his huge plane, ready to take off at a moment's notice.

"But the most impressive thought about the ranch as a whole is that here is an empire really being made use of. Nothing is stagnant here. Mr. Hearst is so alive with the sense of going on with things. He has built up an empire—and he keeps on building."

There were only three days in which to crowd the wonders of the Hearst ranch—then Governor Curley and the Donnellys flew back to Los Angeles.

"We flew over the fire that was raging at Malibu Beach. We looked down and saw ten miles of flame and smoke, and we tried to see the men who were fighting it—but perhaps we were too high up.

Film Luncheon

"When we got to Los Angeles, Louis B. Mayer gave a luncheon for the governor at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. There were one hundred and fifty people there, most of them movie celebrities.

"When we got to Los Angeles, Louis B. Mayer gave a luncheon for the governor at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. There were one hundred and fifty people there, most of them movie celebrities.

Concluded

"We had seen 'The Return of Peter Grimm' at Mr. Mr. Hearst's theater, and it was fun to meet all the principals, headed by Lionel Barrymore, at the luncheon.

"My visit in Hollywood completely changed my idea of the movie world. We watched a picture being made, and I discovered that there is no glamour in the actual process of picture making—it's all in the reproduction.

Charming People

"It's tedious, tiring work. They must pose over and over again, jumping from one scene to another and back again. There's not even the stimulus of a continuous thread of action.

"So the actors and actresses of Hollywood are very hard-working people. They don't have time to be glamorous—but they must always appear so.

"Anyway, they are charming people, and we met quite a lot including Dolores Costello, Constance Collier, Wallace Beery, Sophie Tucker and the Duncan Sisters.

"We had known the Duncan Sisters before. About ten years ago, when they were in Boston in 'Topsy and Eva' they had entertained us at the governor's house in Jamaicaway.

"We called at the Warner Bros. studio, but very few people were there because it happened to be the day of a big football game."

Now, from Los Angeles, the Donnellys and Governor Curley boarded the train for Chicago.

"We took the Union Pacific route," said Mary, "because father was very anxious for me to see the Royal Gorge in Colorado."

Brocaded Gown Among Shanghai Souvenirs

Although it was in Shanghai that she was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis, Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly has many pleasant memories of the weeks she spent in China during her 35,000 mile wedding trip. Among her souvenirs of the Orient is this becoming evening gown in the Chinese style. It is of apricot brocade.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Annice Brink

Twenty-five men and one girl stood in the midst of a curious crowd on the Public Library steps one nippy twilight.

ANNICE BRINK

Men and girl each wore a white lace bonnet and clutched a bunch of carrots and one banana.

Hovering around them was a bossy chap. And in his fist was a stout spanking paddle.

Could it be that the one girl, a gentle, brown-eyed little thing, was going to "know" the paddle?

It appeared that she—Pauline Merrill of Chelmsford—was the only girl in the freshman class at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. She was being initiated into the Phi Sigma Medical Society.

This was only the beginning, so the gent with the paddle said. The solemn ritual was to come off later that night. It included a blindfold journey from attic to basement in the college building, with each candidate receiving at each landing a generous face makeup of mercurochrome and gentian violet.

Oh—about the paddle? Yes, Pauline had it coming to her.

Try Calling Up the Blonde At the Corner Table

"Moonglow," in your choice of three separate recordings, just about indicates the pace of the newly re-opened Nippon Room at the Vendome.

Each table is equipped with its own telephone, so you may order cocktails, food, or your favorites among 426 records. These range from Basin Street Blues to Reminiscences of Chopin. Good dance numbers are in the majority; fast as they're issued, Prima to Noble, they're here.

Inter-table communication—quite continental—is also possible.

Miss Margaret Wright of Brookline, a debutante, made her dramatic entrance on the opening night in a wine gown with a silver monk's cord belt, over which she threw a hooded, yards-wide cape of sapphire blue velvet.

Mary Curley Donnelly loves dull, smoky black for evening, and would rather have fringe trimming an evening gown than sable.

"Is that Bette Davis?" is the query which besieges George, headwaiter at the Statler, whenever Mrs. Wallace McIlvaine Scudder, the former Betty Cram, lunches there with her father.

Not only is there remarkable resemblance, but, oddly enough, Betty always chooses the table which was Bette's favorite when she visited Boston last year.

A Will Rogers bust, of antique-bronze composition four inches high, is the sentimental purchase of a great many people (R. H. White's jewelry department). As should be, Will is caught with that unforgettable wry grin.

Go peasant in the modern manner, which suits the slim lines of today's girl. The Emily Shop, Temple place, points the way with a two-piece chenille knit that looks hand-made—a lacy, puff striped blouse over a straight skirt. Gold and brown; navy and red; turquoise and black.

Society Girls Earn Good Pay Modelling

Society mannequins have signified their willingness to earn a good day's pay by modeling for other than charitable purposes. Several have been photographed and "typed" by Photo-Media, who do commercial short subjects, photograph or sound movie.

Caroline Oveson is considered a find—a combination Earhart and Hepburn, with dramatic ability of her own.

Frederica Sargent, Brookline deb, has an elfin-imp aura that registers happily on a negative. Betty Wightman Palmer's smile photographs well. Janice Miner has a shining lack of camera-consciousness.

Others tested are Lewis Watson, Brookline; Joan Jacoby, Beacon Hill; Louise English, Brookline; Polly Long, Marlboro street, debutantes; and post-debs Agnes Osborne, Marlboro street; Margaret Hopewell, Wellesley; Camilla Alsop, Milton; Nancy Holdsworth, Brookline; Dorothy Knowles, Newton; Jane Dinsmore, Chestnut Hill; Eugenie Grew, Marlboro street, and Leslie Bremer, Milton.

G. O. P. VOTE GAINS
DEMOCRATS STUN
CHARGE GANG PLOT AT POLLS HERE

Election News and Tables, Pages 2, 5, 6 and 7

Election Highlights

Roosevelt "Raw Deal" lines smashed throughout nation, particularly in Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania—with Democratic leaders stunned.

Charge made that gangsters contributed to Boston's shifts. Three councillors unseated. Recounts asked in the fight for school committee and in the council balloting.

State police guarding ballots in Cambridge election pending a recount demand by President John W. Lyons ot city council, barely defeated for mayor by Banker-Druggist John D. Lynch.

Governor Curley comments that yesterday's national results were not unexpected and should be regarded as "most gratifying" because of small majorities in Republican victories.

Guard Ballots in Cambridge

Gangsters stole the re-election of a city councillor in South Boston, it was charged today.

Two recounts were demanded, one in the Boston school committee fight and the other in city council balloting.

At the same time, a mayoralty recount loomed in Cambridge, where state police are guarding the ballot boxes, much to the ire of Cambridge police.

In Somerville, the "Raw Deal" had been slapped down and high taxes hit with ballots by the electorate.

These were aftermaths today of some of the most bitter municipal elections ever recorded in Massachusetts.

The gangster control of Ward 6 balloting in South Boston was charged by City Councillor George P. Donovan, who missed re-election by 30 votes.

Donovan also alleged that police officers assigned to polling places in his ward refused to arrest gangsters voting under other names.

One policeman, according to the charge, replied when an arrest was demanded:

"What's the use of arresting them. They'll be released in 10 minutes."

Donovan claimed that while official figures showed that he lost re-election by 30 votes, tabulation by his own workers had him winning by 47.

Meanwhile, in Cambridge, Police Chief Timothy F. Leary characterized the sending of state police into his city as a "slap in the face" to the Cambridge police department.

"I shall ignore the state in this matter and keep my own men present," said Chief Leahy.

LYNCH MARGIN 267

"I was much disturbed when the two state troopers arrived. I had previously conferred with both candidates and volunteered to have them select a guard from the police force.

"Pending their decision, I personally, in company with two officers, stood by the ballots."

The state police guard placed over the Cambridge ballots resulted from the closest mayoralty fight in the city's history.

John D. Lynch, North Cambridge banker and druggist, scored a victory over his surprisingly strong opponent, President John W. Lyons, of the city council—but the margin was only 267 votes.

In Somerville, Mayor James J. Hagan went down in defeat at the hands of former Alderman Leslie E. Knox, whose campaign was directed against the "Raw Deal" and against Somerville's high tax rate with its $6.80 boost.

BALLOT GUARD ASKED

If many election officials in Cambridge are not suffering from fluttering hearts today it is no fault of the balloting yesterday.

Back and forth the figures wavered, until finally a near riot came when unofficial telephone figures from precinct clerks gave Lynch a lead of but 49 votes shortly after the polls were closed.

Both candidates rushed to the election commissioner's office in Central square, where a crowd of more than 2000 persons had gathered.

When the official results—18,143 votes for Lynch as against 17,876 for Lyons—the defeated candidate telephoned Governor Curley and obtained the state police guard over the ballots, declaring that he will seek a recount.

Having led his rival in the primary by 3200 votes, and having the support of Mayor Richard M. Russell and City Treasurer William J. Shea, experts figured Lynch to win the election easily.

"I will ask for a recount," said Lyons. "I will not be satisfied that I have been defeated until every ballot is counted again."

Said Lynch:

"I will give the city of Cambridge the best administration of which I am capable. I shall stand for decency and honesty in government."

In the battle for school committee places, James J. Cassidy and Ralph W. Robart were re-elected, with William F. Calgay the new member.

Final tabulations in other Massachusetts cities showed startling upsets with Republicans replacing Democrats in Lowell and Worcester.

Republicans were retained or replaced members of that party in Medford, Everett, Waltham, Springfield and Pittsfield.

The list of cities holding elections yesterday, typical as a crosssection of state opinion, were practically unanimous in reversing Democrats when the "raw deal" was made an issue.

Medford's mayor, John J. Irwin, Republican, scored nearly a two to one victory over his Democratic opponent, former Mayor John H. Burke.

CURLEY SENDS DOZEN NAMES TO COUNCIL

Governor Curley is expected to send approximately a dozen appointments to the Council today at its regular weekly meeting for approval.

Chief among these will be the naming of J. Arthur Baker, Republican councillor of Pittsfield, to fill the vacancy on the superior court bench caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod.

While the governor has not talked with the councillor he has been told that Baker will accept the appointment. This appointment, however, can not be confirmed, under the constitution, for one week.

The governor intends to name Attorney Morton H. Burdisk, Democrat, of Easthampton, to the Council in Baker's place as soon as the Pittsfield man is confirmed.

FORBES OUT

Of outstanding interest also is the governor's choice for clerk of the Cambridge district court. Clerk William A. Forbes of Arlington will not be reappointed. He has been a holdover in the position since October 8.

A bitter row among Cambridge Democratic factions is responsible for the delay in this appointment. Attorney General Paul A. Dever is behind the candidacy of Senator Charles T. Cavanaugh of Cambridge. Daniel O'Brien, prominent Cambridge leader, is backing Reginald Murphy. Murphy has the endorsement of the Jefferson Club and some other organizations.

John F. Carr was being mentioned as a compromise candidate and the name of Morris Frankel was also heard.

CAVANAUGH HOPEFUL

Before leaving for the West, it was understood that the governor inclined towards Murphy. Dever's friends were saying today that most of the opposition to Senator Cavanaugh had been cleared up and that Cavanaugh's appointment now seems assured.

Others whose commissions expired during the absence of the governor are: William A. Bryan, Worcester, board of registration of nurses; Roscoe Walsworth, Revere, trustee, Boston Metropolitan district; William D. Desmond, Stoneham, state supervisor of marine fisheries; Harlan W. Angier, Hardwick, medical examiner, 10th Worcester district; Clyde H. Merrill, Marlborough, associate medical examiner, 9th Worcester district; and Patrick A. O'Connell, Brookline, and William H. Claflin, Jr., Belmont, managers, Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

CURLEY SEES NEW HOPE FOR 1936 RACE

The outcome of yesterday's elections throughout the nation was not unexpected and should be regarded as "most gratifying," it was declared today by Governor Curley.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt, and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly, have not been put in operation at the present time, and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago, the Democratic party was unquestionably at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, majorities are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

BUSHNELL URGES FIGHT

"That prosperity is here now and will increase in 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his policies.

"With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican Party, which has been responsible for the worst years of misery and deprivation in the history of the nation."

Robert T. Bushnell, president of the Massachusetts Republican Club, took a view decidedly opposite that of the Governor. Bushnell said:

"The elections yesterday show that hard fighting can win, but we must remember that wrist-slapping and pink teas cannot.

"DEMAND HONESTY"

"Every Massachusetts victory yesterday was due directly to our fighting candidates, backed by a devoted group of plain, ordinary people, so aroused that they made up their minds they would carry the fight to the last trench, and they did so. They can make it statewide next year."

Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who will be Republican candidate for United States senator next year, declared:

"The elections here are a clear sign that people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of smug inaction. They show a strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain."

BAKER NAMED JUDGE

Curley Appointee Republican

Governor Curley today appointed J. Arthur Baker, Republican councillor of Pittsfield, as judge of the superior court to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Judge Frederick J. Macleod.

Upon Baker's confirmation, it is almost a foregone conclusion that the governor will nominate Morton H. Burdick for the council vacancy.

Burdick, Easthampton Democrat, would give the Democrats a 6—3 majority in the council.

Under the council rules the appointment goes over one week for confirmation.

ENDS FACTIONAL ROW

Ending a bitter factional row in Cambridge, the Governor also appointed Senator Charles T. Cavanagh of that city to be clerk of the East Cambridge district court in place of Clerk William A. Forbes, who has been a holdover in office since October 8.

Cavanagh was immediately confirmed and given the oath by Governor Curley.

The judgeship pays $12,000 a year and the court clerkship $4500.

Other appointments submitted to the Council by the Governor were Thomas F. Corriden, Northampton, medical examiner of the first Hampshire district, in place of the late Dr. Edward Brown; Roscoe Walsworth, Revere, as trustee, Boston Metropolitan District (reappointment).

Patrick A. O'Connell and William H. Claflin, Jr., both of Brookline, as managers of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary (reappointments).

The Governor's choice of Baker for the superior bench was exclusively announced by the Boston Evening American last week.

Senator Cavanagh had the backing of Attorney-General Paul A. Dever. The Jefferson Club and Daniel O'Brien, Cambridge Democratic leader, were behind the candidacy of Reginald Murphy.

Other factions had been pressing for a recognition of John F. Carr.

Archambault Wins Lowell Mayoralty

Lawell, Nov. 6—This city was recovering its composure today after the greatest political upheaval in its history.

Dewey G. Archambault, a Franco-American Republican, was swept into office by an overwhelming plurality over his Democratic opponent, Charles R. Flood. Archambault polled 21,144 votes to 17,385 for Flood.

Despite the fact that the city gave Governor Curley 11,000 last last in the gubernatorial fight over Gaspar G. Bason, a right-about-face was experienced in the mayoralty contest.

Flood was favored to win and had the support of the present mayor, James J. Bruin, but a wide split occurred in the Democratic ranks.

Ordinarily, the city is Democratic by at least 6000 votes.

A squad of 20 private detectives were rushed into the city by the Republicans to guard the polling places.

Mayor Bruin commanded Sergeant Samuel J. Bigelow to oust a detective in Ward 17, but the sergeant refused, and Mayor Bruin "fired" him.

Deputy Superintendent Michael H. Winn said that he had no authority to make out suspension papers eagainst Bigelow.

FROM BOSTON TO CLEVELAND

Give G. O. P. Nation-Wide Hopes for '36

By JOHN BARRY

A Republican army which had been evacuating strongholds and outposts before a Democratic push since 1929 turned on the enemy at the polls in yesterday's election to recapture the lost positions in a manner so substantial and decisive as to give the G. O. P. nationwide hopes of victory in 1936.

From Boston to the mid-Western city of Cleveland, Republicans, who were thought to be routed, waylaid the Democratic army of occupation in Massachusetts, and New York, and strengthened holds on New Jersey and Ohio. Philadelphia, all that was left to the Republican party in Pennsylvania outside of a State Senate majority, turned back invading Democrats in a pronounced setback to the Roosevelt-Guffey-Earle machine.

Somerville Retaken

Along party lines the results in a nutshell were as follows:

In Greater Boston: Somerville, a key city, for 57 years Republican but lost six years ago, in a distinct upset ousted Democratic Mayor James A. Hagan seeking a second term and elected Republican Leslie E. Knox as Mayor.

In Medford, Mayor John J. Irwin, Republican, was reelected Mayor over former Mayor and Chief Deputy U. S. Marshal John H. Burke, a Roosevelt appointee, by the largest plurality ever given a Mayor in the city on the Mystic.

Curley's Leader Beaten

In Worcester, heart of the Commonwealth, believed to be safely, although by a small margin, Democratic, tipped over Representative Edward J. Kelley, the floor leader for Gov Curley in the House of Representatives, and elected the Republican, Walter J. Cookson.

The Republicans' highest hopes are based on the Worcester contest where Gov Curley was an issue and in the defeat of Curley's legislative spokesman and one-man steering committee, the G. O. P. bases predictions today for the defeat of the Democratic Governor at the polls in '36.

Control of N Y Assembly

In Cleveland, Boston-born Harold H. Burton, an independent Republican, ran up an exceptionally high total to defeat the Democratic hopeful, former Mayor Ray T. Miller.

In New York state, the Republicans recaptured control of the Assembly, where Democrats by a margin of three votes had been holding the reins under Gov Lehman—this in the home state of President Roosevelt and National Democratic Committee Chairman James A. Farley, who came home to vote and saw their own districts go Republican.

New York Republicans had a working majority of six today in the assembly where yesterday they were in the minority by three. President Roosevelt had the satisfaction, however, of a Democratic victory in his Hyde Park where a Democratic supervisor was elected for the first time in 35 years.

New Jersey Republicans, challenging the New Deal openly, strengthened the Republican control of Senate and Assembly.

National Issues

National issues figured in many of the contests where issues purely local had been the accepted and expected subject of debate. Out of the day's upsets, some not as surprising as others, comes conflicting interpretations from the spokesmen of the major parties.

For Republican boards of strategy one hears Col Theodore Roosevelt, "You can't buy America. Mr Farley said New York state was to be the test of the popularity of the President and the so-called New Deal. It was the test. The attempt by Mr Farley to buy the elecitons with jobs and favors was met by the people with an emphatic 'no.' You can't buy America."

For the Democratic boards of strategy, one hears Postmaster General James A. Farley, "The Democrats win the New York Assembly once in 20 years. The state has been gerrymandered to insure that only on the occasions of landslide elections can the Democrats gain a majority in that branch of the Legislature. Even in the election of 1930 when Roosevelt won the Governorship by 725,000 we did not gain control of the Assembly.

"In the Roosevelt Presidential landslide of 1932 the Democrats fell short of an Assembly majority. Today's election gave our party one of the largest representations it ever has had, approximately the same as came with Roosevelt in 1932."

Farley contends that New York accepted the New Deal by 500,000 and points to Republicans gaining seats by squeezing in on slight majorities in many instances.

where the ballots are not counted until today and the result is now unknown, that the recession from Roosevelt was practically as analyzed and predicted in the analytical nation-wide survey, "America Speaks," which appears weekly on Sundays in the Boston Globe. For the political analyst the proportions of the recession from Roosevelt is the only gage of the popular mind and opinion on which to base 1936 predictions.

"America Speaks" has recorded that recession over a period of months, but so close has been the balloting that this analysis is on record as predicting that today Roosevelt would be reelected, although not by the landslide of 1932.

To the Republican party, yesterday's elections have given a new birth to the hopes which sprang earlier from the Rhode Island repudiation of the Democrats, and more recently in the outcome of the bye-election in Essex County, where Republicans swept a Senator into office over a strongly-backed Curley Democrat.

The city of Lowell which has been Democratic for five years went Republican yesterday, electing Dewey G. Archambault Mayor over the Democratic city treasurer, Charles R. Flood, of Democratic Mayor Edward J. Bruin's administration. It was an upset and not expected.

For Democratic solace, Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, who is on the danger list at City Hospital after an auto accident, was reelected by an overwhelming majority over his opponent, Dr Joseph N. Carriere.

In Lynn the Democratic incumbent, J. Fred Manning, by a 2 to 1 majority, was given a fourth term, defeating his Reublican opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

The surface defeats of Democrats was not disheartening to Tammy Hall in New York which yesterday saw the machine start rolling up the hill again and envisioned a return of the days before Seabury. Rolling up indicated pluralities of 450,000, Democratic organization candidates lost only eight contests in the five New York counties.

Not since Jimmy Walker has Tammany done so well. Democrats gained 13 seats in the New York Board of Alderman to reduce the Republican and Fusionist numbers to four out of the 65 board members. Of the four one was regular Republican and three were Republican-Fusionist.

Three of the 62 state Assembly seats elected in Greater New York went to Republicans, leaving the five counties 59 out of a total of 68 Democratic members of the Assembly. The reelection of Dist Atty William F. X. Georghan in Kings County by 150,000 was hailed as Democratic organization victory.

Bond Issue Approved

National attention was directed today to the New York outcome where both parties put the New Deal out front as an issue. Republicans forced it and Democrats accepted the challenge. Democrats sharply disputed Republican claims of any great victory despite the fact that the count shows a substantial majority in the State Assembly for the G. O. P.

Democrats point to the retaining of two seats in Congress from New York city, the running up of a record majority across the River in Hudson County, N J, in the Assembly contests of Jersey, and the overwhelmingly approved in New York State of Gov Lehman's projected $55,000,000 bond issue for relief.

This issue went to the voters on a referendum and was given the O K where Republicans, opposing further expenditures of public money on anything savoring of dole, had fought for its defeat. Unlike Rhode Island where voters turned down a succession of bond issues for works relief, New York approved the expenditure of more money to care for the welfare load.

Gov Lehman joined Farley today in pointing with satisfaction to the Democratic vote, as the totals show that in the aggregate Democrats cast 500,000 more than Republicans for the Assembly candidates, but do to the districting failed to retain control of the Assembly.

"It looks like a pretty healthy plurality for the Democrats," said Gov Lehman.

"A trend away from the New Deal," said Melvin C. Eaton, New York's Republican state chairman. "Our victory gives the Republican party throughout the nation added strength and energy to defeat the New Deal in 1936."

Republicans, dispite their victory in New York's Assembly where they wiped out a Democratic majority of three, substituting a Republican majority of six, have been unable to get around the 500,000 Democratic majority polled. Farley today said, "The Federal Administration was sustained by more than 500,000 majority, which ought to be sufficient answer to the question of continued popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The Republican trend in New York was unmistakable in the state's Mayoral elections, 53 in number, while in Buffalo and the rest of Erie County a Republican landslide swept the long powerful Democratic machine out of office. New York's Senate, now Democratic, 29 to 21, does not elect until next year.

Republicans elected one Assemblyman in Brooklyn and two in Manhattan. Tammany Hall pointed with pride to the election of 21 out of 23 Democrats from Manhattan to the Assembly.

CAMBRIDGE VOTE POINTS TO LYNCH

Unofficial Returns Give Him Close Victory

Recount Immediately Started With State Police on Hand

Immediately following the announcement last night based on what the Election Commissioners called "unofficial votes" that John D. Lynch, former School Committeeman, banker and proprietor of a drugstore, had beaten John W. Lyons in the Cambridge Mayoralty contest, the Commissioners began a recount of the votes. Lyons was for some time acting Mayor of the city and president of the City Council.

Gathered around the counters were representatives of Lynch and Lyons and state police, who had been sent to Cambridge by Gov Curley at the request of Lyons.

Outside the Commissioners' offices were hundreds of supporters of the two candidates, but up to 11 o'clock there had been no disorder.

In his request to the Governor for state police, Lyons said that he did not feel his interests would be protected by the Cambridge police.

The official vote was: Lynch 18,029, Lyons 17,980.

Explaining their description of the vote as "unofficial" the election commissioners said the ballots had been counted at the various precincts and the figures telephoned to the commission headquarters.

Even should the recount being made last night showed that the candidates had tried or that one of them had won Lyons declared he would demand another recount.

Watching the counting for Lynch was City Councilor Francis J. Roche and attorney George A. McLaughlin was the observer for Lyons.

The Mayoralty campaign in Cambridge was the most exciting ever held in the university city. Lyons in his speeches and circulars made many charges against Lynch which the latter called upon the District Attorney of Middlesex County to investigate and suits are pending against Lyons and his campaign manager James F. Mahoney.

The result of the voting was the closet since 1905 when the late Mayor Charles H. Thurston defeated Warren K. Blodgett by 88 votes.

Democrats Suffer Reverses in City Mayoralty Contests

Knox Victory in Somerville And Worcester Returns Are Major Surprises

Archambault at Lowell, Lewis At Everett Also Viewed As Unexpected Victors

Republican candidates for Mayor won surprising victories over their Democratic rivals in several Massachusetts cities, and held their seats where the G. O. P. was in power, unofficial figures indicated at an early hour this morning.

The biggest upset definitely established was in Somerville where Leslie E. Knox, Republican, defeated Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by an unofficial majority of 1344.

Though the Somerville election was ostensibly nonpartisan, U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, a former Mayor and a Roosevelt appointee to his present Federal office, entering the campaign in Hagan's behalf, had appealed for votes in support of the New Deal.

Worcester Vote a Blow

The Somerville contest was, however, undoubtedly affected by the swinging of many of the votes given Board of Alderman Pres John M. Lynch in the recent primary to the Knox column.

An even greater blow to the Democracy has apparently been delivered in Worcester where early returns indicate the election of Walter J. Cookson, Republican, over State Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic floor leader, a Curley leader on Beacon Hill. Cookson definitely raised the issue of Curleyism, declaring the fight was for "home rule," and charging that Kelley was under domination by the Governor.

Returns from 38 out of 66 precincts showed Cookson leading Kelley by almost 5000 votes.

Recount On in Cambridge

So close was the contest in the Cambridge nonpartisan election that the election commissioners early this morning started a recount. On the basis of complete unofficial returns former School Committeeman John D. Lynch was leading City Council President John W. Lyons by less than 50 votes. The count gave Lynch 18,029, Lyons, 17,980.

MAYOR ROBERT E. GREENWOOD
Fitchburg returned him to office while he lies on hospital bed

The rising wave of G. O. P. sentiment has evidently swept into office in Lowell the first Republican Mayor in five years. Unofficial returns this morning showed Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, leading City Treasurer Charles R. Flood, Democrat, by a comfortable markin in a six-man fight.

Mayor James A. Roche of Everett went down to defeat before Alderman Frank E. Lewis in a nonpartican fight. Unofficial returns from 16 of the 17 precincts give Lewis a lead of 1674. Both Everett candidates are Republicans.

In Everett, where there was another ostensibly nonpartisan contest, Mayor John J. Irwin, a Republican, defeated Ex-Mayor John H. Burke, who is a Democrat. Returns from 22 out of 23 precincts gave Irwin 12,389 votes, Burke 6984.

Record Vote for Greenwood

Mayor J. Fred Manning, Lynn, was elected to his fourth successive term by better than two to one over ex-Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres.

continued

In Springfield Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, seemed assured of election over Dr James A. Redden, his RDemocratic rival, and in Marlboro's nonpartisan election, Mayor Charles A. Lyons had a slight lead over Paul F. Shaughtnessy, with only three of the seven wards accounted for. In Pittsfield Ex-Mayor Robert E. Bagg defeated Alfred C. Daniels.

Lying on a cot, critically and perhaps dangerously injured, at the Boston City Hospital, Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus Coolidge, was reelected Mayor of his city by the largest majority in its history. He was given a verdict of better that two to one over Ex-Mayor Joseph N. Carriere.

CURLEY ASKS SALTONSTALL IF ELECTION DEPRESSES HIM

Speaker of the House Leverett Saltonstall and Gov Curley, who may oppose each other in the Gubernatorial campaign next year, greeted each other cordially today when they met in the Council chamber at the swearing in of Representative William Stockwell.

"Are you feeling very much depressed over yesterday?" asked the Governor.

"Not a bit," the Speaker replied, laughing.

STATEMENTS BY LEADERS IN BOTH PARTIES

Republicans Outspokenly Jubilant — Democrats Inclined to Minimize Results

Leading Republicans were outspokenly jubilant today, while Democratic leaders were inclined to minimize, as far as possible, any implications that reversals suffered yesterday might have.

Here are statements made to the Globe this morning by leaders of both parties:

LEVERETT SALTONSTALL, Speaker of the House and candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor—"Damn good news! And a happy augury for the future."

CHARLES M. McGLUE, Gov Curley's campaign manager, former Democratic State Chairman, and present member of the State Ballot Law Commission—"I don't think yesterday's elections indicate anything. I know the cities pretty well. They were all local fights. No, I'm not upset about it. If you know the cities as I do, you know those things just happen."

ROBERT T. BUSHNELL, president of the Republican Club, and frequently mentioned as a possible Republican nominee either for Governor or Attorney General—"The elections in Massachusetts are interesting, particularly in view of the statement the other night by our pseudo Huey Long that the Republican party was nothing but a shell, composed only of wearers of the royal purple. The results make one feel that Sinclair Lewis was right. 'It can't happen here.'

"The only danger to the Republican party is that the old crowd will feel that victory next year is so certain that anyone can win. The election shows that hard fighting can win in a just cause, but wrist-slapping and pink teas cannot.

"Every Massachusetts victory yesterday was due directly to a hard fighting candidate, backed by devoted groups of plain, ordinary people, so aroused by the disgraceful conditions in Massachusetts that they made up their minds they would carry the fight to the last trench. They can—and I believe they will—do the same thing throughout the state next year."

WARREN L. BISHOP, district attorney of Middlesex County and a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination—"The more or less Republican sweep makes things look very bright for next year, not only in Massachusetts, but in the rest of the country."

GASPAR G. BACON, former Lieutenant-Governor and Republican opponent of Gov Curley a year ago—"The evidence is very encouraging. People are very evidently turning against the New Deal all through the state. The same thing happened in New York State. Yesterday's election also went very distinctly against Mr Curley. Certainly that Worcester election must have been a blow."

CURLEY NAMES BAKER JUDGE

Five Other Appointments Made by Governor

Executive Councilor Joshua Arthur Baker of Pittsfield was this afternoon nominated a justice of the Superior Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Frederick J. Macleod.

This and five other appointments were announced by Gov Curley prior to the regular meeting of the Council. The others were:

Charles T. Cavanaugh of Cambridge, clerk of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex, to succeed William A. Forbes.

Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton, medical examiner 1st Hampshire District, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr Edward Brown.

Roscoe Walsworth of Revere, reappointed a trustee of the Boston Metropolitan District.

Patrick A. O'Connell and William H. Claflin Jr of Brookline, reappointed managers of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Under the rules of the Council governing judicial appointments, that of Councilor Baker must lay over for a week.

The Governor took no action on the appointment of a new member of the Council to succeed Councilor Baker. As a matter of fact, there will be no vacancy to fill until Councilor Baker has been confirmed as judge. Such action is confidently expected because of the Democratic majority in the Council. They are four Republican Councilors, including Baker. The others are Councilors Brooks of Watertown, Schuster of Douglas and Grossman of Quincy. How they will vote on the question of confirming Baker is not known.

Senator Cavanagh, who was today appointed clerk of the 3d District Court of eastern Middlesex, was confirmed by the Council. He is the second member of the upper branch of the Legislature to receive an appointment from Gov Curley. The other is Senator William S. Conroy of Fall River, who was made a member of the state Industrial Accident Board last Spring. Senator Conroy has not resigned from the Senate and it is not expected that Senator Cavanagh will resign.

The Executive Council postponed until next week action on the appointment of Charles M. Stiller of Boston as secretary of the State Board of Motor Vehicle Appeal. The appointment was made by the board, but is subject to approval of the Council. If Stiller is confirmed, he will succeed Grover C. Hoyt. Stiller was formerly a member of the State Industrial Accident Board.

SEEK TO SPEED BUILDING OF SUFFOLK COURTHOUSE

Gov Curley and the three commissioners named for the construction of a new Suffolk county courthouse building will go to Washington shortly in an attempt to expedite the giving of federal funds for the project. Construction of the building, at an estimated cost of $5,000,000, was athorized by the last session of the legislature.

The commission consists of Bentley W. Warren, Joseph A. Rourke and Emmet Logue.

BOWKER "THANKS" CURLEY FOR NAMING BAKER JUDGE

Representative Philip G. Bowker of Brookline made the following statement today on Gov Curley's nomination of Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the Superior Court bench:

"Gov Curley in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican Party. The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the Governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables his Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"For those who take the "thirty pieces of silver" we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and show their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats, His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The Governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

FROM BOSTON TO CLEVELAND

Give G. O. P. Nation-Wide Hopes Of Victory in '36

By JOHN BARRY

A Republican army which had been evacuating strongholds and outposts before a Democratic push since 1929 turned on the enemy at the polls in yesterday's election to recapture the lost positions in a manner so substantial and decisive as to give the G. O. P. nationwide hopes of victory in 1936.

From Boston to the mid-Western city of Cleveland, Republicans, who were thought to be routed, waylaid the Democratic army of occupation in Massachusetts, and New York, and strengthened holds on New Jersey and Ohio. Philadelphia, all that was left to the Republican party in Pennsylvania outside of a State Senate majority, turned back invading Democrats in a pronounced setback to the Roosevelt-Guffey-Earle machine.

Somerville Retaken

Along party lines the results in a nutshell were as follows:

In Greater Boston: Somerville, a key city, for 57 years Republican but lost six years ago, in a distinct upset ousted Democratic Mayor James A. Hagan seeking a second term and elected Republican Leslie E. Knox as Mayor.

In Medford, Mayor John J. Irwin, Republican, was reelected Mayor over former Mayor and Chief Deputy U. S. Marshal John H. Burke, a Roosevelt appointee, by the largest plurality ever given a Mayor in the city on the Mystic.

Curley's Leader Beaten

In Worcester, heart of the Commonwealth, believed to be safely, although by a small margin, Democratic, tipped over Representative Edward J. Kelley, the floor leader for Gov Curley in the House of Representatives, and elected the Republican, Walter J. Cookson.

The Republicans' highest hopes are based on the Worcester contest where Gov Curley was an issue and in the defeat of Curley's legislative spokesman and one-man steering committee, the G. O. P bases predictions today for the defeat of the Democratic Governor at the polls in '36.

Control of N Y Assembly

In Cleveland, Boston-born Harold H. Burton, an independent Republican, ran up an exceptionally high total to defeat the Democratic hopeful, former Mayor Ray T. Miller.

In New York state, the Republicans recaptured control of the Assembly, where Democrats by a margin of three votes had been holding the reins under Gov Lehman—this in the home state of President and National Democratic Committee Chairman James A. Farley, who came home to vote and saw their own districts go Republican.

New York Republicans had a working majority of six today in the assembly where yesterday they were in the minority by three. President Roosevelt had the satisfaction however of a Democratic victory in his Hyde Park where a Democratic supervisor was elected for the first time in 35 years.

New Jersey Republicans, challenging the New Deal openly, strengthened the Republican control of Senate and Assembly.

National Issues

National issues figured in many of the contests where issues purely local had been the accepted and expected subject of debate. Out of the day's upsets, some not as surprising as others, comes conflicting interpretations from the spokesmen of the major parties.

For Republican boards of strategy one ehars Col Theodore Roosevelt, "You can't buy America. Mr Farley said New York state was to be the test of the popularity of the President and the so-called New Deal. It was the test. The attempt by Mr Farley to buy the elecitons with jobs and favors was met by the people with an emphatic 'no.' You can't buy America."

For the Democratic boards of strategy, one hears Postmaster General James A. Farley, "the Democrats win the New York Assembly once in 20 years. The State has ben gerrymandered to insure that only on the occasions of landslide elections can the Democrats gain a majority in that branch of the Legislature. Even in the election of 1930 when Roosevelt won the Governorship by 725,000 we did not gain control o. the Assembly.

"In the Roosevelt Presidential landslide of 1932 the Democrats fell short of an Assembly majority. Today's election gave our party one of the largest representations it ever has had, approximately the same as came with Roosevelt in 1932."

Farley contends that New York accepted the New Deal by 500,000 and points to Republicans gaining seats by squeezing in on slight majorities in many instances.

Recession as Analyzed

It will be noted in any analysis of the voting throughout the country, with the exception of Kentucky, where the ballots are not counted until today and the result is now unknown, that the recession from Roosevelt was practically as analyzed and predicted in the analytical nation-wide survey, "America Speaks," which appears weekly on Sundays in the Boston Globe. For the political analyst the proportions of the recession from Roosevelt is the only gage of the popular mind and opinion on which to base 1936 predictions.

"America Speaks" has recorded that recession over a period of months, but so close has been the balloting that this analysis is on record as predicting that today Roosevelt would be reelected, although not by the landslide of 1932.

To the Republican party, yesterday's elections have given a new birth to the hopes which sprang earlier from the Rhode Island repudiation of the Democrats, and more recently in the outcome of the bye-election in Essex County, where Republicans swept a Senator into office over a strongly-backed Curley Democrat.

The city of Lowell which has been Democratic for five years went Republican yesterday, electing Dewey G. Archambault Mayor over the Democratic city treasurer, Charles R. Flood, of Democratic Mayor Edward J. Bruin's administration. It was an upset and not expected.

For Democratic solace, Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg, who is on the danger list at City Hospital after an auto accident, was reelected by an overwhelming majority over his opponent, Dr Joseph N. Carriere.

In Lynn the Democratic incumbent, J. Fred Manning, by a 2 to 1 majority, was given a fourth term.

defeating his Reublican opponent, former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres.

Close in Cambridge

Cambridge, where two Democrats contested, saw the closest contest in the Nation and the closest Cambridge has ever known, with John D. Lynch declared the winner by 267 votes over John W. Lyons, who was acting Mayor while Congressman-Mayor Richard M. Russell was in Washington. Lyons immediately called for a recount and Gov Curley sent state troopers to stand guard over the ballot boxes.

In the first count at Cambridge, Lynch had only 49 votes to spare but a recheck of figures increased his lead to 267. The Cambridge primary saw a recount in which Lyons showed substantial gains which evoked from him a charge that election officials had tried to hold down his totals to make it appear that Lynch was unbeatable. Proportionate gains in the recount now for Lyons would mean his election.

This contest remains in doubt until the ballots are gone over again, and a court decision with reference of the entire election to an auditor for a finding of fact is not beyond the realm of possibility, so bitter has been this contest.

Two Republicans met in Everett, where the 32-year-old Alderman, Frank E. Lewis, unseated Mayor James A. Roche. Lewis stepped up in the primary as an upset and a surprise and went on through the election maintaining the lead he assumed early in the preelection stages of the Everett campaign. Although Republican, Mayor Roche was a supporter of Gov Curley in the last election and the Democratic national ticket.

Waltham's Republican Mayor, Dr Frederick L. MacDonald, was reelected over his Democratic opponent, State Representative and City Councilor Thomas J. Flannery, by a flattering plurality. The voting was along party lines in a nonpartisan contest and Dr MacDonald received a second term, seeing a vindication of his welfare relief policies and his municipal financing.

Easy Win in Springfield

Springfield, in a party election, easily held control of the city, electing Mayor Henry Martens over his Democratic opponent, Dr James A. Redden. The Curley influence was negligible in Springfield. Redden's affiliations have aligned him with the Senator David I. Walsh battalions of the Democratic party.

Two Democrats were opponents in Marlboro, with Mayor Charles A. Lyons holding his seat against the campaigning of Paul F. Shaughnessy. Republicans don't fit into the Marlboro picture at all.

Pittsfield's Mayor, Allen H. Bagg, was again sent back in the Mayor's chair, defeating Alfred C. Daniels. Both are Republicans, but the voting was along party lines, with the Democratic strength of the city supporting Daniels.

The surface defeats of Democrats was not disheartening to Tammy Hall in New York which yesterday saw the machine start rolling up the hill again and envisioned a return of the days before Seabury. Rolling up indicated pluralities of 450,000. Democratic organization candidates lost only eight contests in the five New York counties.

Not since Jimmy Walker has Tammany done so well. Democrats gained 13 seats in the New York Board of Alderman to reduce the Republican and Fusionist numbers to four out of the 65 board members. Of the four one was regular Republican and three were Republican-Fusionist.

Three of the 62 state Assembly seats elected in Greater New York went to Republicans, leaving the five counties 59 out of a total of 68 Democratic members of the Assembly. The reelection of Dist Atty William F. X. Georghan in Kings County by 150,000 was hailed as Democratic organization victory.

Bond Issue Approved

National attention was directed today to the New York outcome where both parties put the New Deal out front as an issue. Republicans forced it and Democrats accepted the challenge. Democrats sharply disputed Republican claims of any great victory despite the fact that the count shows a substantial majority in the State Assembly for the G. O. P.

Democrats point to the retaining of two seats in Congress from New York city, the running up of a record majority acros sthe river in Hudson County, N J, in the Assembly contests of Jersey, and the overwhelming approvel in New York State of Gov Lehman's projected $55,000,000 bond issue for relief.

This issue went to the voters on a referendum and was given the O K where Republicans, opposing further expenditures of public money on anything savoring of dole, had fought for its defeat. Unlike Rhode Island where voters turned down a succession of bond issues for works relief, New York approved the expenditure of more money to care for the welfare load.

Gov Lehman joined Farley today in pointing with satisfaction to the Democratic vote, as the totals show that in the appregate Democrats cast 500,000 more than Republicans for the Assembly candidates, but do to the districting failed to retain control of the Assembly.

"It looks like a pretty healthy pluraility for the Democrats," said Gov Lehman.

"A trend away from the New Deal," said Melvin C. Eaton, New York's Republican state chairman. "Our victory gives the Republican party throughout the nation added strength and energy to defeat the New Deal in 1936."

Republicans, dispite their victory in New York's Assembly where they wiped out a Democratic majority of three, substituting a Republican majority of six, have been unable to get around the 500,000 Democratic majority polled. Farley today said, "The Federal Administration was sustained by more than 500,000 majority, which ought to be sufficient answer to the question of continued popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Republican Trend

The Republican trend in New York was unmistakable in the state's Mayoral elections, 53 in number, while in Buffalo and the rest of Erie County a Republican landslide swept the long powerful Democratic machine out of office. New York's Senate now Democratic, 29 to 21, does not elect until next year.

Republicans elected one Assemblyman in Brooklyn and two in Manhattan. Tammany Hall pointed with pride to the election of 21 out of 23 Democrats from Manhattan to the Assembly.

In Pennsylvania's lone state-wide contest, Judge Jesse E. B. Cunningham, Republican candidate for the state Superior Court, defeated his Democratic opponent, Robert L. Myers. Mississippi went through the formality of electing Hugh White, Democrat, her new Governor, and her Democratic Legislature, while Virginia sent the usual Democratic majorities to the State House.

In Ohio, Representative Bolton, chairman of the Republican campaign committee said, "I think the people are beginning to wake up now and see what's going on, and are taking an interest in municipal government."

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City whose bailiwick turned out a record Democratic majority of 137,709 in Hudson County called the vote, "A vindication of the New Deal."

To Representative Fish, Republican of New York, the returns in New York were, "A powerful rebuke to the unsound and socialistic New Deal experiment."

Connecticut Results

Columbus, O, saw her present Democratic Mayor, Henry W. Worley, defeated by his Republican opponent, Myron B. Gessaman. Republican Wayor Frank Couzens of Detroit won handily.

New Jersey increased the Republican majority in the Assembly from three to 11, making inroads into territory normally Democratic but the Republican majority in the Senate was cut from four to two, compensating Democrats for Assembly losses. The Jersey count is now, Assembly Republicans 42 and Democratic 18; Senate Republicans 13 and Democrats eight.

In Bridgeport, Conn, the Socialist, Mayor Jasper McLevy was reelected by a plurality of twice what he received two years ago on his first victory. The roofer-Mayor conducted his usual soap box campaign on the street corners.

Democrats won in two cities of Connecticut. Mayor John W. Murphy was reelected in New Haven by more than 5000, defeating former Mayor Thomas A. Tully, Republican, who ran on an anti-New Deal platform.

Normally Democratis, Hartford ousted Republican Mayor J. Watson Beach, electing John A. Pilgard by a majority of 7213 votes.

Young John Q. Tilson Jr, son of the former Republican leader of the National House, started a political career by election to the New Haven Board of Alderman. The Yale graduate won from a Democrat in a ward that gave Mayor Murphy a 57 majority.

More than 1,000,000 votes were cast in the Kentucky election, where Lieut Gov A. B. ("Happy") Chandler, Democrat, and Judge King Swope are out for the four-year term to succeed Gov Ruby Laffoon, the man who created more Kentucky colonels than there are privates in Uncle Sam's Army.

The tabulation in Kentucky began this morning, but betting commissioners, despite desertions of prominent Democrats, including Laffoon's wing of the party, from Chandler's band wagon, quoted 3 to 1 that Chandler would win and hold Kentucky Democratic.

Prohibition was believed to be here to stay in Kentucky and the voters had a referendum on the liquor question to decide whether Kentucky would be wet or dry, legally. At this moment a thirsty customer can prescribe liquor for himself for "medicinal purposes."

MILLENS-FABER CASE REWARDS

$5000 EACH MAY GO TO BATTERY MEN

Kirk Recommends $2500 For Saul Messenger

Frank J. LeVierge and his brother Alfred W. LeVierge, the Boston battery men whose information provided the police with the all-important clew to the Millen brothers as participants in the Needham Trust holdup and murders, today were recommended to receive rewards of $5000 each, in the report that Public Safety Commissioner Paul G. Kirk submitted to the Governor and Executive Council relative to the distribution of $22,000 in rewards for the arrest and conviction of Murton and Irving Millen and Abraham Faber.

Commissioner Kirk's report, which suggested two alternative plans for distributing the $22,000, was taken under advisement by the Council for one week.

By one plan, the Public Safety Commissioner lists 11 persons as entitled to participation in the reward, varying amounts between $500 and $5000. In this list are included one Boston police officer and three New York police officers, eac hto receive $1500.

Messenger Their Chum

Commissioner Kirk suggests that if the Governor and Council decide that as a matter of public policy, police should not receive rewards for performance of their duties, the $5000 recommended for distribution to these officers be divided pro rata among the seven other persons on the reward list.

Next to the two LeVierge brothers, in standing in the list, is Saul Messenger, boyhood chum of the Millens, who was persuaded to turn in his friends to the police. He was an important figure in the capture of the Millen brothers in the Hotel Lincon in New York, pointing the young murderers out to the police as they came into the lobby.

Kirk said, "With some misgivings, and yet impelled by an objective analysis of the facts, I recommend that he be awarded the sum of $2500."

$2000 for DeLoria

Other persons entitled to share in the $22,000 reward, according to the Kirk report, are:

Henry DeLoria, finder of the holdup car in the Westwood woods, $2000.

Philip M. King, Charles Parsons and John Moloney, Norwood youths, who carefully searched the scene where the car was discovered and found auto registration plates and a plate from a police radio, $500 each.

Lieut Charles Eldridge, of the Boston Police, who, on receipt of a teletype alarm, searched Murton Millen's Boston apartment and found a letter directed to Saul Messenger, $1500.

Lieut Charles Eason, Detective Edmund O'Brien, and Detective John F. Fitzimmons, of the New York police, who assisted in persuading Messenger to "tell all" about the Millens and took an active part in their capture, $1500 each.

Republican, Walter [illegible]

ren K. Blodgett by 88 votes.

Concluded

In Kirk's alternative plan of distributing the reward, under which the police officers receive no share, the amounts which would go to the other seven persons on his list would be as follows:

Henry DeLoria, $2750.

Alfred W. LeVierge and Frank J. LeVierge, $6875 each.

Philip M. King, Charles Parsons and John Moloney, $687 each.

Saul Messenger, $3437.50.

The Public Safety Commissioner suggested to the Council in his report that they had still another alternative which could be adopted. The Attorney General, he pointed out, could be requested to initiate appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for a judicial determination of the rights of the 21 claimants for the reward.

MARGIN ONLY 267 VOTES

Defeated Candidate for Mayor to Ask Recount

A Cambridge election which sent political statisticians down into the depths of despair slipped John D. Lynch, bank president and drug store proprietor, into a Mayoralty win by a mere 267 votes over John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, whose grand slam finish jolted the city from stem to stern.

Lynch, in the final official count, was given 18,143 votes, while Lyons, whom hundreds of so-called "know-it-all" election prophets claimed would lose by at least 5000, went to work and polled 17,876.

Lyons will seek a recount and until that is over and done with there is no absolute surety in the University City who is going to take the place of Richard M. Russell, who has held the seat for the past six years.

It would not be exaggeration to state that Lyon's gain in the last days of the campaign was as sudden a whirlwind as last Saturday's Notre Dame win over Ohio State, and it is not too far fetched to continue the analogy to say that Lyons seemingly plucked votes out of the air in the same surprising fashion that the "Irish" footballers grabbed forward passes from the atmosphere.

So upsetting was the result that, when it was announced after an unofficial tabulation had been taken over the telephone, that Lynch won by only 49 votes, the faces of many of the Lynch supporters actually went ashen and some of the officials of Cambridge, who had climbed aboard the Lynch band wagon, could not talk, but could only bleat out a few stutters now and then.

The office of the Cambridge Election Commission on the third floor of the Municipal Building for a short time was like the floor of a stock exchange the day the market sank out of sight.

Called for State Troopers

Lyons with his followers poured into the office, followed by Lynch and his cohorts. Gov James M. Curley was called personally on the telephone by Lyons and asked to send state troopers to guard the ballots. Two state troopers arrived and took their positions of vigilance outside the vault.

Election Commissioner Daniel P. Leahy, the former manager of the North Cambridge twilight league baseball club, who has seen more fights on the field than many an individual, became so physically exhausted trying to satisfy both Mayoralty camps in the totaling of votes that he had to have the attention of Dr Jeremiah Greene who was present.

The votes were not called off by Leahy and Commissioner Clarence P. Kidder until eight men representing Lynch and eight representing Lyons were chosen to scrutinize the lists. Boxes of ballots were not allowed into the vault in the office until each one had been carefully checked to see if the straps were sealed. It appeared that the Mayoralty fight would be settled on pretty few ballots.

But gradually, as the official count was made, Lynch and his followers became a little more optimistic and 267 was the final majority The unofficial count of the vote in Precinct 4 of Ward 7 and Precinct 4 of Ward 8 had been given wrongly when presented over the telephone to the Election Commission.

Lyons Will Ask Recount

"I will ask for a recount," said Lyons. "I will not be satisfied that I am defeated until the votes are counted."

"I wish to thank the voters of Cambridge for their confidence in me," remarked Lynch. "I will give the city of Cambridge the best administration of which I am capable. I shall stand for decency and honesty in Government."

"However, Lynch and his followers rather dread a recount, and until it is over will be on pins and needles. A recount in the primary brought out changes which gave Lyons several hundred more votes.

Before tabulations started 20 police officers, under the direction of Chief Timothy F. Leahy, cleared the Election Commission office of hundreds who crowded in to hear the results. The count was presented to citizens at City Hall, and was broadcast from the commission to members of Cambridge Post of the American Legion in the hall overhead.

Not since 1905 had the city had such an exciting election, and that was when Charles H. Thurston defeated Warren K. Blodgett by 88 votes.

Lynch's Ward Saved Him

Lyons beat Lynch in six out of the 11 wards, but it was Lynch's own ward in North Cambridge, Wardr 11, which was his safeguard. Ward 11 gave Lynch 3551 to Lyons' 890. Lyons defeated Lynch in Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. In Ward 9 they were pretty near even, Lynch getting 2240 and Lyons 2126. The Republicans, due to Mayor Russell's support of Lynch, assisted the bank president rather largely.

John D. Lynch has held only one other public office in Cambridge, that of School committeeman. He is regarded as a strict conservative and he backed strongly the tax reduction plan of the Cambridge Industrial Association. The city's $41 tax rate was his war cry and he went up and down the city promising to reduce it.

Father at Home Asleep

He was born in Cambridge 52 years ago, the son of John J. and the late Bridget (Ahern) Lynch. His 87-year-old father was at home asleep while his son was ascending to the Mayor's chair. He is a bachelor and has a brother, Thomas, and four sisters, Elizabeth, who looks after the family residence, 20 Fairfield st; Margaret M., a teacher in the Cambridge High and Latin School; Helen, who does the accounting in her brother's drugstore; Mrs Annie O'Connell and Mrs Edward Danehy.

Miss Margaret Lynch, who holds a PhD degree, was one of his strongest workers and last night at the Election Commission, when everything was in an emotional stage, was as cool and calm as could be as she summoned workers to watch the counting.

Congratulations were heaped upon Lynch when the official count was announced about 2 a m. Lynch is persident of the North Cambridge Cooperative Bank and the University Trust Company. His drug store, which he has operated for almost 30 eyars, is located in North Cambridge Junction.

It might be mentioned that Mayor Russell received one vote. There were 36,556 ballots cast out of a total registration of 45,085, which was a heavy vote for a municipal election.

Two P. S. A. Winners

The Public School Association proved a big factor in the election of three to the School committee. Dr James J. Cassidy was first, with 17,926; Ralph W. Robart second, with 17,808, and William J. Galway third, with 17, 494. Cassidy and Galway were indorsed by the P. S. A., while the other candidate it indorsed, Mrs Cora Butler Conant, was fifth, with 11,534. Robart, who fought the P. S. A., shows he still holds his popularity. He and Dr Cassidy have been reelected. Galway, prominent in Kiwanis circles, showed surprising strength.

School Committeeman John Lacey Delaney's defeat for reelection was an upset, for he polled a large vote in the primary. He received 16,621 for a poor fourth. Attorney Richard C. Evarts wound up with 10,312, which was rather a weak showing.

11 New Councilors

The City Council will have 11 new members next year for the contests for that office tipped over the carts of several up for reelection.

Councilor Thomas F. Gibson led the field in the Councilor-at-large fight, with 18,276, while others elected were Patrick J. Delaney, 17,269; Hyman Pill, 16,818, and John J. Toomey, 14,478. Those who failed to place were J. Gordon Duffy, 12,549; Ralph N. Hamilton, 12,956; Stephen J. Harrington, 11,207, and Timothy F. Murphy, 13,216. Duffy's defeat was a surprise for his primary vote was large. He is an outgoing ward Councilor.

Gibson was reelected for a second term, while Delaney, a former Councilor, made a fine come back. Pill was also reelected. Toomey, young ex-grand knight of Cambridge Council, K. of C., put up a strong battle and got results. He is only 26 years old.

Two old-time ward Councilors were defeated, Horace A. Skilton in Ward 10 and N. Russell Cazmay in Ward 7. Cazmay was beaten by Michael J. Dee, a young man and graduate of Boston College, residing at 94 Hammond st.

Skilton's nemesis was another young fellow, John J. Tierney, a former athlete at Cambridge High and Latin School. Tierney lives at 182 Richdale av.

James E. Mahoney is the new Councilor-elect in Ward 1. His home is at 97 Otis st in East Cambridge.

GUARD FOR BALLOTS IN CAMBRIDGE

Two Troopers and Two Policemen on Duty—Lynch Won by 267 Votes

Two State Troopers and two Cambridge policemen were on guard throughout today at the office of the Cambridge election commission on the third floor of the Central-sq municipal buiding.

It was reported that state and local police guards may remain on duty, night and day, until the recount next week. Five o'clock Friday afternoon is the "deadline" for the filing of a recount petition.

Lynch's Lead Only 267 Votes

Yesterday's election which sent political statisticians down into the depths of despair slipped John D. Lynch, bank president and drug store proprietor, into a Mayoralty win by a mere 267 votes over John W. Lyons, president of the City Council, whose grand slam finish jolted the city from stem to stern.

Lynch, in the final official count, was given 18,143 votes, while Lyons, whom hundreds of so-called "know-it-all" election prophets claimed would lose by at least 5000, went to work and polled 17,876.

Lyons will seek a recount and until that is over and done with there is no absolute surety in the University City who is going to take the place of Richard M. Russell, who has held the seat for the past six years.

It would not be exaggeration to state that Lyon's gain in the last days of the campaign was as sudden a whirlwind as last Saturday's Notre Dame win over Ohio State, and it is not too far fetched to continue the analogy to say that Lyons seemingly plucked votes out of the air in the same surprising fashion that the "Irish" footballers grabbed forward passes from the atmosphere.

So upsetting was the result that, when it was announced after an unofficial tabulation had been taken over the telephone, that Lynch won by only 49 votes, the faces of many of the Lynch supporters actually went ashen and some of the officials of Cambridge, who had climbed aboard the Lynch band wagon, could not talk, but could only bleat out a few stutters now and then.

The office of the Cambridge Election Commission on the third floor of the Municipal Building for a short time was like the floor of a stock exchange the day the market sank out of sight.

Called for State Troopers

Lyons with his followers poured into the office, followed by Lynch

JOHN J. TIERNEY
Councilor, Ward 10, Cambridge

and his cohorts. Gov James M. Curley was called personally on the telephone by Lyons and asked to send state troopers to guard the ballots. Two state troopers arrived and took their positions of vigilance outside the vault.

Election Commissioner Daniel P. Leahy, the former manager of the North Cambridge twilight league baseball club, who has seen more fights on the field than many an individual, became so physically exhausted trying to satisfy both Mayoralty camps in the totaling of votes that he had to have the attention of Dr Jeremiah Greene, who was present.

The votes were not called off by Leahy and Commissioner Clarence P. Kidder until eight men representing Lynch and eight representing Lyons were chosen to scrutinize the lists. Boxes of ballots were not allowed into the vault in the office until each one had been carefully checked to see if the straps were sealed. It appeared that the Mayoralty fight would be settled on pretty few ballots.

But gradually, as the official count was made, Lynch and his followers became a little more optimistic and 267 was the final majority. The unofficial count of the vote in Precinct 4 of Ward 7 and Precinct 4 of Ward 8 had been given wrongly when presented over the telephone to the Election Commission.

Lyons Will Ask Recount

"I will ask for a recount," said Lyons. "I will not be satisfied that I am defeated until the votes are counted."

"I wish to thank the voters of Cam-

ren K. Blodgett by 88 votes.

bridge for their confidence in me," remarked Lynch. "I will give the city of Cambridge the best administration of which I am capable. I shall stand for decency and honesty in government."

"However, Lynch and his followers rather dread a recount, and until it is over will be on pins and needles. A recount in the primary brought out changes which gave Lyons several hundred more votes.

Before tabulations started 20 police officers, under the direction of Chief Timothy F. Leahy, cleared the Election Commission office of hundreds who crowded in to hear the results. The count was presented to citizens at City Hall, and was broadcast from the commission to members of Cambridge Post of the American Legion in the hall overhead.

JEREMIAH J. SULLIVAN
Concilour, Ward 11, Cambridge

Not since 1905 had the city had such an exciting election, and that was when Charles H. Thurston defeated Warren K. Blodgett by 88 votes.

Lynch's Ward Saved Him

Lyons beat Lynch in six out of the 11 wards, but it was Lynch's own ward in North Cambridge, Ward 11, which was his safeguard. Ward 11 gave Lynch 3551 to Lyons' 890. Lyons defeated Lynch in Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. In Ward 9 they were pretty near even, Lynch getting 2240 and Lyons 2126. The Republicans, due to Mayor Russell's support of Lynch, assisted the bank president rather largely.

John D. Lynch has held only one other public office in Cambridge, that of School committeeman. He is regarded as a strict conservative and he backed strongly the tax reduction plan of the Cambridge Industrial Association. The city's $41 tax rate was his war cry and he went up and down the city promising to reduce it.

Father at Home Asleep

He was born in Cambridge 52 years ago, the son of John J. and the late Bridget (Ahern) Lynch. His 87-year-old father was at home asleep while his son was ascending to the Mayor's chair. He is a bachelor and has a brother, Thomas, and four sisters, Elizabeth, who looks after the family residence, 20 Fairfield st; Margaret M., a teacher in the Cambridge High and Latin School; Helen, who does the accounting in her brother's drug-store; Mrs Annie O'Connell and Mrs Edward Danehy.

Miss Margaret Lynch, who holds a PhD degree, was one of his strongest workers and last night at the Election Commission, when everything was in an emotional stage, was as cool and calm as could be as she summoned workers to watch the counting.

Congratulations were heaped upon Lynch when the official count was announced about 2 a m. His drug store, which he has operated for almost 30 years, is located in North Cambridge Junction.

11 New Councilors

The City Council will have 11 new members next year for the contests for that office tipped over the carts of several up for reelection.

Gibson was reelected for a second term, while Delaney, a former Councilor, made a fine come back. Pill was also reelected. Toomey, young ex-grand knight of Cambridge Council, K. of C., put up a strong battle and got results. He is only 26 years old.

Two old-time ward Councilors were defeated, Horace A. Skilton in Ward 10 and N. Russell Cazmay in Ward 7. Cazmay was beaten by Michael J. Dee, a young man and graduate of Boston College, residing at 94 Hammond st.

Skilton's nemesis was another young fellow, John J. Tierney, a former athlete at Cambridge High and Latin School. Tierney lives at 182 Richdale av.

James E. Mahoney is the new Councilor-elect in Ward 1. His home is at 97 Otis st in East Cambridge. Thomas M. McNamara will serve from Ward 2. He resides at 271 Windsor st. Francis L. Sennott, son of the late Councilor Edward J. Sennott, will represent Ward 3. His home is at 5 Summer st.

Councilor Howe Coolidge Ames was defeated for reelection in Ward 4, by former Councilor Chester R. Swenson. Councilor William D. Hillis won reelection in Ward 5 by an overwhelming vote over Thomas E. McKenna.

"Bibber" McCoy Beaten

The new Councilor from Ward 8 will be Michael Sullivan of 15 Surrey st. He defeated the well known wrestler and former Holy Cross athlete, Robert "Bibber" McCoy.

Councilor Benjamin F. Wyeth was reelected in Ward 8 by a large majority. It will be Mr Wyeth's fifth term in office next year.

Edawrd H. Donovan, former well-known Rindge Technical School football player, is the new Councilor-elect from Ward 9. His home is at 151 Appleton st.

The Ward 11 winner was Jeremiah J. Sullivan, attorney, graduate of Boston College and Harvard Law School and former athlete at Boston College. He is also a young man and his first attempt at politics results in a win. He resides at 3 Yerxa road.

County Hospital Defeated

Many citizens were surprised to learn that the tuberculosis hospital referendum resulted in the majority desiring that the city retain its present hospital and not sell it to the county. The "yes" vote was 15,625 and "no" 15,842.

The defeat of the plan to have the city join up with the Middlesex County Hospital was due in no small measure to the work of several young Harvard graduates, including Edward A. Crane, who fought against such action night and day. The same group of men have promised to begin an immediate campaign to have the city spend some money to bring the hospital up to State requirements.

VICTORY OF KNOX MAJOR SURPRISE

Election at Somerville Sets Precedent There

Marks First Time Mayor Fails to Serve a Second Term

Sweeping in with the aid of insurgent Democrats, the Republicans regained control of Somerville last night, when Ex-Alderman Leslie E. Knox was elected Mayor over former Mayor James J. Hagan, rolling up 18,035 votes to the latter's 16,685.

In what was meant to be a nonpartisan election, Knox upset the political forecasters and was carried into office by a majority of 1350 in a vote which was decided along Republican-Democratic lines, and mixed up by a wrangle with the Democratic party itself.

By his victory Knox figuratively returns the city to the Republican fold where it stood for 57 years, prior to the election of Marshal Murphy. By defeating Hagan he also sets a precedent by making Hagan the first Mayor in the history of the city not to hold office for at least two terms.

Knox practically won the election in Wards 6 and 7, the latter his own ward. Both of these wards are Republican strongholds. From the appearance of the results it seems that the Republicans got out their vote almost perfectly, giving Knox the victory though he carried only three of the City's seven wards.

Observers Still Mystified

It was the second time that former Republican Alderman ran against Hagan, and two years ago he was defeated by 5,071 votes as James J. Hagan became Somerville's youngest mayor at the age of 31.

Last night the political railbirds were still trying to figure it out. Some attributed it to the injection of the New Deal issue by Marshal Murphy. Others said it was Knox's attack on Hagan's term of office, which saw the Somerville tax rate rise $6.80, while still others checked it off to the internal row in the Democratic ranks.

The primary contest between Lynch and Hagan was bitter, and fought with all the venom of long standing political foes. After the primary there was no reconciliation, and Lynch refused his support to either candidate. His lieutenants scattered to one camp or the other.

Nonpartisan or no nonpartisan, Hagan claimed the allegiance of the Lynch Democrats, and, when he felt it slipping away, smoked the pipe of peace with Murphy and called him to his aid.

Murphy campaigned on a New Deal issue, calling on all good Democrats to keep in line so that word might be sent to Washington that Somerville was still in the Franklin D. Roosevelt fold. How much effect it had one way observers profess not to be able to determine.

The conciliation between Hagan and Murphy in itself set political tongues wagging. For years the men have been opposed politically, with Hagan favoring the Ely wing of the Democratic party and Murphy following the steps of Gov Curley.

When Hagan was elected mayor two years ago, he did not even invite Murphy, his predecessor, to the inauguration, and shortly after assuming office issued lengthy statements attacking the condition the city had been left in financially.

Knox's victory climaxed one of the weirdest, wildest political scraps ever known to Somerville.

The fight started when two Democrats and a Republican ran practically a dead heat in the primary, and ended when former Mayor John J. Murphy, now Roosevelt appointed as United States Marshal, buried the hatchet with Hagan and stumped through the city for the New Deal.

Third man in the primary was John M. Lynch, president of the Board of Aldermen, who received 8445 votes to Knox's 8760 and Hagan's 9997. The rest of the campaign was a battle for the Lynch Democrats, with Hagan trying to keep them in line and Knox trying to win them over by attacking Hagan's record.

In gaining more than 6000 votes over two years ago to defeat Hagan, Knox scored one of the biggest political upsets of the year.

Supporters Always Confident

Within a fortnight of the election no one gave him a chance, with the exception of himself and his campaigners who, until the last booth was closed, chanted: "Less taxes with Les Knox" and "Opportunity Knox at Somerville's door."

Until his election as Mayor of Somerville last night, Leslie E. Knox was far more prominent in insurance circles than in politics.

His political activities have been few. He served for two terms on the Somerville Board of Aldermen, quitting that body two years ago to enter the Mayoralty contest against James J. Hagan. Defeated, he returned to private life until he opened his primary campaign this Fall.

He has been prominent in insurance, however, since 1914, when he entered the Massachusetts F. & M. Insurance Company. After serving with the United States Army during the war, he returned to this country and entered the firm of Liverpool, London and Globe.

In 1925 he joined the firm of L. W. Kingman & Co of Boston, and while associated with that company was elected president of the Insurance Society of Massachusetts in 1928.

Mayor Knox is married and lives on the banks of Alewife Brook with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, Majorie Jean, a fifth-grade pupil in the Cutler School.

Two state troopers were stationed on guard over the ballots at Somerville City Hall late last night, but no one seemed to know at whose request they had been sent. They planned to spend the night on guard.

Lyons will probably be held some time next week. In the meantime, the ballots are locked in a vault under police protection. The State troopers remained on guard all through last night.

SMITH'S ELECTION BOSTON FEATURE

Brighton Man Just Ahead of Republican, Demeter—Six New Councilors

DR CHARLES E. MACKEY

MAURICE J. TOBIN

HENRY J. SMITH

While the totals of 80,899 votes run up by Maurice J. Tobin and 69,058 by Dr Charles E. Mackey in their campaigns for reelection to the Boston school committee exceeded ever their own expectations, their reelection to the committee was no surprise to the electorate nor to their 27 competitors for political preference.

The election of Henry J. Smith o Brighton as the third member of the committee, who just nosed out the lone Republican aspirant, George J Demeter, for the vacancy, featured the Boston election. Had the Republicans come out in anywhere near their full registered strength Demeter, among 28 Democrats, could have been elected as easily as Republicans sent Malcolm E. Nichols to the Mayor's chair in City Hall in a Democratic free-for-all 10 years ago. Republicans preferred to ignore the ballot box yesterday, however, and their lone hope for representation on the School Board went down to defeat.

Smith had 27,334 votes to Demeter's 26,224 votes. Nearest to them were Joseph G. Sullivan with 20,324 and John C. Flaherty with 20,090 votes. Miriam C. Regan, who had been expected to provide stronger contention, was 10th in line with 14,178 votes.

Smith for Chairman?

Dr Charles E. Mackey of South Boston is the present chairman of the School committee. Maurice J. Tobin has previously held the position and it is not unlikely that Henry J. Smith will be elected to the chairmanship. He is a Boston College graduate in the class of 1922 and treasurer of the Boston College Alumni Association. He makes his home in Brighton with his wife and four children. He has been engaged in municipal bond sales for 11 years with a Boston investment house.

The victory of Smith will be pleasing to Gov Curley as the young committeema nwas an intimate of the Governor's eldest son, James M. Curley, who died. He is a frequent visitor at the Governor's home and moves in the social circle of the Governor's daughter, Mrs Edward C. Donnelly.

Smith waged a vigorous campaign with the backing of leading educators for reelection.

Tobin's remarkable vote, considering the obscure position his name had on the ballot, 12th in 19 candidates, is further indication that as a vote-getter the young Brighton man is at the top in his party. He has built a norganization of young Democrats in Boston which is already laying the groundwork for a Mayoralty campaign and he will undoubtedly be out for Mayor at the expiration of Mayor Mansfield's term. His brother, James Tobin, was a member of the secretarial force of

Gov Curley when the latter was Mayor and he later becam secrtary to Jams Roosevelt, accompanying him on a coast-to-coast tour in the Presidential campaign and handling Roosevelt's interests in Boston during James' absence from his insurance business here.

Curley-Tobin Breach

Maurice Tobin and Gov Curley were intimates up to the Governor's election to Beacon Hill and in the first months of the Governor's term, but when brother James failed to receive the appointment as clerk of the Roxbury Court, a post which went to Teddy Glynn, it appeared that some breach existed between the Governor's office and the Tobin forces.

In State House corridors the reported breach is said to be attributable to and probably with the Governor's chief secretary, Richard D. Grant, rather than with the Governor himself. Grant's candidate for the Roxbury clerkship was Representative John F. Aspell and when an impasse was reached between Jim Tobin and Aspell ,the name of Glynn as a compromise was sent to the Executive Council and confirmed.

Whether Gov Curley participates in the next Mayoralty or not the Tobin forces can be expected to take care of themselves. It is most likely that the Governor will not be active, as rumor has it that several of his friends will be in the running, including Joseph A. Tomasello, Chairman Joseph McGrath of the state Democratic Committee and Dist Atty William J. Foley, whom the Governor backed unsuccessfully when Mansfield emerged the winner.

New City Councilors

In the City Council contests Boston acquired several new office holders. Three of the 19 who ran for reelection suffered defeats and three did not seek reelection, so that six new men will appear in the ancient Council chamber after Jan 1.

Defeated were George P. Donovan in Ward 6; Edward L. Englert in Ward 11, and Albert L. Fish in Ward 16. The successful candidates in these contests were George A. Murray in Ward 6, James J. Kilroy in Ward 11 and John J. McGrath in Ward 16. McGrath was one of the strongest Curley backers in local elections. The three who withdrew were Councilors Thomas Green of Ward 2, Joseph McGrath, state Democratic committee chairman, in Ward 13, and Maurice N. Goldman in Ward 14, who is now an assistant attorney general.

Elected in their stead were James J. Mellen of Ward 2, son of the late Senator, who defeated John P. Doherty, the Tommy Green choice as his successor; Sidney Rosenberg in Ward 14, who defeated Charles Kaplan, the choice of Maury Holdman, as his successor, and Peter J. Fitzgerald in Ward 13.

John I. Fitzgerald, who inherited the mantle of the late Martin Lomasney and the latter's Hendricks Club, won an impressive victory in Ward 3. Opposed by four, all of Italian descent, Fitzgerald had more than twice the number of votes of his combined opponents. The North End, where he was considered to be weak, he lost by only 100 votes.

Councilor John G. Dowd was the only man without opposition. In the old Tammany ward of Gov Curley Councilor Dowd was the unanimous choice for the first time in the history of that ward. Councilor Richard D. Gleason, who has had a stormy political career but one that pleases his constituents who like fight in their representatives, had no difficulty in winning in Ward 9.

Councilor Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of Harvard, walked in from the Back Bay ward for reelection. Councilor Clement A. Norton also received a flattering indorsement from Ward 18.

RODEO FANS BOO GRANT, CURLEY AID

Force Him to Halt Plea for Will Rogers Fund

The appearance of Richard D. Grant, secretary to Gov Curley, at Col Johnson's rodeo last night was greeted by scattered boos from a small portion of the audience.

His speech—an appeal for support of the Will Rogers Memorial Fund—had to be cut short after about five minutes because the 12,000 rodeo fans wanted to see the cowboys, and made it plain by prolonged handclapping. Grant, speaking from Johnny Jordan's announcement stand over the corrals, abruptly stopped and climbed down, somewhat annoyed.

Grant's speech was the first of a series of public appeals for funds to honor the memory of Will Rogers. The Boston Garden setting of the rodeo was chosen as a fitting spot for the opening speech because of the humorist's early days as a cowboy.

Messages of congratulation were received yesterday by Col Johnson from Jesse H. Jones, national chairman of the fund, and from Eddie Rickenbacker, New York chairman of the fund, thanking him for the cooperation given by the cowboys and cowgirls in supporting Gov Curley's plea.

Gov Curley, who is chairman for Massachusetts, will attend the rodeo at the matinee contests on Saturday and speak briefly about the Rogers fund.

SALEM CRIPPLE TO ASK COMPENSATION FOR LIFE

An application to the State Industrial Accident Board to determine if the law providing life compensation for persons totally incapacitated in accidents can be applied to his case, will be filed at the request of Gov Curley by Joseph Nunes of Salem, a 40-year-old leather worker, who lost both hands a year ago while working at a machine.

Nunes went to Gov Curley's office yesterday for advice about the new law. Gov Curley advised him to ask for the ruling, and promised his cooperation. The Governor said the case indicated the injustice of the old law which allowed compensation in such cases for only 200 months.

FITZGERALD SPEAKS ON BOSTON'S DECLINE

"We Are Fast Driving Away Men With Money"

PROVIDENCE, Nov 6—John F. Fitzgerald, formerly Mayor of Boston, speaking at the meeting of the Propeller Club at the Hotel Biltmore last night, dwelt on the decline of the port of Boston from 1910, when 1,250,000 tons of merchandise was exported from Boston, to 1933, when the total export was only 166,000 tons.

"Downtown Boston itself furnishes a picture which should put all New England thinking," he said. "As recently as when I was Mayor property in that section was among the very highest priced in all the world. Now there are at least a dozen instances within a stone's throw of the Postoffice and City Hall where huge buildings have been torn down and the space is being used for parking autos. A few years ago these properties paid taxes on millions of valuation.

"Gov Curley has just returned from California, and he reports what we all know, that California is losing many of its leading industries and its wealthy citizens because of high taxes. We cannot invite them here, because we are going the same way. Instead of making it easy and profitable for men with money to locate factories here, we are fast driving away those that are here."

STATEMENTS BY LEADERS IN BOTH PARTIES

Republicans Outspokenly Jubilant — Democrats Inclined to Minimize Results

Leading Republicans were outspokenly jubilant today, while Democratic leaders were inclined to minimize, as far as possible, any implications that reversals suffered yesterday might have.

Here are statements made to the Globe this morning by leaders of both parties:

JOSEPH B. ELY, former Governor of the Commonwealth and outspoken Democratic critic of the New Deal—"Any feelings I have about yesterday's elections I'd better keep to myself. I don't think I had better say anything. Forgive me."

LEVERETT SALTONSTALL, Speaker of the House and candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor—"Damn good news! And a happy augury for the future."

CHARLES H. McGLUE, Gov Curley's campaign manager, former Democratic state chairman, and present member of the State Ballot Law Commission—"I don't think yesterday's elections indicate anything. I know the cities pretty well. They were all local fights. No, I'm not upset about it. If you know the cities as I do, you know those things just happen."

ROBERT T. BUSHNELL, president of the Republican Club, and frequently mentioned as a possible Republican nominee either for Governor or Attorney General—"The elections in Massachusetts are interesting, particularly in view of the statement the other night by our pseudo Huey Long that the Republican party was nothing but a shell, composed only of wearers of the royal purple. The results make one feel that Sinclair Lewis was right, 'It can't happen here.'

"The only danger to the Republican party is that the old crowd will feel that victory next year is so certain that anyone can win. The election shows that hard fighting can win in a just cause, but wrist-slapping and pink teas cannot.

"Every Massachusetts victory yesterday was due directly to a hard fighting candidate, backed by devoted groups of plain, ordinary people, so aroused by the disgraceful conditions in Massachusetts that they made up their minds they would carry the fight to the last trench. They can—and I believe they will—do the same thing throughout the state next year."

WARREN L. BISHOP, district attorney of Middlesex County and a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination: "The more or less Republican sweep makes things look very bright for next year, not only in Massachusetts, but in the rest of the country."

GASPAR G. BACON, former Lieutenant-Governor and Republican opponent of Gov Curley a year ago—"The evidence is very encouraging. People are very evidently turning against the New Deal all through the state. The same thing happened in New York State. Yesterday's election also went very distinctly against Mr Curley. Certainly that Worcester election must have been a blow."

JOSEPH E. WARNER, ex-Attorney General, and candidate for Governor in 1936—"Yesterday's elections confirm the evidence of the recent Essex and Maynard elections that the people of this Commonwealth desire a sound, economical, liberal Republican administration, not a government of profligate waste and empty promises. It is becoming more evident every day that with candidates truly representing the real interests of the people the Republican party will next year return to the helm in the state and nation."

CHARLES F. HURLEY, Treasurer and Receiver General of the Commonwealth—"Publicly I have nothing to say. I will admit that there were some surprises yesterday. I think our leaders ought to get together and agree on some program—a constructive program—during the next 12 months."

FRANK A. BROOKS of Watertown, member of the Governor's Council—"I was surprised and tremendously please. It just shows that you can go so far with the people, and then you have to call a halt."

REPRESENTATIVE HENRY CABOT LODGE JR of Beverly, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator—"The election here and in New York are a clear sign that people are as tired of impossible promises as they are of a smug inaction. They show a strong demand for honest administration and for concrete measures which obtain practical results."

THOMAS H. BUCKLEY, state auditor—"Although in many cases the results may be traced to local conditions, there was an obvious anti New Deal trend noticeable. I should say that it indicated Massachusetts dissatisfaction, in certain sections, with the national relief program."

DAWN BREAKING, FULLER SAYS

"Elections Evidence Curley Repudiated"

Ex-Gov Fuller, commenting today on the results of yesterday's elections, said:

"The prospect of Gov Curley being 'a dead cock in the pit' on election night appears to me to be extremely probable, as a result of the Republican elections yesterday.

"In Worcester the Curley legislative leader in the State Legislature, Kelley, backed by Curley, was overwhelmingly defeated. Worcester did have a Democratic Mayor, it has a Republican Mayor now. Somerville, which several years ago fell from grace by going over to the Democrats, elected a Republican Mayor. Somerville was Democratic, now it is Republican. Likewise Lowell and Everett chose Republican standard bearers to succeed Democrats, and so on down the list. The Democratic victory at Fitchburg was not a victory for the Democratic principles of Curley, but rather the high grade policies of Senator Coolidge's son-in-law, Mayor Greenwood.

The dawn is breaking in the East. The election returns offer incontrovertible evidence that Curley and the Curley marionettes are repudiated. As they were repudiated in Worcester, Somerville and way stations.

"It is time now for the Republicans to put their best foot forward, with candidates pledged to clean house and fumigate the premises. The political philosphy of Calvin Coolidge is due for a renaissance in Massachusetts politics. We must come nearer to the good old "Pay-as-you-go-Policy." The Republican party of Massachusetts mus torganize a real crusade to restore Massachusetts to its proud position of leadership and high standing among the states.

"With the right candidates, pledged to progressive policies, I believe that the Republicans can expect assistance fro ma host of Democrats and Independents who are thoroughly disgusted with "Curleyism."

CURLEY SAYS RESULTS "NOT UNEXPECTED"

Roosevelt Policies Not Yet in Operation, He Adds, Commenting on Election

Gov James M. Curley today said the outcome of yesterday's election "from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying." He said that results, both in the state and nation, were "not unexpected."

The Governor, who issued his statement on yesterday's election returns soon after he arrived at his offices in the State House, indicated that such Democratic reverses as were suffered yesterday came because "the policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put into operation at the present time."

The complete text of the Governor's statement follows:

"The outcome, both in the nation and state, was not unexpected, and contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying.

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly, have not been put into operation at the present time, and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generally throughout the country in yesterday's elections, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now, and will increase in volume during 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critic and opponent of President Roosevelt and his policies with prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

MAYOR IRWIN REELECTED BY MEDFORD VOTERS

MEDFORD, Nov 5—By the largest majority ever given a Mayoralty candidate, Mayor John J. Irwin was reelected by a 6154 margin over Ex-Mayor John J. Burke at the nonpartisan election today. The vote was Irwin 13,583, and Burke 7429.

Mayor Irwin carried 22 out of 23 precincts in the city, losing only the home precinct of Ex-Mayor Burke by 96 votes.

Medford born, Mayor Irwin is 42 years old. He is a lawyer, served 11 years on the Water and Sewer Commission and seven in the Masachusetts House. In his last House term he was also Mayor.

Mayor Irwin is a Republican and Burke a Democrat. Burke has been intimately aligned with Roosevelt, Gov Curley and United States Marshal John J. Murphy of Somerville. Burke is a deputy marshal. Mayor Irwin defeated Burke for reelection two years ago.

Mayor Irwin was in a unique position in the campaign because he didn't make one, staying at the bedside of his brother, Eugene, who is seriously ill. The Mayor's friends were very active, however. He made no speeches.

EDUCATION WEEK'S OBSERVANCE ASKED

Gov Curley Calls for Home, School Programs

Exercises in schools and homes were requested yesterday in a proclamation by Gov Curley setting aside next week as American Education Week, which will be observed throughout the country. The proclamation said:

"The schools of Massachusetts have been established by the people in order that there may be assured to the Commonwealth and to the nation a citizenship well fitted to discharge adequately the responsibilities that are an inherent part of democratic government. It is most essential to the future welfare of the republic that the schools shall not only help our youth to acquire wisdom, but that they shall also develop within them complete loyalty to the ideals and institutions of the United States of America.

"Massachusetts was one of the first states to establish a free school and its people have a right to be proud of a school system which, for three centuries, has reflected their devotion to the cause of education. The highest efficiency of the schools will be promoted only through the continued interest of parents and citizens, and it is a solemn responsibility that rests upon all our people to give serious thought and study to every proposal that promises better education for the youth of our land.

"Therefore, in order that we may focus our attention upon the interests and problems of our schools, I call to the attention of the citizens of the Commonwealth the occurrence of the 15th annual American Education Week which will be observed throughout the nation from Nov 11 to 17.

"Chapter 96 of the Acts of 1935 provides that the Governor shall annually issue a proclamation calling for the proper observance of American Education Week as a period for special attention to the work of our schools, and in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, I, James M. Curley, Governor of the Commonwealth, do hereby designate and set apart the week Nov 11 to 17 as American Education Week and I earnestly request that citizens and parents take advantage of this opportunity to bring about a more widespread understanding and encouragement of one of the most fundamental enterprises of a free people, that of the education of its future generation."

BAY STATE WANTS NEW HAVEN TRUSTEE

Will Ask Court Today to Make Appointment

Appointment of a resident of Massachusetts as one of the trustees of the New Haven Railroad will be urged upon the United States District Court in New Haven when that body takes up today the petition of the road for reorganization under the Bankruptcy act.

The company recently availed itself of this law in an effort to rehabilitate its finances.

Announcement of the step to be proposed by the state of Massachusetts was made yesterday afternoon by Atty Gen Dever after a conference with Gov Curley at which the Governor directed the Attorney General to intervene.

Of the 1,571,186 shares of common stock of the road 440,434, or 20 percent, are owned in Massachusetts and of the 490,367 preferred 101,688, or 21¾ percent, are the property of investors in this state. A large proportion is held by savings banks here.

Of the $4,235,985 taxes paid by the company on its railroad property $1,422,563, or 33½ percent, is contributed in Massachusetts.

In addition to the desire of the Massachusetts authorities to protect Bay State interests in the proposed reorganization through the appointment of a trustee who is a resident of Massachusetts it is felt that such a person would have in mind the continuance of the present service given by the road in the state.

SWORN IN BY GOV CURLEY

Stockwell Took Oath as Member of House

Representative William Stockwell, Republican elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives from the 10th Middlesex District, was sworn into office by Gov Curley just before the Council meeting opened this afternoon.

Mr Stockwell was elected in a special election Oct 29 to succeed Representative Frank C. Sheridan, Democrat, who resigned to accept appointment as postmaster of Maynard. Representative Stockwell himself was postmaster of Maynard for 12 years prior to Sheridan's appointment.

The new member of the House was escorted to the Council chamber by Speaker Leverett Saltonstall and Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook. The Speaker introduced the new Representative to the Governor, who then administered the oath of office.

At the conclusion of the brief ceremony, Gov Curley said: "Thank you very much, Mr Stockwell. I wish you success in office."

COOKSON AHEAD IN WORCESTER

Kelley, With Backing of Curley, 4704 Behind

Republican Mayor Indicated After Four Years

Special Dispatch to the Globe

WORCESTER, Nov 5—Thirty-eight precincts of 66 at 11 o'clock tonight incidate that the Republicans have recaptured the Mayoralty from the Democrats, who have had it for four years. The 38 precincts give Walter J. Cookson, Republican 20,271; Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democrat, 15,567.

For alderman-at-large C. Vernon Inett, Republican, has 19,734, and Harold D. Donohue 15,465. For school committee-at-large, Mrs Emily C. Bjorkman, Republican has 19,327, and Cornelius S. Donoghue, Democrat, 15,615. These figures indicate a Republican victory by between 3000 and 4000 votes.

Cookson declared that the issue was "home rule for Worcester" because Kelley, as floor leader in the House of Representatives, was getting support from Gov Curley. Kelley, in his compaign, promised that he would bring lower tax rates.

Most of the wards counted were Republican wards, but supporters of Cookson claim that he is running on the average 130 votes per precinct ahead of the figures in the municipal election two years ago in which Mayor John C. Mahoney, D, carried the city by 7500 votes.

The results from six of the 66 precincts gave C. Vernon Inett, Republican, a lead over Harold D. Donahue, Democrat, for Alderman-at-Large, and Mrs Evelyn C. Bjorkmah, Republican, a lead over Cornelius S. Donoghue, Democrat, for the School Committee.

BAKER TO BE NAMED TO JUDGESHIP TODAY

Curley Also Expected to Appoint Burdick Councilor

Gov Curley today will nominate Executive Councilor Joshua Arthur Baker, Republican, of Pittsfield as justice of the Superior Court, to succeed the late Judge Frederick J. Macleod, he announced yesterday.

The career of Councilor Baker in the Council has been turbulent since the days preceding his decision to allow the Council to become Democratic by refusing to cast the vote which would have blocked the Governor's appointment of Philip J. Russell.

Gov Curley is expected to fill Baker's place in the Council by the appointment of Morton Henry Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, whom Baker defeated for the post at the last election.

Burdick's appointment is not expected until Baker is confirmed to the judgeship. Under a Council rule, which cannot be suspended, all judicial appointments are required to go over for a week.

Councilor Baker is the second Republican named to a high state office by Gov Curley following his support in the Council of the chief executive. The other was Edmond Cote of Fall River, who was made chairman of the Finance Commission of that city by the Governor in the early morning hours that followed prorogation of the last Legislature.

Confirmation of Baker and Burdick are expected when the Council acts on the appointments. The induction of Burdick will give the Democratic party a 6 to 3 majority in the Council.

Gov Curley indicated last night that he will have other appointments to submit to the Council today but declined to reveal what they will be, except to say he will attempt to take care of matters which accumulated in his absence in Hawaii.

The Governor said yesterday that he has not discussed the appointment to the judgeship with Councilor Baker, since his return, but he is confident that it will be acceptable to Baker.

BOWKER "THANKS" CURLEY FOR NAMING BAKER JUDGE

Representative Philip G. Bowker of Brookline made the following statement today on Gov Curley's nomination of Executive Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the Superior Court bench:

"Gov Curley in nominating Councilor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican Party. The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the Governor. In clearing our ranks of these undesirables his Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"For those who take the "thirty pieces of silver" we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and show their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats, His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The Governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

REPUBLICANS SWEEP CITIES; NEW DEAL REBUKED IN TEST

SOMERVILLE VOTERS OUST MAYOR HAGAN

GLOBE

Record Majority for Greenwood in Fitchburg—G.O.P. Sweeps Lowell

MAYORS ELECTED

CAMBRIDGE—John D. Lynch by 49 votes.
EVERETT—Frank E. Lewis by 2082 votes.
FITCHBURG—Mayor Robert E. Greenwood by 4213 votes.
LOWELL—Dewey G. Archambeault (R) by about 2500 votes.
LYNN—Mayor J. Fred Manning by 9911 votes.
MARLBORO—Mayor Charles A. Lyons by 345 votes.
MEDFORD—Mayor James J. Irwin by 6154 votes.
PITTSFIELD—Mayor Allen H. Bagg by 875 votes.
SOMERVILLE—Leslie E. Knox by 1344 votes.
SPRINGFIELD—Mayor Henry Martens (R) by 5197 votes.
WALTHAM—Mayor Frederick L. MacDonald by 2242 votes.
WORCESTER—Walter J. Cookson (R) by 2124 votes.

Massachusetts cities swung back toward their traditional Republicanism yesterday, as voters in Worcester and Lowell replaced Democratic mayors with Republicans, and the G. O. P. easily won the only other partisan contest of the day in Springfield.

A further Republican victory was evident in Somerville, where Leslie E. Knox, runner-up at the primary, ousted Mayor James E. Hagan. Somerville's election was non-partisan in name only, as it was only the second non-partisan election in the city's history. The vote was definitely divided with Republicans aligned with Knox and Democrats with Hagan.

Heavy votes were polled as elections were held in 12 cities in addition to Boston. Closest contest of the day was that in Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, winner of the primary election, led John W. Lyons, city council president, by only 49 votes in the first, unofficial figures.

The Worcester election, regarded as a clear test of the strength of Gov. Curley with the voters of the largest single section of Central Massachusetts, was won by Walter J. Cookson, Republican, by 2124 votes.

Cookson's campaign cry was that a vote for his opponent, Edward J. Kelley, was a vote for "Curleyism." The slogan's victory was regarded as forthright proof that aid extended Kelley during the early campaign by the Governor's supporters was a boomerang to the Democratic candidate.

Coupled with the re-election of Mayor Henry Martens in Springfield was the regaining of the board of aldermen by the Republicans with the election of eight of their candidates. The G. O. P. increased its majority in the city council membership.

Mayor James A. Roche of Everett was defeated for re-election by Frank E. Lewis, young alderman. Roche, like Hagan in Somerville, was thus refused a second term. Lewis won by 2082 votes from the Everett mayor, a Republican who supported Gov. Curley in the 1934 election.

GREENWOOD RE-ELECTED

Fitchburg voters gave their critically injured mayor, Robert E. Greenwood, son-in-law of United States Senator Marcus Coolidge, the largest plurality ever accorded a candidate for mayor in that city. Greenwood, in such dangerous condition that physicians at the Boston City Hospital declined to awaken him from sleep to tell him of his victory, overwhelmed Dr. Joseph N. Carriere, former mayor, by 4213 votes.

While Greenwood now has the record for a Fitchburg plurality, his father-in-law good-humoredly admitted last night that he has the lowest, having been elected mayor of Fitchburg by 16 votes several years ago.

Mayors John J. Irwin of Medford, Frederick L. MacDonald of Waltham and J. Fred Manning of Lynn were re-elected without difficulty, with Manning and Irwin piling up the largest pluralities of the day. The Lynn mayor was re-elected to his fourth term without bothering to make a single campaign speech.

In Lowell, Dewey C. Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democratic city treasurer, to climax a long series of bickerings in which the Republican charged that his Democratic opponent had made illegal payments in the street department. The Republicans registered substantial gains in the minor city offices.

In Pittsfield, where a non-partisan primary had nominated two Republicans, Mayor Allen H. Bagg defeated his fellow member of the party, Alfred C. Daniels, by 875 votes.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons became the first Marlboro mayor to be elected to a third successive term when he defeated Paul F. Shaughnessy there. Shaughnessy showed surprising strength, losing to the mayor by only 345 votes.

G. O. P. Victories in Bay State Repudiation of Gov. Curley

Cities Democrats Carried by Generous Margins in 1934 State Elections Turn Definitely To Republicans—Lowell Outstanding Case

By W. E. MULLINS

Republicans generally emerged from yesterday's Massachusetts municipal elections with unexpected gains. They reclaimed the office of mayor in three Democratic strongholds and yielded none of their own mayoralties.

Although the Republicans were optimistic about their chances of beating Representative Edward J. Kelley for mayor in Worcester their success in electing Dewey G. Archambault in Lowell and Leslie E. Knox in Somerville was far in excess of all expectations.

NO CONSOLATION FOR CURLEY

Nowhere was there any consolation for Gov. Curley and his supporters. The Democratic defeats were too extensive to be charged up to local conditions. The voters generally were in no mood to compromise with those on friendly terms with the state administration.

Probably the best example of this attitude was that expressed in Everett, where Mayor James A. Roche, who bolted Gaspar Bacon to support Gov. Curley last November, was beaten by Fred E. Lewis.

In the neighboring city of Medford, Mayor John J. Irwin defeated former Mayor John H. Burke, Democrat who had associated himself in the past with Curley activities.

Cities that were carried by generous margins by Gov. Curley in the 1934 state election went definitely Republican yesterday. The outstanding instance of this character was in Lowell. The Governor won that city by more than 11,000 votes last year, carrying it almost 2-1 and the Democratic candidate was beaten for mayor.

In Worcester the Republicans made the Governor's work and wages program their chief issue. They charged that the election of Representative Kelley, the Democratic House floor leader and regarded generally as the Governor's spokesman in the Legislature, would result in domination from Beacon Hill.

The result was clear cut. Two years ago Mayor John C. Mahoney was re-elected by 7200 votes and yesterday Walter J. Cookson's victory was so extensive that the Republicans were restored to complete control of the entire city government.

The defeat of Mayor James E. Hagan in Somerville is partly explained by a rebellion against him in his own party, but the city's Democrats should have been sufficiently strong to have overcome that.

In the 1934 election the Governor carried Worcester by nearly 2300 votes. He won Lowell by more than 11,000 votes. Somerville went for him by 5400 votes. Medford was his by more than 1000 votes. He defeated Bacon in Everett by 2500 votes. Yesterday each of these cities elected a Republican mayor.

HITS "RENEGADES"

Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., of Boston hailed the results in general as a rebuke of "renegade Republicans" and a warning to the Governor that performances and not promises are what count in Massachusetts. His statement follows:

"Neither the ingenuity nor the brass of Curley or his mouthpieces can explain away the results of yesterday's elections. They speak for themselves.

"A party which promises everything and produces nothing is on its way down to defeat. The people will not stand for it.

"Districts which for the past few years were Democratic have come to their senses. They have gone Republican. The rank and file realize there is a vast difference between promise and performance.

"The trip to Hawaii may have produced some sun tan for Curley, but it has not produced work and wages for Massachusetts citizens.

"Mr. Curley must now realize there are no votes in rewarding renegade Republicans."

'HEARING FROM PEOPLE'

Vernon W. Marr of Scituate, chairman of the Republican state committee, said, "You are hearing today from the people who are paying the bills."

While the Lowell upset was probably the greatest surprise the chief interest from a state-wide point of view was focussed on the Worcester election because of the close political associations between the Governor and Representative Kelley.

This interest was reflected in the number of telephone inquiries about the election results. The vast majority of these calls were from observers seeking the result of the Worcester mayoralty.

KELLEY BEATEN IN WORCESTER

Cookson's Plurality Over Curley Candidate Expected to Exceed 3000

G. O. P. SWEEPING OTHER CONTESTS

[Special Dispatch to The Herald]

WORCESTER, Nov. 5—A Republican sweep in today's municipal election gave the office of mayor to Walter J. Cookson by a margin of 2124 votes over Representative Edward J. Kelley, the candidate supported by Gov. Curley. Total returns from 66 precincts were: Cookson 36,219 and Kelley 34,094.

So extensive was the Republican tide that it produced the reelection of Alderman-at-large C. Vernon Inett and resulted in the ousting of Prof. Cornelius Donoghue from the office of school committee-member-at-large.

Inett defeated Harold D. Donohue, Democrat, by 1340 votes, while Prof Donoghue was beaten by Mrs. Evelyn Bjorkman, Republican, by 287 votes.

The Republicans also reclaimed an aldermanic seat in ward 7, where William A. Bennett was elected by 296 votes. The Republicans will take control of the entire city government.

The Republican triumph represented a clear-cut turnover of 9700 votes in a comparison with the 1933 election returns which re-elected Mayor John C. Mahoney, Democrat, by 7593. Mahoney was defeated by Kelley in the Democratic primary.

Curleyism was the chief issue throughout the campaign. Kelley employed the Governor's work-and-wages slogan, and the Republicans took up this challenge. The ward returns indicate that hundreds of Democrats joined with the Republicans in repudiating Gov. Curley's attempt to dominate this city from Beacon Hill.

Although Mahoney publicly supported Kelley, it was evident from the returns that hundreds of his followers refused to join with him in the attempt to elect his primary election conqueror.

Outside participation in today's election was disclosed by the use of scores of motor cars with Boston registrations by the Kelley forces. A plot of state-owned land at Mulbery and East Central streets was used as the headquarters for despatching these motor cars to the various precincts to transport voters to the polls.

GLOBE

Kelley's defeat was indicated from the earliest returns. The first two precincts to report showed a net gain of 422 votes for the Republican candidate over the 1933 returns. This proportion subsequently was reduced but not sufficient to alter the final outcome.

Kelley did not indicate tonight whether or not he would seek a recount.

Changes in State Dept. Heads Seen As Curley Gets Firmer Grip on Council

Gov. Curley's anticipated nomination of Morton H. Burdick of West Springfield to succeed J. Arthur Baker of Pittfield as member of the executive council is generally regarded by political observers as the final step in the Governor's plan to exercise complete domination over the council in the general dismissal of department heads slated for next month. The Governor already has indicated publicly that he will nominate Councillor Baker today for the seat on the superior court bench that was vacated by the recent death of Judge Frederick J. Macleod of Brookline.

The tenures of 19 important officeholders will expire within the next few weeks. With the confirmation of Burdick as Baker's successor, the political line-up of the council will be shifted from a 5-to-4 Republican majority early this year to a 6-to-3 Democratic majority.

There was wide speculation yesterday that the new line-up not only will result in the refusal to reappoint numerous present department heads, but also that it will result in the ousting of a few present commissioners, chiefly Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the metropolitan district commission.

Officeholders whose tenures expire between now and Dec. 15 follow:

Edward Fisher of Lowell, associate commissioner of labor and industries.

James M. Hurley of Marlboro, commissioner of civil service.

Arthur T. Lyman of Westwood, commissioner of correction.

Tony A. Garofano of Saugus, board of registration of barbers.

J. Fred Becket of Fall River, state housing board.

Fred W. Jenness of Lowell, commissioner on firemen's relief.

Edgar L. Gillett of Canton, agriculture commissioner.

Lt.-Col. Paul G. Kirk of Newton, public safety commissioner.

Samuel A. York of Chesterfield, conservation commissioner.

Raymond J. Kenney of Belmont, fish and game director.

Dr. Payson Smith of Brookline, education commissioner.

Joseph B. Jacobs of Brookline, metropolitan district commissioner.

Henry G. Wells of Haverhill, public utilities commissioner.

Brig.-Gen. Richard K. Hale of Brookline, associate public works commissioner.

Charles F. Connors of Boston, state racing commission chairman.

Richard K. Conant of Lincoln, public welfare commissioner.

Maj. George J. Cronin of Boston, state purchasing agent.

Henry F. Long of Topsfield, tax commissioner.

The term of William D. Desmond of Stoneham as state supervisor of marine fisheries expired three weeks ago and action on his status may be taken at today's session of the executive council.

When the Governor attempted to remove Hultman from the metropolitan district commission chairmanship last spring, he encountered the solid opposition of the five Republicans serving at that time and also lacked the support of two Democrats, Councillors James J. Brennan of Somerville and William G. Hennessey of Lynn.

With the three Republicans still remaining in the council—Winfield A. Schuster of East Douglas, Frank A. Brooks of Watertown and Joseph B. Grossman of Quincy—a majority could be organized against the Governor provided they had the support of Councillors Hennessey and Brennan.

These two Democrats have displayed independent tendencies on occasion, but in general they have voted for the Governor's proposals.

Today's council session will be the first at which the Governor will have been present since late in September when he left for his trip to Honolulu.

Prospects that the Governor might encounter some difficulty in obtaining confirmation for Councillor Baker as superior court justice loomed last night when it was indicated that Councillors Brennan and Hennessey were disposed to insist that the judicial vacancy go to a Democrat.

It was reported that they would voice their objections to the appointment of a Republican when they arrive at the State House this morning. They were prepared to urge the Governor to consider the qualifications for the superior court of Special Justice Leo P. Doherty of the Boston municipal court before nominating a Republican.

MASS. MAN URGED AS R.R. TRUSTEE

Appointment of a Massachusetts resident as one of the trustees of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad will be urged upon the United States district court in New Haven when that court today takes up the petition of the road for reorganization under the provisions of the federal bankruptcy act, Atty.-Gen. Dever announced yesterday, following a conference with Gov. Curley.

In addition to the desire of Massachusetts authorities to protect the financial interests of citizens of the state when the company is reorganized, it was felt that the presence of a Massachusetts trustee would help to insure for the commonwealth a continuance of the present service given by the road.

REPUBLICAN VICTORIES

The voters of Massachusetts have found their bearings again. They have echoed the rousing verdict with which Rhode Island electrified the country. The enthusiasm for the New Deal and the New Dealers has died down. The outlook for a resumption of decency in Massachusetts and of common sense in the nation at large is brighter this morning than at any previous time since Mr. Roosevelt went to the White House.

There is no possibility of misunderstanding the outcome of the elections yesterday. After all proper allowances are made for personalities and strictly local issues, there is a definite, heavy net gain for the Republicans. It indicates that the revolt against the New Deal which first became apparent a few months ago is continuing, and perhaps with additional momentum.

In New York, the Republicans have regained control of the Assembly from the Democrats and by a comfortable margin. The eyes of the country were on this contest, New York being the home state of the President and his postmaster-general. Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt Democrats joined in the effort to give the Democratic Governor a Democratic Legislature. With this state swinging over to the Republicans, there is every reason to believe that other states which temporarily deserted the Republicans will follow the lead.

Here in Massachusetts the results were even more significant and decisive than in New York.

In Worcester, the Curley candidate, E. J. Kelley, ran on a Curley work-and-wages platform. He appealed in the Democratic primaries for support from the Curley wing of the party. The fight yesterday was an out-and-out battle for endorsement or repudiation of Gov. Curley. Moreover, Mr. Kelley has been recognized in the Legislature as the spokesman of the state Democracy. The present Democratic mayor of Worcester was elected by a majority of 7200. Candidate Kelley has lost by more than 2500. His defeat, and the success of Mr. Cookson, the Republican, were the most severe rebuke which the Governor has received since taking office.

And Somerville, also! That city has been Democrat and had a Democratic mayor for six successive years. Mr. Curley carried it last November by 5400. Now it has gone Republican by 1200. Lowell has done likewise. As in Worcester, the voters became disgusted at the spectacles which have characterized Beacon Hill in the last ten months. This is the first real opportunity they have had to let others know what they think of the proceedings which centered on the Governor.

The darkness which precedes the dawn is at last turning to gray. Those citizens of Massachusetts who have been alarmed at the recent tendencies in the state and nation have reason to feel less disturbed this morning. Those millions who have been fearful of what might develop in Washington should also be less concerned. One year after the great congressional victory of the New Deal, and one year in advance of the presidential election, the evidence indicates a strong drift away from the New Deal and the New Dealers, local and national. That is the great significance of what took place yesterday in Massachusetts and New York.

POOR TACTICS

The Republican victory in Worcester, where a Democratic majority of more than 7000 was turned into a Republican majority of around 2000 was due in great part to the foolish strategy of Democratic State committee leaders in invading the city to tell Worcester voters what they should do. There was no sense in turning a purely local contest into a fight over the State administration.

The Essex senatorial contest and the recent election in the Hudson-Maynard district, where the State committee intervened with disastrous results, should have taught a lesson.

But the folly was repeated in Worcester with outside speakers, outside money and outside advertising, all calculated to irritate local voters.

This gave the Republican forces the excuse that the election was a referendum on the administration of Governor Curley.

Had they allowed the Democratic candidate to make his own fight on his own issues he would have made a better showing.

WORCESTER IN G. O. P. RANKS

Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democrat, Is Defeated by W. J. Cookson for Mayor on Curley Issue

WALTER J. COOKSON
Worcester Republican apparently elected Mayor yesterday.

REP. E. J. KELLEY
Defeated yesterday for Mayor of Worcester.

WORCESTER, Nov. 5—Republicans swept back into control of the city in today's election, when Walter J. Cookson, running on an anti-Curley issue, defeated Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democrat, by a majority of 2124.

The victory of Cookson was brought about by a united Republican party in the city. Ever since the defeat of Mayor John C. Mahoney in the Democratic primary by Representative Kelley, who is the Democratic floor leader and spokesman for Governor Curley on the floor of the House, the Republican organization in the city has raised the cry that the election of Kelley would mean Curley control of the city.

The final figures were: Cookson, 36,219; Kelley, 34,095.

The Kelley forces were largely responsible for the raising of the Curley issue, for in that primary fight many of the supporters of the Governor from Boston came into the city and helped to bring about the defeat of Mayor Mahoney for the Democratic nomination.

In the campaign which followed Kelley's nomination, Mr. Cookson and his supporters accepted the challenge and set their fight on the ground that Mr. Kelley, if elected, would have to accept dictation from Governor Curley and would not be free to conduct the affairs of the city on his own account. This "home rule for Worcester" issue was emphasized throughout the fight. The Kelley forces sought to ridicule it—without success.

That issue helped to solidify the Republican vote to a greater extent than for years. The Swedish-American voters, who constitute a large proportion of the electorate, have been "off the reservation," so far as the Republicans have been concerned, for years. The defeat of one of their leaders, Roland S. D. Frodigh, for Mayor by Mr. Mahoney, caused unusual soreness on their part, and they have turned against the Republican organization in recent years.

Swing Back in Line

In today's contest, however, they swung strongly back into line for Cookson. The first three precincts to report came from the precincts which are recognized as those in which the Swedish-American voters are centered. They showed a strong vote for Cookson, and from that time on as other Republican sections reported, it was recognized that the Republicans were more united than in recent years.

The Republican precincts today showed voting strength far greater than ever before, and while the Democratic strongholds held up well for Mr. Kelley, it was the turning out of Republicans in increased numbers which contributed most to the rolling up of a vote in the city of well over 70,000, out of a total registration of about 83,000.

The victory of Mr. Cookson carried along the Republican candidate for alderman-at-large, and C. Vernon Inett defeated Harold D. Donohue, recognized throughout the State as one of the leading Democrats of this city. Mrs. Evelyn C. Bjorkman, Republican, defeated Professor Cornelius S. Donoghue, Democrat, for school committeeman-at-large in the only other city-wide contest of the day.

The Republicans, according to early morning returns, retained complete control of the Board of Aldermen and the council by increased margins.

Joseph Nunes of 30 Lafayette street, Salem, who lost both hands while operating a leather machine 11 months ago, yesterday appealed to Governor Curley to determine whether he is entitled to workmen's compensation for life, instead of for the period of 200 months provided for under the law as it existed at the time of the accident.

Nunes is married and has two children. He is totally incapacitated for any work requiring use of the hands, and the Governor directed that an opinion be secured from the State Industrial Accident Board as to whether the act passed at the last session of the Legislature, permitting payments for life, would be made retroactive and apply in the case of Mr. Nunes.

BY JAMES G. COLBERT

Rolling up tremendous votes in a record field of 29 candidates, Maurice J. Tobin, former chairman, and Dr. Charles E. Mackey, present chairman, were re-elected yesterday to the Boston school committee with overwhelming pluralities.

Henry J. Smith of Brighton was elected to the third place on the school board, defeating Representative George Demeter of the Back Bay, Republican, by about 1100 votes.

BIG VOTE FOR TOBIN

School Committeeman Maurice J. Tobin received one of the biggest votes in his career to top the ticket, while Dr. Mackey, in second place, had twice as many as his nearest competitor.

Joseph G. Sullivan of Roxbury was in fifth position, John C. Flaherty of Dorchester was sixth, Nyman H. Kolodny was seventh, and all the others were hopelessly out of the running.

There were several upsets in the City Council contests, which saw the election of James J. Mellen of Ward 2, Charlestown, to succeed Councillor Thomas H. Green and former Representative James J. Kilroy of Roxbury to take the place of Councillor Edward L. Englert of Ward 11.

Former Representative Peter J. Fitzgerald will succeed Councillor Joseph McGrath in Ward 13, Dorchester. Neither McGrath nor Green were candidates for re-election, but the Green organization in Charlestown had attempted to defeat Mellen.

Hendrick's Club Victory

One of the smashing victories of the election was rung up by the Hendricks Club, which for 50 years about dominated politics in the West End under the leadership of the late Martin M. Lomasney. The organization tottered on a political stage for the past two years as a result of defections in its ranks, but it came back yesterday united and rolled up a tremendous majority to send its president, John I. Fitzgerald, back to the City Council for a sixth term.

In Roxbury's famous Tammany ward, which has usually been the battleground of the bitterest campaigns in other years, was absolutely quiet yesterday. City Councillor John F. Dowd, former president of the body, had no opposition in the Ward 8 district for the first time in years, and he was re-elected by virtual acclamation.

Ward Five First to Report

The first voting district to report was Precinct 9 of Ward 5, located in the vestry of the First Baptist Church at Commonwealth avenue and Clarendon street, Back Bay. This district showed strength of City Councillor Henry L. Shattuck and a group of his associates, including State Senator Henry Parkman, who delivered the Republican vote.

Not only did Shattuck top his single opponent, Stephen C. Sullivan, by a margin of 12 to 1, but he succeeded in carrying the school committee which his group endorsed.

Both Representative George Demeter, lone Republican, and Henry J. Smith, investment broker, ran far ahead of the other school board aspirants in this voting place. But the Republican voters failed to support as strongly J. Arthur Moriarty, labor leader, who was the third man on the Back Bay slate. Moriarty was third here but he was closely pressed by Maurice J. Tobin, present school committee member.

City Councillor Martin H. Tobin was assured of returning to City Hall for a second term through his victory over John B. Kelly in Ward 15, Dorchester. Kelly had the vigorous support of his brother, former City Councillor Francis E. Kelly, who four years ago carried the ward for himself even after Governor Curley, then Mayor of the city, had taken the stump against him. But two years ago Councillor Tobin broke Kelly's hold on the district and retired him from city government.

Surprise Defeat for Green

Probably the most surprising upset of the day was the overthrow of Councillor Thomas H. Green and his organization, which has controlled Charlestown for more than a quarter of a century. While not a candidate for re-election himself, Councillor Green sought to name his successor in the city government. He picked Attorney John P. Doherty and marshaled to his support the forces of practically all the other political machines in the district, including that of State Senator Joseph A. Langone.

But a young Harvard graduate, James J. Mellen, son of the late Senator James J. Mellen, who until his death a few months ago had been a vigorous champion of Bunker Hill, yesterday shattered the political machines in the district and helped to establish a new one by winning the Council seat by more than 1700 votes.

Only a few friends known to the voters actively supported him during the campaign, chiefly Frederick R. Sullivan, member of the Boston school committee, and Representative James J. Kiley. But his neighbors last night staged a big reception for him at his home at 18 Tremont street, in celebration of his victory in his first bid for public office, following in the footsteps of his late father.

Councillor Englert Beaten

Another big upset came in Ward 11, comprising parts of Roxbury and Jamaica Plain. Here former Representative James J. Kilroy topped the ticket in defeating City Councillor Edward L. Englert, who was seeking a fifth term.

The margin of victory for Kilroy was over 1000 votes. Kilroy served one term in the House of Representatives, winning election to the House on his debut in politics. Francis A. Doyle was third.

Big Vote for Fitzgerald

In Boston's downtown ward, out of a total of 8349 votes cast, President John I. Fitzgerald polled 5714, or over 3000 more than the combined total of his four opponents. His nearest challenger, James Penta of the North End, received 1363.

Republican Ward 4, Back Bay stronghold of Attorney Charles H. Innes, stood by the organization in re-electing Councillor George W. Roberts by a margin of more than 3 to 1. Roberts polled 3662 votes in a two-man with his Democrat opponent, M. Martin Gouldey, who attracted but 1207 voters to his banner.

In the neighboring Back Bay district, Ward 5, Councillor Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of Harvard University, had no trouble in defeating former Representative Stephen C. Sullivan, also a Republican, who recently moved into the district from East Boston. Councillor Shattuck, supported by a strong citizens' committee of outstanding leaders, rolled up a total of 3281 votes, while the best that his former colleague in the Legislature could poll was 941.

In Mayor Mansfield's home district, Ward 12 of Roxbury, his staunchest supporter in the Council, David M. Brackman swamped all of his opponents as he polled 4872 votes, about 1000 more than his three rivals. Rudolph B. Thornton was second with 1269, while Anthony A. Kerrigan trailed in third place with 329, and Edward F. Smith brought up at the rear of the quartet with 271.

Fitzgerald for McGrath's Place

In place of Chairman Joseph McGrath of the Democratic State committee, who will retire from the City Council in January, the voters of Ward 13, Dorchester, elected former Representative Peter J. Fitzgerald. With McGrath out of the fight and taking no part in the contest, Councillor-elect Fitzgerald won by nearly 1000 votes. He rolled up a total of 3377 and was followed by Francis X. McInnis, who had 2395. Third was James M. Costello with 570, and David Thompson received 393. The new councillor served his ward in the Legislature from 1925 to 1928 and again in 1931 and 1932.

Although his home ward is strongly Democratic, Councillor Gardiner Wilson, Republican leader in the body, was re-elected to a fifth term in the City Council by a tremendous margin. Councillor Wilson polled more votes in the Democratic district than did his four opponents combined, receiving 4736 votes as compared to 3430 for William J. Keenan, the runner-up who had the support of the Mansfield workers in the section. Henry L. Askin was third with 455, Lawrence Williams fourth with 415, and Francis X. Cotter trailed with 325.

Goldman Group Loses

Councillor Maurice M. Goldman of Ward 14, Dorchester, who did not seek another term, as he decided to devote his time to his new post as Assistant Attorney-General, and his old Ward 14 organization, which includes Representative Bernard Finkelstein and most of the other leaders, were given a severe trouncing in yesterday's balloting.

All were behind Charles Kaplan to take Goldman's place in the Council, but they were overturned, as Sidney Rosenberg won out in a six-man fight—to win with a plurality of about 500 votes, as Kaplan trailed in second place.

Finley Wins Hard Fight

Although one of the most vigorous and active Council fights in the entire city was staged in Ward 20, Roslindale and West Roxbury, and political experts had looked for a very close vote, Councillor James F. Finley emerged a victor by a margin of 1546 over his closest rival.

Keen interest in the six-man battle was shown by the total of 11,253 votes that were cast, Councillor Finley received a total of 3588 votes while his nearest rival, Clifford C. Barton, Roslindale legion official, was second with 2342, finishing higher than Eric A. Nelson, president of the Real Estate Owners' and Tenants' League, and Dennis E. Sullivan, Jr., who had been expected to provide the sternest opposition for Finley. Nelson rolled up a total 2339 votes, while Sullivan in fourth place attracted 2248 voters. Jeremiah J. McCarthy and Richard M Welch trailed well back in fifth and sixth positions, receiving 226 and 21[illegible] votes, respectively.

Re-elect Selvitella

Councillor Henry Selvitella of East Boston was re-elected for a second term, winning by a margin of 1200 votes over former Representative James S. Coffey. The remainder of the field trailed well back. Selvitella polled 5185 votes, as compared to 3985 for Coffey. Warren F. Fenlon was third, with 1600. Then came Francis E. McIntyre, with 513. Pasquale Del Grosso, with 451, and Michael Di Pesa, with 183.

Donovan Loses in South Boston

In the closest council fight on the list, George A. Murray, who has been active in South Boston politics for a number of years, defeated Councillor George P. Donovan by the slim margin of 30 votes. Councillor Donovan, who was seeking a second term, announced that he would demand a recount. Although Murray has been prominent in the political field for many years this is his first bid for election. He polled 2713 votes to 2683 for Donovan to provide one of the day's most surprising upsets.

McGrath Defeats Fish

John J. McGrath, prominent for many years in athletic circles and now in the real estate and insurance business in Dorchester, defeated the bid for re-election of Councillor Albert L. Fish by 493 votes. McGrath rolled up a total of 4435 to 3942 for Fish, Daniel T. Galvin was in third place, with 2373, and Frank J. Mitchell trailed well back, with only 242.

One of the overwhelming victories of the day was achieved by Councillor John E. Kerrigan of Ward 7, in South Boston, who defeated Patrick J. Connelly, his only opponent, by a vote of 6155 to 2120.

Norton and Murray Win

Councillor Peter A. Murray of Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, rolled up an easy victory in Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, defeating William J. McHale, 4-1. Councillor Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park, one of Mayor Mansfield's arch-rivals in the City Council, also had no difficulty in holding his seat.

In the Ward 10 section of Roxbury Councillor John J. Doherty defeated former Councillor Leo F. Power by a margin of almost 2 to 1, polling 3564 votes to 1921 for Power. Peter J. Graham was third with 1208, while John E. Murphy and Edward J. Dalton were far behind.

Councillor Edward M. Gallagher, seeking re-election in Ward 22, Brighton, received unexpected stiff opposition from Edward C. Madden. Gallagher polled 4693 votes to 3515 for Madden. In Ward 21, Allston, Councillor James E. Agnew won by about 700 votes, receiving 2654 to 1962 for Francis J. R. Driscoll.

BREAKS RECORD

Mayor Manning of Lynn Again Elected, Two to One—Defeats Ex-Mayor McPhetres

Breaking all long tenure records, Mayor J. Fred Manning was re-elected as Lynn's chief executive last night by an overwhelming majority over Harland A. McPhetres, former Mayor and Yankee Division veteran.

The final vote was Manning 13,972 and McPhetres 9061. Mayor Manning's election was never in doubt and the only question as he carried 41 of the 44 precincts was how large his majority would be.

The school committee election furnished the biggest upset, with the defeat of Dr. Vernon G. Morro by a newcomer, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Ingalls, wife of the former Representative to the General Court and former head of the Lynn Women's Republican Club.

Mrs. Ingalls furnished f[illegible]ks in her campaign by charging that Superintendent of Schools Harvey S. Gruver was openly opposing her campaign because, she said, if elected she would cut his salary of $8000 a year.

The fireworks were further heightened when a letter from Mrs. Gruver was published in which she questioned that Mrs. Ingalls was a graduate of Simmons College. Mrs. Ingalls replied she had received a certificate from Simmons as the result of taking an intensive one-year course.

Another surprise in the school committee fight was the falling of George E. Niham, who was re-elected, to the sixth place in the vote-getting, although he was second in the primary.

The Rev. Garfield Morgan, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, topped the ticket in the chool board fight with 15,027 votes. Edward I. Buckley, vice-chief ranger of Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, was second with 14,294; Mrs. S. Louise Earle was third with 13,283; Mrs. Olive C. Pinkham fourth with 12,916; Mrs. Ingalls fifth with 12,823 and Mr. Niham sixth with 12,412. Dr. Morrow, defeated candidate, received 12,274.

Elected in the councillor-at-large fight were: Walter A. Cuffe, 12,088; Arthur J. Frawley, 15,073; former Representative Charles W. Ames, 12,259, and John J. Joyce, 15,963.

Those defeated were John F. Duggan, 9580; Irving A. Hadley, 9708; G. Raymond Hanson, 10,824, and Medley T. Holsworth, 8767.

Results in the ward council fight were as follows: Ward 1, Thomas T. Worth, 1204; George A. Jackson, 9461; Ward 2, Edward A. Sisson, 1832; Louis W. Holden, 862; Ward 3, Frank E. Newhall, 3338; Arthur Richardson, 2568; Ward 4, Edward J. Harrington, 2242; Edward H. Cahill, 1811; Ward 5, James S. Hayes, 2666; George J. O'Shea, 2190; Ward 6, John Upton, 3173; Fred L. Kennedy, 2307; Ward 7, Stuart Tarr, 1583, and James A. Fox, 415.

CURLEY WILL NAME BAKER

Appointment As Judge Goes to Council Today

Governor Curley announced last night that he will submit to the Executive Council today the appointment of Councillor J. Arthur Baker to be judge of the Superior Court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J MacLeod.

The Governor said he has had no conference with Mr. Baker since his return from the trip to Hawaii, but that he has been given to understand that Mr. Baker will accept the appointment, that he will resign from the Council at once and that he will be confirmed at next week's Council meeting. Appointments of judges cannot be confirmed under suspension of the rules, but must wait over a week.

The Governor will then appoint Morton Burdick, now of Springfield and formerly a member of the House of Representatives, to succeed Mr. Baker in the Executive Council. Mr. Burdick was the Democratic candidate for the Council who was defeated by Mr. Baker in the election of 1934. His appointment will make the political complexion of the Council six Democrats and three Republicans, thus giving Governor Curley complete control and making it practically certain that any action of his toward removal of State department heads or replacement of them with appointees of his own choosing as their present terms expire will be confirmed without much question.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS RODEO

Montana Cow-Girl Wins Bronc-Busting Honors

A record crowd flooded the Boston Garden last night and saw Miss Alice Greenough, Montana cow-girl, win first honors in the cow-girls' bronc-busting contest after a thrilling ride in which she was badly shaken up and all but hurled from the saddle.

Another high spot of the show was the cattle roping contest with Hugh Bennett, preliminary 1935 champion, going down to defeat after a season of victories. Burel Mulkey, a youngster from Salmon City, Idaho, annexed the saddle bronc honors and Dick Shelton of Tilden, Texas, won first honors in the cattle roping.

Richard Grant, secretary to Governor Curley, made the first of a series of public appeals for the support of the Will Rogers Memorial Fund, following the grand entry of the cowboys and girls at the start of the show. Governor Curley, who is executive chairman for Massachusetts for the memorial fund, will be the guest of honor at the Garden during the rodeo contest Saturday afternoon.

ELECTION UPSETS

G.O.P. GETS SOMERVILLE, WORCESTER; LYNCH CLOSE VICTOR IN CAMBRIDGE

Continued

Continued

In Worcester, where the clear-cut issue of the Republican party was home rule versus "Curleyism," Walter J. Cookson defeated Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democrat, 36,217 to 34,092, a majority of 2125 votes. The Republicans also won control of the council and board of aldermen.

Next on the list of upsets was Lowell where Dewey G Archambault, Republican, defeated Charles R. Flood, Democrat, by about 3000 votes, 41 out of 43 precincts giving Archambault 19,159 and Flood 16,155.

DEFEAT OF HAGAN BIG UPSET

The defeat in Somerville of Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by Leslie E. Knox, Republican, although the election was theoretically non-partisan, was a blow at the New Deal whose leaders here had supported the Hagan candidacy. Knox won by 1350 votes.

In practically every city where the New Deal or the Curley administration was made an issue, the Democratic candidates were beaten.

In Cambridge, John D. Lynch, backed by retiring Mayor Richard M. Russell, and who was expected to win by about 5000 votes, nosed out City Council President John W. Lyons by only 49 votes, according to unofficial figures. Lyons said at a late hour that he would demand a recount and obtained state police to guard the ballot boxes pending a recount.

In Springfield where Republican Mayor Henry Martens ran on a platform denouncing the New Deal, he was re-elected. Dr. James A. Redden conceded him victory after returns from 42 ou of 46 precincts showed Martens leading by 20,777 to 15,368.

In Everett, Frank E. Lewis defeated Mayor James E. Roche, both are Republicans.

Fitchburg re-elected Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, Democratic, by the largest vote ever given a mayoral candidate over former Mayor Joseph N. Carriere, Republican, Greenwood's majority was 4233.

In Medford, Mayor John J. Irwin a Republican, defeated former Mayor John H. Burke, a Democrat, by nearly 2 to 1.

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn not only was re-elected but became the first mayor in the history of the city to win a fourth term.

CAMBRIDGE

John D. Lynch, banker-druggist, was elected mayor of Cambridge by 267 votes over John W. Lyons, former acting-mayor and president of the City Council, according to official figures announced by the Cambridge Election Commission.

Lynch received 18,143 votes and Lyons 17,876.

The election was one of the hardest fought in the history of the city and the result the closest on record.

No sooner was the result made known than Lyons' supporters announced they would demand a recount.

When informed of the count, Lyons went to City Hall and requested a police guard over the ballots.

Chief Timothy J. Leary agreed and assigned men to the duty.

Gov. Curley ordered state police in after a telephone conversation with Lyons.

Lynch is 52 years old. He was educated in Cambridge schools and started his career as an errand boy at the age of 12. At the age of 16, he became a clerk in a drug store and six years later opened a drug store of his own.

At the age of 32 he became vice-president of a Cambridge co-operative bank, and 10 years later was made president, a position which he now holds.

SOMERVILLE

Leslie E. Knox, Republican, provided one of the major upsets of yesterday's elections by defeating the present mayor, James E. Hagan, by 1,350 votes, according to unofficial returns.

The vote was: Knox 18,035; Hagan 16,685.

Hagan, a Democrat, had the backing for former Mayor John J. Murphy whose plea during the campaign was "Keep Somerville Democratic." The election was nonpartisan, but voting was generally along party lines.

Knox is 44, married and the father of one child, Marie, aged 10.

He is a World War veteran, and since 1914 has been engaged in the insurance business. He served a term on the board of aldermen and ran for mayor two years ago against Hagan. He lives on Alewife Brook Parkway.

Complete results of other contests:

Aldermen-at-Large: Irving L. Stackpole, John E. Whitney, John F. Foster and George W. Pratt.

Ward Aldermen: Ward 1, Walter J. Moran; Ward 2, Timothy J. Cronin; Ward 3, Arthur S. Walsh; Ward 4, G. Edward Bradley; Ward 5, John L. Carroll; Ward 6, Allan R. Kingston; Ward 7, Edward A. Rose.

School Committee: Ward 1, Catherine E. Falvey; Ward 2, Lawrence J. Donovan; Ward 3, Edward M. McCarthy; Ward 4, Edith L. Hurd; Ward 5, William J. Koen; Ward 6, Edwin A. Shaw; Ward 7, Charles A. Campbell.

MEDFORD

As was generally expected, Mayor John J. Irwin of Medford was re-elected over former Mayor John H. Burke. In spite of the fact that Irwin did practically no campaigning because of the serious illness of his brother, Eugene.

The mayor won easily, carrying 22 of the city's 23 precincts. His total vote was 13,583 as against Burke's 7429. Burke won in only his own home precinct.

Irwin received the news of his victory at the bedside of his brother whose death was expected momentarily.

Returns from Wards 1, 3 and 6 were incomplete in the council fight. Winners in the other wards were Robert P. Campbell, Ward 2; James W. Prior, Ward 4; James P. Higgins, Ward 5, and James W. Norton, Ward 7.

But three of the winners in five contests for the school board were known early this morning. They were James C. Connors in Ward 1, Mrs. Ellen R. Hayes, Ward 3, and Miss Mary E. Songster, Ward 4.

Aldermen elected were, two from each ward, Cornelius B. Harrington and Max S. Inman, Ward 1; James J. MacDonald and William F. Shine, Ward 2; Howard F. Alden and his partner undetermined at an early hour, Ward 3; James G. Lane and James P. McCarthy, Ward 4; Daniel J. Kelley and Ernest Martini, Ward 5; Walter E. Lawrence and Frederick E. Bean, Ward 6, and John V. Gibbons and Sylvester T. O'Sullivan, Ward 7.

EVERETT

Alderman Frank E. Lewis not only defeated Mayor James A. Roche by 9537 to 7455 yesterday, but caused a kidnap scare which ended in a widespread police search.

When it became evident early in the evening that he would defeat Roche, Ald. Lewis left campaign headquarters to escape a horde of admirers.

He failed to take his place in a torchlight procession, and his family, worried over his disappearance, notified police. Rumors flew through the city that he had been kidnaped by rival forces.

After messages had been sent out to police of neighboring cities, and every officer in the city had joined the search, Lewis arrived home. He said he had stopped on the way to talk with a few friends.

Mayor Roche conceded Lewis his election and congratulated him at 10 o'clock last night. He then announced he would oppose Cong. Arthur D. Healy in the next election.

In the other contests in that city three were elected to the school committee. They were Miss Catherine Murdock making her first venture into politics, Raymond J. Hall and Daniel J. Jameson.

Elected to the board of aldermen were Alfred W. Marshall, Ward 1, Arthur Burke, Ward 2, Lawrence B. Leggett, Ward 3, Joseph F. Mackay, Ward 4, James W. Savage, Ward 5, and Frederick L. Galbraith, Ward 6.

LYNN

Mayor J. Fred Manning made political history in Lynn when he was re-elected to his fourth two-year term by more than 10,000 votes over Ex-Mayor Harlan J. McPhetres. He received 19,076 votes and his opponent 9038.

Councillors at large elected in that city were John J. Joyce, Arthur J. Frawley, Charles W. Ames and Arthur A. Cuffe.

Ward councillors elected were Thomas A. Worth, Ward 1; Edward A. Sisson, Ward 2; Frank E. Newhall, Ward 3; Edward J. Harrington, Ward 4; James S. Hayes, Ward 5; John I. Upton, Ward 6, and Stuart A. Tarr, Ward 7.

Elected to the school committee were Edward I. Buckley, Rev. Garfield Morgan, Miss Louise S. Earle, Mrs. Olive C. Pinkham, George E. Nihan and Mrs. M. Elizabeth Ingalls.

WALTHAM

Mayor Frederick J. MacDonald was re-elected over Rep. Thomas J. Flannery by 8457 to 6215, a majority of 2242.

Other results—School committee: Jeanette C. Chisholm; Warren E. Glaney; Benjamin M. Bliss.

Councillors-at-large: G. Chauncey Cousens; Mrs. Anna W. Fogg; Fay J. Tracey; Joseph M. Maher.

Ward Councillors: Ward 1, Brenton E. Tyler; Ward 2, John J. O'Toole; Ward 3, Stephen Halloran; Ward 4, John C. Collins; Ward 5, Lewis B. Connors; Ward 6, Ball Bartlett; Ward 7, Joseph D. McCarthy.

SPRINGFIELD

Mayor Henry Martens, Republican, was re-elected by close to 5000 votes over Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat, it was conceded by the latter, shortly after midnight, with returns tabulated from 42 out of 46 election precincts. The vote at the time totalled 20,777 for Mayor Martens and 15,363 for Dr. Redden.

FITCHBURG

While Mayor Robert E. Greenwood was waging a battle for his life at Boston City Hospital where he was operated on for injuries received in a recent auto crash, voters of Fitchburg were rolling up the biggest vote in history to re-elect him over former Mayor Joseph N. Carriere. He was asleep when the result was made known.

Greenwood received 9000 votes and Carriere 4767.

WORCESTER

Worcester went completely Republican yesterday after two years under a Democratic regime.

Walter J. Cookson, whose chief campaign issue was home rule as opposed to domination by a Curley man, defeated Rep. Edward J. Kelley, Democrat, by 36,217 to 34,092, a majority of 2125 votes.

The two other major offices in the election, alderman-at-large and school committeeman-at-large were won by Republicans.

Control of the city council and board of aldermen also passed into Republican control, according to an unofficial count.

PITTSFIELD

By the scant margin of 875 votes, Mayor Allen H. Bagg was re-elected in Pittsfield. He received 9580 votes to 8705 for his opponent, City Clerk Alfred C. Daniels.

MARLBORO

For the first time in Marlboro's history a mayor was re-elected to serve his third successive term. Mayor Charles A. Lyons defeated Paul F. Shaughnessey by 345 votes. He polled 3743 votes against the defeated candidate's 3398.

LOWELL

Dewey G. Archambault, Republican, won a surprising victory over Charles R. Flood, Democrat, 19,159 to 16,155, returns from 41 out of 45 precincts showed in one of the most bitter elections in the history of the city.

The East Shows Its Hand

There is no mystery in what happened yesterday at the polls and it took no political magic to bring it about. It is solely and simply an expression of the people's dissatisfaction with a Democratic New Deal—a dissatisfaction which, in the case of Massachusetts, ripened into actual disgust as a result of the antics and aberrations of a Democratic governor. It is, of course, a Republican victory, but, more important still, it is a stinging Democratic defeat.

Certainly so far as our own State is concerned, there is every cause for jubilation. After less than one year of experience with government by threat, cajolery and intimidation, with reckless spending of the public's money, with administration mainly by, for and in the interests of one man, the people have gone as far as they could and in the only way open to them, to correct the error they made in the elections of 1934. They will complete the job next November.

While neither Franklin D. Roosevelt nor James M. Curley were running for office, they are none the less victims of the series of amazing upsets which marked yesterday's balloting. For both of them the lesson is there to read. In the President's own State, and in a contest where the New Deal was the main issue, the Republicans succeeded in winning a majority of seats in the assembly, in carrying the big cities of Buffalo and Rochester and, in general, serving notice on Mr. Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley that they have lost their grip. Elsewhere they have sounded an identical warning by electing a Republican mayor of Philadelphia and by registering vast gains in the Mid-West State of Ohio.

In the Massachusetts cities where bipartisan elections are still the rule, the administration of Governor Curley was distinctly the issue. The results, especially in Worcester and Lowell, where Republicans displace Democrats, and in Springfield, where the Republicans solidify their control, are an omen of returning good sense on the part of the electorate. Per contra, they offer no grain of comfort to the governor and, unless he decides finally not to run at all, are of no use in helping him make up his mind what office to seek in 1936.

The change in sentiment recorded throughout the East is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that it was achieved without any organized party aid, and in the case of New York, in the face of determined activity by the powerful forces of the Administration. Mr. Farley himself, in his triple capacity as Postmaster General, dispenser of patronage and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had sent a personal appeal to every voter in the State to stand by the President. Other Democratic leaders of influence and renown threw themselves into the fight. That their efforts proved unavailing is significant evidence of the loss in prestige which the New Deal has suffered in a short twelve months.

As Republicans now turn their thoughts to the 1936 campaign, they naturally find the gods amiable and the signs good. But complacency will prove fatal. The great Western and Middle Western region is still to be heard from. That is where the battle will be won or lost. At the moment there is no telling to what extent it feels indebted to the Government for a series of bounties and grants which have come to it from the Federal Treasury and largely at the expense of the forgotten East. One thing is certain. If the Republicans are to win the next national election, they must find a way to break down, in such States as Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, a Democratic resistence that has been heavily bolstered up by Administration largess and favors.

Tobin Triumph Boosts Him as Mayoral Hope

Machine Wins School Board Fight—Mackey, Smith Elected, Demeter Loses

By Forrest P. Hull

Out of the off-year Boston election of yesterday for three members of the School Committee and twenty-two members of the City Council, there emerges, in the opinion of political leaders, a prospective candidate for mayor two years hence, in the person of the youthful Maurice J. Tobin.

Tobin, member of the School Committee for the last four years, was top man in his contest for re-election among thirty-nine candidates. And Tobin has had mayoral ambitions ever since he entered public service.

Tobin received 80,899 votes, or 15,000 more than he received four years ago when his victory as leader in a field of an even dozen of candidates was the real surprise in the School Committee fight. At that time Tobin, a resident of Roxbury, had a well organized political organization, especially a large group of young women who appealed by telephone, particularly, to thousands of voters. This same group, with hundreds of accessions, helped to carry the day for Tobin yesterday. Another factor in his success was the undivided support of Governor Curley's organization, which has long seen in the candidate strong mayoral possibilities.

Third Winner Long in Doubt

It was a foregone conclusion that Tobin and Dr. Charles E. Mackey would win re-election to the School Committee, but the third man was in doubt up to the time the polls closed. Dr. Mackey, as second in the list, received 69,058 votes, compared with his 57,922 votes four years ago, and the third winner was Henry J. Smith, investment broker and treasurer of the Boston College Alumni Association, who received 27,334 votes.

The contest between Smith and Representative George Demeter of Ward 4 was so close, with only 1110 votes separating them, that Demeter has declared his intention to petition for a recount. Demeter, the only Republican in the contest, was carried rather extensively on a slate with Smith and Tobin, but naturally relied to a great extent upon the support of his Republican friends, who did not rally as expected.

Though the school committee contest in its city-wide appeal was the real contest of the day for the majority of voters, it failed to win the serious attention of more than half of the electorate. The ballot would have been much smaller had it not been for the spirited city council contests in several wards, which resulted in the defeat of three members of the council seeking re-election and victory for three other candidates to fill vacancies.

Three Councilors Defeated

Councilors defeated were Albert L. Fish of Ward 16, Dorchester, who will be supplanted by John J. McGrath; Edward L. Englert of Ward 11, comprising parts of Roxbury and Jamaica Plain, who must give way to James J. Kilroy, and George P. Donovan of Ward 6, South Boston, who lost his seat to George A. Murray, by a narrow margin of thirty votes.

Three other new members who will take the places of retiring councilors are James J. Mellen of Ward 2, Charlestown; Peter J. Fitzgerald of Ward 13, Dorchester, and Sidney Rosenberg of Ward 14, Dorchester. Only in Charlestown was this phase of the election significant. Mellen, a young Harvard man with a family background of local politics, saw fit to oppose the powerful Green machine, and his victory over John P. Doherty, candidate of the Green boys, was decisive.

Curley Gets Reply of Voters—Bushnell

Republican Club President Says Elections Show Fighting Party Can Win

Republican victories in city elections yesterday were pointed to today by Robert T. Bushnell, president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, as the voters' answer to the recent statement by Governor Curley declaring the Republican party only a shell, with "Bourbons" for candidates.

"The elections yesterday are interesting," said Bushnell in a formal statement, "particularly in view of the statement the other night by our pseudo Huey Long that the Republican party was nothing but a shell and composed only of wearers of the royal purple. The results make one feel that Sinclair Lewis was right—'It Can't Happen Here.'"

"The only danger to the Republican party is that the old crowd will feel that victory next year is so certain that anyone and anything can win. The elections yesterday show that hard fighting can win, but we must remember that wrist-slapping and pink teas cannot.

"Every Massachusetts victory yesterday was due directly to our fighting candidates, backed by devoted groups of plain, ordinary people, so aroused by the disgrace of Massachusetts that they made up their minds they would carry the fight to the last trench, and they did so. They can make it State-wide next year."

Curley, Farley Deny Setback by Democrats

Governor Declares Returning Prosperity Will Doom Republican Hopes

Reverses experienced by the Democrats at the polls yesterday in Massachusetts and other parts of the nation were discounted today by Governor James M. Curley. The governor offered balm to his party colleagues in a statement declaring that the results of the elections, from a Democratic standpoint, "should be regarded as most gratifying." The margins of defeat he said, were neither disturbing nor distressing.

Striking a similar note of triumph in apparent defeat, James A. Farley, national and New York Democratic chairman, disputed any contention that the New Deal had received a setback.

"Accepting that the New Deal was the issue, New York State voted in favor of it by the large majority of about 500,000," Farley declared. He insisted the State is gerrymandered so that the Democrats can win the assembly only in landslides.

New York returns representing 127 out of the 150 Assembly seats, showed Democratic Assembly candidates received 1,787,280 votes to 1,349,939 for Republicans, an excess of 437,241, the Associated Press reported.

Republicans, however, stressed that the large vote of New York city, which is heavily Democratic, made the popular vote totals misleading, and that owing to New York city a Democratic excess in the total vote is normal.

Curley Silent on Worcester

Governor Curley made no reference to the Worcester contest for mayor, in which a test of his own policies was the chief issue, advanced by active Curley supporters of Representative Edward J. Kelley who was defeated.

The governor's statement follows:

"The policies enumerated by President Roosevelt and for the adoption of which he has labored so unceasingly have not been put in operation at the present time, and when their objective is rightly understood by the American people there will be no occasion for fear on the part of the Democrats as to the outcome in 1936.

"When the election took place in Rhode Island several months ago the Democratic party unquestionably was at its lowest ebb, and while defeat was suffered generously throughout the country in yesterday's election, the margins are not so great as to be either disturbing or distressing.

"That prosperity is here now and will increase in volume in 1936 is accepted by even the most bitter critics and opponents of President Roosevelt and his policies. With prosperity in the nation in 1936 there is little likelihood that the American people can be induced or stampeded into supporting the Republican party, which was responsible for the worst years of misery and depression in the history of the nation."

concluded

Supplementing Governor Curley's comment, Joseph McGrath, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, issued the following statement:

"The Democratic State Committee took no part in the municipal elections in Massachusetts yesterday. In every municipality purely local issues were the determining factor.

"The studious attempt to capitalize the outcome of mayoralty elections as a repudiation of the Federal and State administrations is very far-fetched. The Democratic State organization no more claims credit for the tremendous victory of Mayor Manning, Democrat, of Lynn, over former Mayor Harland A. McPheters, Republican, or the great victory of Mayor Robert E. Greenwood, Democrat, of Fitchburg, over Dr. Joseph N. Carrier, Republican, than we assume that the defeat of Democratic candidates in Worcester, Somerville and Lowell adversely reflect on either the national or State administrations.

"Mayoralty elections, whether favorable or adverse, are never indications of the strength of party organization in a State-wide campaign. I am pleased to emphasize the fact that today the Democratic organization in Massachusetts is stronger and more united than at any period in the history of the Commonwealth. We have today on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, for the first time in Democratic history, 331 properly organized city and town committees of a total of 355 communities in the State."

Curley Names Baker to Bench as Reward and Clinches Council

Bowker Thanks Governor for Clearing G. O. P. of "Benedict Arnolds" — Senator Cavanagh Wins Court Clerkship

Carrying out his announced intention, Governor Curley today nominated J. Arthur Baker, Republican, of Pittsfield, as justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death recently of Judge Frederick J. Macleod.

By this action the governor strengthened his control over the Executive Council, which he gained several months ago when Baker, a member of the Council, first voted to confirm the appointment of Edmond Cote, another Republican Council member, as chairman of the Fall River Finance Commission, and then declined to cast a vote which would have blocked the confirmation of Philip J. Russell, Democrat, as Cote's successor.

J. Arthur Baker

Under the Council rules the appointment of a justice must wait one week before it can be confirmed, so there will be no action on the Baker nomination until next Wednesday. At that time the governor has announced his intention of appointing Morton H. Burdick, Democrat, of Easthampton, who was defeated by Baker for the Council in the last State election, to fill the vacancy created by Baker's appointment to the bench.

Inasmuch as the governor already has a Democratic majority of five to four in the Council, it is expected that both the Baker and Burdick appointments will be confirmed and the party alignment will then be six Democrats to three Republicans, in contrast to the five to four majority which the Republicans held when the governor assumed office last January.

Councilor Baker, who has been bitterly criticized by Republican leaders for his failure to stand with his Republican colleagues in opposing the Cote and Russell appointments, was the object of another attack today by Representative Philip G. Bowker of Brookline, as soon as Baker's appointment was announced.

"Governor Curley, in nominating Councilor Baker to the bench, has done a favor to the Republican party," Bowker declared. "The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the governor.

"In clearing our ranks of these undesirables, His Excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves. For those who take the 'thirty pieces of silver' we have nothing but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and show their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats, His Excellency has further helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root. The governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."

As judge of the Superior Court, Baker's salary will be $12,000 a year.

Besides the appointment of Baker another important nomination submitted to the council by Governor Curley today was that of Senator Charles T. Cavanagh (Democrat) of Cambridge, as clerk of the third district court of eastern Middlesex, to succeed William A. Forbes. The Council confirmed Cavanagh under suspension of the rules.

Senator Cavanagh represents the second Middlesex District in the State Senate and before his election in 1934 had served two terms in the House of Representatives.

As senator, Cavanagh's salary is $2000 a year, and as clerk of the East Cambridge court he will receive $4150. His appointment is for five years.

The governor appointed Dr. Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton as medical examiner of the first Hampshire District, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Edward Brown.

The council, under suspension of the rules, also confirmed the appointment of Dr. Corriden.

Cavanagh's confirmation came on a vote of seven to two, with Councilors Frank A. Brooks of Watertown and Winfield A. Schuster of Douglas voting in opposition. There was no record vote on Dr. Corriden's appointment. The council postponed until next week action on the appointment of Charles M. Stiller of Boston as secretary of the State board of motor vehicle insurance appeal. If confirmed Stiller will succeed Grover C. Hoyt.

The governor re-appointed Patrick A. O'Connell and William H. Claflin, Jr., as managers of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. Roscoe Walsworth of Revere was re-appointed a trustee of the Boston Metropolitan District.

Tide Turns Against New Deal; G.O.P. Sees Curley Routed

City Elections in State Blow to Democrats

Cookson Victory in Worcester Marks 10,000-Vote Turnover for Republicans

By William F. Furbush

Aglow over victories in several of the city elections yesterday, in which stunning blows were administered to the Democratic policies of the New Deal and Governor James M. Curley, Republicans of Massachusetts are preparing their plans of battle for the 1936 campaigns more confident than they have been since 1928.

Mayoralty conquests on distinctly party lines registered in Worcester, Springfield and Lowell, and an unexpected Republican victory in Somerville provide timely and encouraging subject matter for discussion by the Republican State Committee, which will meet tomorrow in Hotel Bellevue.

Aside from smashing victories in the elections on party lines, Republicans are also pointing to the success in non-partisan elections of Republicans over Democratic candidates who either have based their chief plea for backing on their support of the Roosevelt and Curley policies or have been closely identified with those policies.

The two outstanding outcomes in Tuesday's balloting were in Worcester and Lowell. In the former city Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was swept into the mayor's chair by a vote of 36,219 as against 34,095 for Representative Edward J. Kelley. Kelley was Governor Curley's favorite in the election, and won the Democratic nomination over Mayor John C. Mahoney on the issue that a vote for him would advance the Curley "work and wages" policies.

Cookson's election, as predicted by the Transcript, takes on important significance as reflecting the change of sentiment toward the Democratic policies. This is emphasized by the fact that two years ago Mayor Mahoney won election by a margin over his Republican opponent in excess of 7000. Cookson's lead of 2124 represents a turnover of nearly 10,000 votes in favor of the Republicans.

In Lowell where the Republicans were believed to have only a fighting chance, Dewey G. Archambault, in the heaviest vote ever cast in that city which has been Democratic for several years, defeated City Treasurer Charles R. Flood, his Democratic opponent, by a lead of 3759 votes.

The big surprise for Republicans and Democrats alike came in Somerville, where, in a theoretical non-partisan election, former Alderman Leslie E. Knox, Republican, defeated Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, for re-election for a second term by a margin of 1400 votes. Hagan defeated Knox two years ago by 5500 votes.

Hoping against hope, the Republicans of Somerville, once a party bulwark, brought up all their artillery in an attempt to return to power through Knox.

The party lines were made more emphatic when United States Marshall John J. Murphy, former mayor and once subject to severe criticism by Hagan, came out for the latter. He stressed the importance of the mayor's election as necessary to reassure the Washington Administration that Somerville was still loyal to the New Deal.

It is conceivable that the injection of Murphy into the campaign as one of the most vociferous of the Roosevelt-Curley supporters may have contributed materially to the Democratic upset. The Republication State organization, at least, is content to abide by such conclusion.

Although Roosevelt and Curley policies played no direct part in the Springfield election, the Republicans consider the victory there of Mayor Henry Martens as indicative of the return of Republicans to their traditional party power in this State. Martens won re-election over Dr. —ames A. Redden, Democrat, by a lead of 5197 votes.

From the point of view of excitement the banner went to Cambridge, where John D. Lynch, former school committeeman and banker, defeated John W. Lyons, president of the city council, by the narrow lead of 267 votes. The early count in this contest gave victory to Lynch by only 49 votes, but a re-check of the totals gave Lynch 18,143 and Lyons 17,876. Lyons is expected to ask for a recount.

In the non-partisan mayoralty contest in Everett predictions were borne out by the victory of Alderman Frank E. Lewis over Mayor James A. Roche, who sought a second term, by a margin of 1761 votes. Lewis polled 9380 votes to 7619 for Burke. The latter immediately announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Eighth District against Congressman Arthur D. Healey.

Republicans also point to the Lewis victory as at least an indirect thrust at Governor Curley who has numbered Roche among his backers. Roche also was a Roosevelt supporter in the last election.

It's Only Talk That Is "In Full Swing"

On Sept. 29, when Governor Curley set forth to Honolulu, he was quoted as saying: "I have labored long and hard to put over in Massachusetts my program of work and wages. I am glad to say that as I leave, the program is complete, and will be in full swing next week." Five weeks later, on his return to the State House, the picture had changed. The governor announced this Monday that he "would be obliged to devote his entire time, for the next thirty days, and possibly longer" in expediting his program of work and wages.

Any observer must find these two statements confusing. How can a great program, surging into full swing during the first week of October, still need such hard pushing by the governor thirty days later, and for thirty days more to come? His excellency should pay closer heed to such discrepancies in conversation. They cause him to be misunderstood. They encourage the citizens of Massachusetts —as they did the voters in Worcester and Lowell yesterday—to conclude that the governor's program does indeed mean more "talk and taxes" than it does "work and wages."

To be entirely candid, that is exactly what huge, over-reaching promises of governmental spending usually do mean. The tribulations of Harry L. Hopkins, in striving to administer the new WPA program, afford an excellent case in point. Up to a recent date, with $4,800,000,000 to spend, Hopkins and Secretary Ickes actually had fewer men employed under this vast authorization than they had engaged on project-payrolls before the new work-relief law reached the statute books. There has been a large quantity of talk, announcing successive postponements of the day when the Federal campaign would be "in full swing," but only one thing stands forth with undeniable certainty. The taxes which the American people must ultimately bear to meet the cost of lavish New Deal expenditures will be heavier than any the nation has ever known before.

Here in Boston, that is an important point for the State Emergency Finance Board to keep in mind as it considers whether or not to authorize still more of the new $7,500,000 program of public works which has been proposed for this city. Boston should add not a dollar to its debt-burden and costs of debt-service for any construction which is not urgently needed.

REPUBLICANS WIN WORCESTER

Cookson Buries Kelley, Curley's Candidate, in Mayoralty Test

WORCESTER, Nov. 6—The election of Walter J. Cockson as mayor of this city, was the crux of the Democratic turnover in the various city elections. Cookson, Republican, defeated Representative Edward J. Kelley, Curley supported candidate, by 2124 votes.

Kelley's defeat was indicated when the first returns came in. The first two precincts to report showed a net gain of 422 votes for the Republican candidate over the 1933 returns.

The Republican victory represented a turnover of 9700 votes in comparison with the 1933 election returns when Mayor John C. Mahoney, Democrat, was re-elected. Mahoney was defeated by Kelley in the recent primary.

The Republicans also gained control of the board of aldermen, thus acquiring rule of the city government.

Present Grid Period Rivals Post-War Era

By ARTHUR SIEGEL

If the Democratic party wishes a talking point in the 1936 campaigns, the argument may be offered that the present administration is responsible for bigger and better college football which is becoming bigger and better every day. For despite the various panaceas offered by Franklin Delano "My Friends" Roosevelt and such disciples as James Michael "My Friends" Curley, there still is a depression. And that depression has given the boys who can play football back to the colleges. In fact, not since the high-geared days of the early post-war period has there been such an abundance of football material, not only playing varsity football, but on the freshman squads and in the preparatory schools.

Carnegie Report Marked Decline of Big-Time Game

With some notable exceptions, such as Harvard and Brown, the colleges today present more brilliant arrays of athletes than in almost the whole preceding decade. Following the war, of course, there was a session of recruiting in which various institutions went out and induced athletes that now was the time to come to the aid of the football party. Then the famous report 23 of the Carnegie Foundation came out, colleges yelled "I believe" and, amid a chorus of tear-drenched "Amens" hit the sawdust trail. That marked the decline of big-time football.

There were two reasons. The first was that many athletes felt they were foolish to waste their time in college when they could find good jobs which paid well. There were others who felt that they were entitled to "inducements" and there were no more inducements once the colleges exalted themselves in athletic Holy Rollerism. So the teams, for the most part, were composed of nice boys who were taking football more or less seriously.

But now the big universities have big football teams and the little colleges have football teams which are just as big, sometimes bigger. Moreover, a trip around the circuit reveals that the freshman squads are fairly blinding with their lustre. At Cornell and Lafayette, for instance, the varsity teams are nothing to write home about, except in anguish and disgust. But the freshman teams. There are great prospects at both places.

Other Colleges Have Grand Freshman Outfits

Other places have their grand freshman outfits. Harvard this year has a freshman team which in other years would be considered as quite a group. But it is just an ordinary one. For Dartmouth has a stylish group. Yale has a freshman squad which should relieve the shortage of reserves next year. Princeton and Penn and Manhattan and New York University look with fond eyes on their cubs. Boston College and Holy Cross have freshman teams which are rated as good as any in the east and the observer of "futures" would spent a profitable afternoon Monday when the two meet at Boston College.

Continued

concluded

These freshman squads not only are large in numbers, but in physical attributes and football ability. They are big boys and fast, with natural aptitude. The past Friday the Yale freshmen played the junior varsity and there were a pair of tackles, John and Warrick, who'd delight the heart, right now, of many varsity coaches.

The depression is chiefly responsible for this return to the football soil. Boys in school know that jobs are not right around the corner. Hence they want to go to college.

Government Now Provides Loans Through ERA

They do not sit back and wait for the world to fall into their laps. They definitely prepare for college because, under present conditions, they may acquire an education two ways, that is, if they need the money. First, they can study diligently and earn grades which qualify them for academic scholarships. A Greater Boston athlete, for instance, passed the entrance examinations at Boston College with an average of well above 90.

Then they may obtain government aid through the ERA which provides financial assistance through loans and odd jobs. And, of course, there are colleges which do not bend backward in the matter and do not feel that because a student is an athlete that he should not be helped in finding some job around the campus. There are places where outside influences help, such as Ohio State, where athletes are on the commonwealth payroll. Which recalls the case of Oklahoma City a few years ago, when the football players were members of the Oklahoma City fire department.

All of which sums up in the obvious fact that depression is the life of the football party.

Democrats Get a Sharp Warning

Republicans have ample cause to rejoice over yesterday's elections in this and other states.

Democrats suffered heavy losses.

Has the New Deal been rebuked? Possibly. But wise Republicans will not jump too quickly to conclusions regarding the national significance of yesterday's results. Congress suffered no New Deal loss.

On the other hand, the Democratic party may well stop an' take account of stock. In the elections there was meagre encouragement for them. By no stretch of optimistic imagination can yesterday's story be twisted into political comfort for the New Deal.

Wise Democrats will heed the warning and in the time between now and next November place their national house in order. Obviously the Republican campaign against New Deal experimentation has impressed many hundreds of thousand of voters. In fact, yesterday's victories may do the Republican party harm nationally because they come long in advance of the national election, long enough to give the New Deal time to trim sails.

Inevitably President Roosevelt must follow a conservative course between now and next November. The signs of yesterday's elections are unmistakable. They show a drift from him. How serious that drift is nationally no man can tell. But any man can tell that the Democrats nationally and Gov. Curley locally, came out second best in yesterday's test of strength.

MASS. MAN URGED AS R.R. TRUSTEE

Appointment of a Massachusetts resident as one of the trustees of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad will be urged upon the United States district court in New Haven when that court today takes up the petition of the road for reorganization under the provisions of the federal bankruptcy act, Atty.-Gen. Dever announced yesterday, following a conference with Gov. Curley.

In addition to the desire of Massachusetts authorities to protect the financial interests of citizens of the state when the company is reorganized, it was felt that the presence of a Massachusetts trustee would help to insure for the commonwealth a continuance of the present service given by the road.

KELLEY BEATEN IN WORCESTER

Cookson's Plurality Over Curley Candidate Expected to Exceed 3000

WORCESTER, Nov. 5—A Republican sweep in today's municipal election gave the office of mayor to Walter J. Cookson by a margin of 2124 votes over Representative Edward J. Kelley, the candidate supported by Gov. Curley. Total returns from 66 precincts were: Cookson 36,219 and Kelley 34,094.

So extensive was the Republican tide that it produced the reelection of Alderman-at-large C. Vernon Inett and resulted in the ousting of Prof. Cornelius Donoghue from the office of school committee-member-at-l

Inett defeated Harold D. Donohue, Democrat, by 1340 votes, while Prof. Donoghue was beaten by Mrs. Evelyn Bjorkman, Republican, by 287 votes.

The Republicans also reclaimed an aldermanic seat in ward 7, where William A. Bennett was elected by 296 votes. The Republicans will take control of the entire city government.

The Republican triumph represented a clear-cut turnover of 9700 votes in a comparison with the 1933 election returns which re-elected Mayor John C. Mahoney, Democrat, by 7593. Mahoney was defeated by Kelley in the Democratic primary.

Curleyism was the chief issue throughout the campaign. Kelley employed the Governor's work-and-wages slogan, and the Republicans took up this challenge. The ward returns indicate that hundreds of Democrats joined with the Republicans in repudiating Gov. Curley's attempt to dominate this city from Beacon Hill.

Although Mahoney publicly supported Kelley, it was evident from the returns that hundreds of his followers refused to join with him in the attempt to elect his primary election conqueror.

Outside participation in today's election was disclosed by the use of scores of motor cars with Boston registrations by the Kelley forces. A plot of state-owned land at Mulbery and East Central streets was used as the headquarters for despatching these motor cars to the various precincts to transport voters to the polls.

Kelley's defeat was indicated from the earliest returns. The first two precincts to report showed a net gain of 422 votes for the Republican candidate over the 1933 returns. This proportion subsequently was reduced but not sufficient to alter the final outcome.

Kelley did not indicate tonight whether or not he would seek a re-count.

GUARD CAMBRIDGE VOTE FOR RECOUNT

Lyons, Runner-up to Lynch, Winner Sees Chance to Upset 267-Vote Victory Margin—G. O. P. Captures Worcester, Lowell, Somerville

The outcome of yesterday's elections was gratifying from the Democratic standpoint Gov. Curley said today.

"The outcome, both in the nation and state was not unexpected, and contrary to the declaration by Republican leaders, from the Democratic standpoint should be regarded as most gratifying."

BACK TO G. O. P. COLUMN

Refusing to accept defeat by 267 votes in the bitter battle for mayor of Cambridge, John W. Lyons today set in motion machinery for a recount, while state and city police stood guard over ballot boxes.

Lyons's defeat by John W. Lynch in Cambridge was the closest contest of the day as mayoralty elections were held in 12 Massachusetts cities with Republicans ousting Democrats in three of them, jolting state leaders of the latter party.

Republican mayors were elected in Worcester, Lowell and Somerville, as Bay State cities swung back to Republicanism.

Republican leaders hailed the victories of their party with jubilation, declaring the return of various cities to the G. O. P. ranks as a definite repudiation of "New Deal" policies and the Curley state administration.

In Worcester, where "Curleyism" was a clearcut issue, Walter J. Cookson, Republican, was elected over Representative Edward J. Kelley, Democratic House floor leader, in the fight for the mayoralty.

OPPOSE BEACON HILL

Cookson's victory by 2124 votes was regarded as definite evidence of the waning strength of Gov. Curley. The large fleet of Boston automobiles working in the city for Kelley, and the outside aid given to the Democratic candidate, were of no avail, as Republicans stood solidly together and old-line Worcester county Democrats turned thumbs down on Beacon Hill.

The glee of the Republican leaders over the Worcester victory was increased four-fold when Lowell voters put the city back in the party fold by electing as mayor Dewey G. Archambeault by 3759 votes over Charles R. Flood, Democrat.

Lowell has for years been regarded as a Democratic stronghold. Not only was a Republican mayor elected but the G. O. P. gained control of the city council.

The six-year rule of the Democrats was ended in Somerville by the election of Leslie E. Knox. Knox's defeat of Mayor James E. Hagan, Democrat, by 1350 votes was taken as clearly significant of a rebuke to Democratic rule and the "New Deal."

ROCHE FOR CONGRESS

It was the first time in the history of the city that Somerville has denied its mayor a second term. Two years ago Hagan defeated Knox by a margin of 5000 votes. In the recent campaign Hagan had the support of James J. Murphy, former Democratic mayor, now United States marshal, and an ardent supporter of Gov. Curley.

The defeat of Mayor James A. Roche by Alderman Frank E. Lewis in Everett was likewise regarded as a slap at Democratic power. Although both are Republicans, Roche bolted the party in the last gubernatorial election to get on the Curley bandwagon.

Immediately after final returns in Everett early today, when Roche learned that he had been rejected for a second term by 2082 votes, he announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress to oppose Congressman Arthur D. Healey, Democrat, of Somerville.

Republican power in Springfield was increased as Mayor Henry Martens was re-elected and the G. O. P. regained the board of aldermen and increased its majority in the common council. Mayor Martens easily defeated Dr. James A. Redden, Democrat.

MEDFORD AND WALTHAM

After one of the bitterest campaigns ever carried on in Medford, John J. Irwin was re-elected mayor, routing his opponent, John H. Burke. At the height of the campaign Irwin brought suit for $25,000 against Burke, charging libel. Charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast during the fight.

In Waltham Dr. Frederick L. MacDonald had no difficulty disposing of Thomas J. Flannery, who sought to unseat him from the mayor's chair, and in Lynn Mayor J. Fred Manning was re-elected without making a single campaign speech, soundly whipping former Mayor Harlan J. McPhetres.

Robert E. Greenwood, critically injured mayor of Fitchburg, received a tremendous indorsement by the voters of that city and was re-elected by the largest plurality ever given a candidate for mayor in that city. It was not until well into the morning that he learned from physicians at Boston City Hospital that he had defeated Dr. Joseph N. Carriere by 4213 votes.

Mayor Allen H. Bagg was re-elected mayor of Pittsfield, defeating his fellow Republican, Alfred C. Daniels, by 875 votes in a non-partisan election.

Mayor Charles A. Lyons of Marlboro became the first mayor of that city to be elected to a third successive term when he defeated Paul F. Shaughnessy. Shaughnessy, however, showed surprising strength. He lost by only 345 votes.

ALL EYES ON CAMBRIDGE

While post-mortems on the elections generally were being held today, the attention of Greater Boston was directed toward Cambridge and the impending recount demanded by the defeated John W. Lyons.

While state police appeared in other cities last last night during the counting of ballots — troopers were in Somerville — two men were ordered to guard the ballots in Cambridge after they had been counted.

Last night Cambridge election commissioners first announced that Lyons had been elected by 460 votes, it was reported. Later Lynch was given victory by 49 vote, and a final announcement gave the victor a margin of 267 votes.

This morning Lyon adherents set about procuring the necessary number of names on a recount petition. They quickly obtained the necessary five names from each of the 11 wards in the city, and it was indicated that the recount would start on Friday.

$22,000 MILLEN REWARD DIS TRIBUTED PLANN

Continued

GLOBE

BY COL. KIRK

Under Both Schemes Saul Messinger Will Get Substantial Sum—Men Who Identified Battery Will Realize Larger Part of Award in Conviction of Needham Murderers

Distribution of the $22,000 in rewards for the arrest and conviction of the Millen brothers and Abraham Faber was recommended in two plans submitted to Gov. Curley and the executive council today for approval, by Col. Paul G. Kirk, commissioner of public safety.

MESSINGER GETS BIG SUM

Under both plans a substantial sum would be given to Saul Messinger, boyhood friend of the Millens. Messinger's testimony was an important aid to the authorities. Under one plan he would be given $2500, under the other, $3437.50.

The first plan would include certain police officers and would distribute the $22,000 as follows:

Lieuts. Charles E. Eldridge of the Boston police and Charles H. Eason and Detectives Edmund O'Brien and John F. Fitzsimons of New York city, who arrested the Millen brothers in a gun battle in a New York hotel, $1500 each; Frank J. LeVierge and Alfred W. LeVierge of Boston, who identified the battery in the "murder car," $5000 each; Henry DeLoria, who helped identify the car, $2000; Philip M. King, Charles Parson and John Moloney, three Norwood boys who found parts of the car, $500 each, and Messinger, $2500.

The second, or alternate plan, would eliminate the New York officers and give the Le Vierges' $6875 each, De Loria $2750, the Norwood boys $687.50 each and Messinger $3437.50.

REPUBLICANS WIN WORCESTER

Cookson Buries Kelley, Curley's Candidate, in Mayoralty Test

WORCESTER, Nov. 6—The election of Walter J. Cockson as mayor of this city, was the crux of the Democratic turnover in the various city elections. Cookson, Republican, defeated Representative Edward J. Kelley, Curley supported candidate, by 2124 votes.

Kelley's defeat was indicated when the first returns came in. The first two precincts to report showed a net gain of 422 votes for the Republican candidate over the 1933 returns.

The Republican victory represented a turnover of 9700 votes in comparison with the 1933 election returns when Mayor John C. Mahoney, Democrat, was re-elected. Mahoney was defeated by Kelley in the recent primary.

The Republicans also gained control of the board of aldermen, thus acquiring rule of the city government.

FEELS VOTERS IGNORED

People's Editor:

What's the big idea? Where does he get that stuff, and how does he get that way?

Appointing Republican councillors to state positions, and they appointing Democrats to represent Republican districts! No election! The electorate denied their God-given right to representation!

Who is this Caesar? And upon what meat doth he feed?

BAKER NAMED FOR SUPERIOR COURT BENCH

G. O. P. Councillor Is Curley's Choice for Vacancy

The nomination of J. Arthur Baker, member of the Governor's council, to be a justice of the superior court was submitted to the executive council today by Gov. Curley. Baker was named to the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frederick J. MacLeod.

GOES OVER FOR WEEK

The nomination, under the constitution, goes over for a week on the question of confirmation. No one was named for Baker's place in the council as no vacancy exists there yet.

As the nomination was submitted there were renewed reports in the State House of opposition to Baker in the council among Democrats as well as Republicans, and councillors Brennan and Hennessey, Democrats, said they had not decided whether or not they will vote for confirmation. It is generally believed in the State House, however, that Baker will be confirmed even though he probably will not get a unanimous vote.

The governor today appointed State Senator Charles T. Cavanagh of Cambridge to be clerk of the third district court of eastern Middlesex in place of William A. Foster, whose term expired Oct. 8.

Cavanagh's nomination was immediately confirmed, under suspension of the rules, and he was sworn in.

As clerk of the East Cambridge court, Cavanagh will receive a salary of $4150 a year. The appointment is for five years. He will continue in the Senate, but may not accept his $2000 salary there.

Cavanagh is a close personal friend of Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever and served in the house of representatives before going to the senate.

OTHER NOMINATIONS

The other nominations submitted by the Governor to the council today were: Thomas F. Corriden of Northampton, to be medical examiner of the 1st Hampshire district in place of the late Dr. Edward Brown; Roscoe Walsworth of Revere, to be a trustee of the Boston Metropolitan district, reappointment; Patrick A. O'Connell and William H. Claflin, Jr., of Brookline, to be managers of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, reappointments.

The Governor administered the oath of office at the beginning of the council session to William Stockwell of Maynard, who was recently elected to the House of Representatives in a special election. Stockwell, a Republican, succeeds a Democrat. Stockwell was accompanied to the council chamber and introduced to the Governor and councillors by Speaker Leverett Saltonstall, an announced Republican candidate for Governor.

CHAFFS SALTONSTALL

As photographs of the ceremony were being taken Gov. Curley turned to Saltonstall and said: "Are you a bit downcast over the results of yesterday's election?" Saltonstall smiled broadly.

Although there are a number of terms of major officers expiring in the state service within the next few weeks, Gov. Curley took no action today toward filling any of them.

Senator Cavanagh is a Democrat. He lives at 11 Milton street, Cambridge, and is in the petroleum products business. He was in the house from 1929 to 1934 and has been in the senate since then. He was born in Cambridge June 12, 1893.

Representative Philip G. Bowker of Brookline today issued the following statement on the nomination of Councillor Baker:

"Gov. Curley in nominating Councillor J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield to the bench has done a favor to the Republican party. The renegades and Benedict Arnolds in the Republican ranks are being discovered one by one by their rising to the bait offered by the Governor. In clearing our ranks of these undersirables his excellency has done a better job than we have been able to do ourselves.

"30 PIECES OF SILVER"

"For those who take the "thirty pieces of silver" we have noting but scorn. They have disgraced themselves and show their contempt for the voters who placed them in office under their Republican labels.

"In slamming shut the door of opportunity in the faces of deserving Democrats his excellency has futher helped the G. O. P. The seeds of dissension in his own party are rapidly taking root.

"The governor apparently has a free hand now and is riding high, wide and handsome, but he is riding to a fall. The day of reckoning is drawing near and the returns from yesterday's elections give positive proof that the great avalanche has started and will hit him next November."
